THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND
DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHORITY OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

ON the 26th of January 1857, the Master of the Rolls submitted to the Treasury a proposal for the publication of materials for the History of this Country from the Invasion of the Romans to the reign of Henry VIII.

The Master of the Rolls suggested that these materials should be selected for publication under competent editors without reference to periodical or chronological arrangement, without mutilation or abridgment, preference being given, in the first instance, to such materials as were most scarce and valuable.

He proposed that each chronicle or historical document to be edited should be treated in the same way as if the editor were engaged on an Editio Princeps; and for this purpose the most correct text should be formed from an accurate collation of the best MSS.

To render the work more generally useful, the Master of the Rolls suggested that the editor should give an account of the MSS. employed by him, of their age and their peculiarities; that he should add to the work a brief account of the life and times of the author, and any remarks necessary to explain the chronology; but no other note or comment was to be allowed, except what might be necessary to establish the correctness of the text.

The works to be published in octavo, separately, as they were finished; the whole responsibility of the task resting upon the editors, who were to be chosen by the Master of the Rolls with the sanction of the Treasury.

The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, after a careful consideration of the subject, expressed their opinion in a Treasury Minute, dated February 9, 1857, that the plan recommended by the Master of the Rolls "was well calculated for the accomplishment of this important national object, in an effectual and satisfactory manner, within a reasonable time, and provided proper attention be paid to economy, in making the detailed arrangements, without unnecessary expense."

They expressed their approbation of the proposal that each Chronicle and historical document should be edited in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the text of each writer, derived from a collation of the best MSS., and that no notes should be added, except such as were illustrative of the various readings. They suggested, however, that the preface to each work should contain, in addition to the particulars proposed by the Master of the Rolls, a biographical account of the author, so far as authentic materials existed for that purpose, and an estimate of his historical credibility and value.

INTRODUCTION.

THE manuscript, of which now, for the first time, a complete copy is printed, is among the most ancient, as it certainly is the most treasured, of all the muniments in the registry of the bishops of Sarum. By a sort of common consent it has been called the "Register of S. Osmund," not as having, in its present form at least, been compiled by him, or in his time, but as containing the statutes, rules, and customs made or enjoined by him to be observed in the cathedral and diocese of Sarum. And the designation may be also in some sort a tribute to the honoured memory of the greatest perhaps of our early bishops, and the virtual founder of our first cathedral. Indeed the manuscript itself is labelled "Vetus Registrum," or "The Old Register"; a fair description enough of its contents; for after all the volume is rather a collection of documents of a miscellaneous character, arranged, as will be seen, without regard to chronological order—in some places the leaves would almost seem to have been wrongly stitched together—than one connected whole.

Though the volume will more or less speak for itself, it will not be amiss to give a short summary of its varied contents.

I. The volume opens with a copy of what is called the "Consuetudinary," or, as it is entitled, "Tractatus de officiis ecclesiasticis." This occupies more than one fifth of the entire volume. On account of its technical character a translation has been appended to it.

The "Register of S. Osmund,"— why so called.

Summary of its contents.

There have also been added some notes, in which a few of the more unusual phrases and expressions are explained.

II. Next follows what may almost be described as a portion of a "Chartulary;" being a number of charters—amongst them the foundation charter of the cathedral—relating to the see of Sarum, the property of the dean and chapter, the estates belonging to those who held prebends, and the various privileges bestowed on them.

III. Then we have a document inserted of quite a distinct character,—the cotemporary record of a visitation of prebendal churches and estates by the dean, in pursuance of a statute passed in the year A.D. 1214;¹ a very valuable portion of the Osmund Register, as throwing light on the condition of the churches and the clergy in the thirteenth century, and of the various "books" and "ornaments" belonging to the decanal churches and deemed necessary for the due and reverent celebration of divine service.

IV. Following this account of the visitation of prebendal estates by the dean, we have what may be called the second portion of the "Chapter Register"; a number of documents, chiefly legal, bearing upon the various prebends belonging to the cathedral, and having reference to transactions, for the most part, during the episcopate of bishop Richard Poore.

V. Then there is given to us, what certainly is not the least interesting part of the volume, a full narrative of the removal of the see from Old to New Sarum, of the full organisation of the cathedral body, of the efforts made for the building of the new cathedral, and of its first dedication in the time of bishop Richard Poore. This portion of the Register derives especial interest from the internal evidence that we have of its having been written by the dean himself, William de Wanda, or at all events at his dictation.

VI. We have then a detailed statement of the election and appointment of Robert Bingham as the successor of bishop Richard Poore, when the latter was advanced to the see of Durham, followed by a number of Papal bulls relating to the see of Sarum, or to the claims advanced by the Church of Rome.

VII. At the end of the volume there is a cotemporary list—somewhat imperfect—of the various “treasures and ornaments” belonging to the cathedral, and in the custody of the treasurer, at the beginning of the thirteenth century.

But though of so miscellaneous character, and withal so fragmentary, the manuscript is invaluable, as giving us not only the oldest known copy of the “Consuetudinary,” but as showing us so clearly and so vividly the foundation and gradual development of a cathedral of secular canons.

Especial value of the Register of
S. Osmund.

The opening words of the “Osmund Register” plainly enough confirm our statement as to its not being the original work of the great bishop himself. For it speaks of Osmund as of “blessed memory” (felicis memoriae), and purports only to “explain the ‘persons’ and their dignities, and the customs by which the church of Sarum “is ordered and ruled after the institution of Osmund, “founder and bishop of the same.”¹ There are other statements, some of which, if not all of them, are indicated in the foot notes, which point to the same conclusion.

The original manuscript is a small folio on vellum, which, in order to its more careful preservation, is kept in a tin case. It is written in the contracted Latin of the thirteenth century. In some places, in consequence of the unusually abbreviated forms adopted by the scribe, tion of the

it is not easy of interpretation, leaving rather free scope for conjecture at times as to what was intended to be the original reading.

The "Register" may be divided, speaking roughly, into two parts.

But although, as we have seen, the volume is of so miscellaneous a character, it may be divided, roughly speaking, into two parts,—the former of them containing what is usually termed the "Consuetudinary of St. Osmund,"—the latter the series of charters and documents, all more or less bearing on the foundation of the cathedral at Old Sarum, the foundation of a cathedral body, the treasures belonging to it, and the history of its prebendal or dependent churches. As the manuscript itself is of such extent as cannot be conveniently contained within the limits of a single volume, it is proposed to confine the remarks in this preface to that portion alone which contains the "Consuetudinary," and which is comprised in the first 19 folios (pp. 1–186). In a preface to a second volume an opportunity will be more conveniently offered of commenting on the contents of the latter portion of the manuscript.

The "Consuetudinary,"—its purpose, and original
tion.

A few remarks will not be out of place, first of all, as to the general purpose of the Consuetudinary, and the probable reasons which led to its original compilation.

Among churchmen of the eleventh century there was no one better known or more esteemed than Osmund, who, in the year 1078, became bishop of Sarum. His diocese, uniting in itself the two older ones of Sherborne and Ramsbury, was by no means of small extent, for it comprised what we now call the counties of Dorset, Wilts, and Berks. Without entering on the doubtful question whether he was earl of Dorset, we know that he was of exalted position in Normandy, his native country, that he was connected with William the Conqueror by ties of affinity, and that he was employed by him in high and important offices. He had therefore special opportunities for carrying out, at all events in the church which he ruled, any improvement that might be necessary, either in its liturgical forms or its outward ritual.

That some such change was needful, in the direction of greater uniformity, in the church in England, must have been generally admitted. In various dioceses there were no inconsiderable variations. During the tenth and eleventh centuries these increased greatly, each bishop directing such observances, as he judged best, to be used in his own diocese. Of course, in the eucharistic office,—at all events in the “canon of the mass,”—the essentials of the service were uniformly observed; yet even here there were variations of greater or lesser importance.

There were many reasons too, why the accession of Osmund to the see of Sarum in the year 1078, was a golden opportunity for effecting a greater uniformity. The whole land was then fully subordinated under one head, and so facilities for intercourse were naturally increased. It was at Old Sarum that king William met his “witan,” in the year 1086, and that all the landowners that were of any account over all England came to him, and, submitting themselves to him, swore to him oaths of fealty, and pledged themselves to be faithful to him against all other men.¹ And so it was not unfitting that from Old Sarum should proceed the “Con-suetudinary,” which should do something at all events towards welding together as one the various dioceses throughout England. Moreover the high position and acknowledged influence of Osmund, the valuable help that he obtained in his work from the band of canons whom he associated with himself, who are said to have been famed not only for their skill in music but for their learning generally,—William of Malmesbury speaks of the “Canonicorum claritas cantibus et literatura juxta nobilium,”—all tended to make that work a successful one, and to gain acceptance for the "Use of Sarum" in other dioceses besides his own.

The work of Osmund not an original one.

It must however be distinctly understood that this work of Osmund was not an original one. The arrangements in part may be so described, but, as a whole, the work was a compilation from ancient sources. The good bishop invented or introduced little himself, though there were, as has been pointed out in various foot-notes, some peculiarities in the Sarum rite by which it was distinguished from that of other churches. But what he did was this,—to make selections out of the practices which he saw in use around him, and so to arrange the sundry offices and services, that his clergy, who were both Norman and English, might have one uniform rule to guide them in discharging their several functions. Moreover the "Use of Sarum" was drawn up for his own diocese, and as far as he was concerned, promulgated in his own diocese only; for he at least had no authority to do more than this. Still, though there were other "Uses," such as those of York, Hereford, Bangor, and Lincoln, the general acceptance of the "Use of Sarum," not only in the south of England but in other parts of the kingdom, is unquestionable. Indeed, John Brompton, a Cistercian, and abbot of Jervaux, in Yorkshire, writing within a hundred years of Osmund's decease, says expressly,—"Osmundus composuit librum ordinalem ecclesiastici officii quem 'Consuetudinarium' vocant, quo fere nunc tota Anglia, Wallia, utitur, et Hibernia."¹

Prevalence of the "Use of Sarum."

Of course these words of John Brompton refer to some earlier copy of Osmund's work, than, as far as we know, is now in existence. And, though the sentence admits of a more general interpretation, it has, when translated strictly,—as implying that he speaks of a "liber ordinalis" (= Ordinal) which in his time (c. 1198) was called "Consuetudinarium" (= Consuetudinary),—led to some confusion. No doubt these two terms are used sometimes in a sense more extended than their original meaning; in fact, so to speak, they overlap one another; at all events the term "Consuetudinary" is so employed as to include an "Ordinal;" nevertheless they are distinct works. In truth we have, in the "Consuetudinary" now printed, more than one allusion to the "Ordinal" as a perfectly distinct production. Thus, at p. 102, in the directions for the service on Easter Day we read, "Peracta processione sicut in Ordinali describitur," "&c." and, at p. 146, in the directions for the celebrating mass on the first Sunday in Advent we read, "Quibus vero temporibus diaconi, et subdiaconi, casulis, dalmaticis, et tunicis et albis uti debeant, in Ordinali plane describitur."

The broad distinction to be drawn between these two documents, (for Osmund compiled both an "Ordinal" and a "Consuetudinary") may perhaps be thus expressed; that whilst, in the former, the officiating minister learnt what service was to be carried out, in the latter he was instructed as to the special outward forms by which it was to be accompanied. The "Ordinal" was the book which regulated the whole duty of the canonical "hours," as well as the celebration of the mass,—to use Lyndwood's words, "Liber in quo ordinatur modus dicendi et solemnizandi divinum officium." There might be learnt from it, what festivals were to be observed, and the proper office appointed throughout the year, at least so far as any changes were concerned from the common service of the day; what lessons were to be read at any given service; what responses were to be sung; what "commemorations" were to be made during the week. It indicated much the same thing, and was only another name, for the directory, and in the "Ordinale," published at Antwerp in 1488, there is a section expressly headed "Directorium Sacerdotum." The "Consuetudinary" dealt, as its name implies, with the customs of the church, both as regards the members of the cathedral body who were severally responsible for their performance, and the precise character of the observances themselves. It consequently lays down the duties and privileges of all and each of such members, from the bishop and dean and canons down to the choristers, defining accurately the relations in which they stood to each other, and explaining the part they were to take in celebrating mass, or in drawing up the weekly "table," or in the daily reading in the chapter-house, or in the ceremonial observances appropriate to certain seasons, or in processions within and without the church (no unimportant portion of the worship of the eleventh and following centuries), or in offices for the dead. But this is to be the better understood by looking at the headings of the various sections themselves.

Allusions to an old and original copy, now lost,
of the "Consuetudinary."

It is not contended for a moment, as has been already implied, that what we have is an original copy of the "Consuetudinary." There is internal evidence, of which we shall speak presently, as to its date being certainly some two centuries after Osmund's decease. Still, no doubt, all the material portions were copied from some older document, with such modifications as the altered circumstances of the church itself, and the development of its ritual from time to time demanded. Indeed there are allusions here and there, in subsequent portions of the Osmund Register, to a "textus parvus, et vetus, pauperis pretii,"¹ from which the transcripts have been made. In one case the document to which this notice is appended is of singular interest, as being a copy of the original "Institutio Osmundi."² We are told, moreover, that bishop Hugh de Nonant, who would seem probably at one time to have been a canon of Sarum, from his arbitration in a dispute concerning the prebend of Hurstbourne (see p. 226), borrowed unstintedly from the "book of Osmund," when, during his episcopate at Lichfield (1188-98), he enacted certain ordinances for the government of his chapter, and the regulation of the services and ritual of his cathedral. He not only, we are told, adopted the ordinances of Osmund but kept so closely to the letter of them as to make it clear that he did little else than copy verbatim such passages as he thought fit to embody in his own statutes for Lichfield.¹ Moreover, the "Use of Sarum," which no doubt included the rule as to ritual laid down in the "Consuetudinary," was introduced into Ireland by authority of the synod of Cashel in the year 1172, and into Scotland some seventy years later; and, in both their cases, a copy of the document must have been obtained from a more ancient manuscript than we now possess.²

We can have little hope of ever lighting on the "old and small codex," reputed to be of "no worth" in the thirteenth century, but which we of the nineteenth would deem a very precious find, should it by any chance had been hidden away in some secret corner by men of a previous generation, utterly unconscious of its value. Our concern is with the text of the manuscript as we have it—we are dealing now more especially with the first nineteen folios which contain the "Consuetudinary," or, as it is called, "Tractatus de officiis ecclesiasticis,"—and the first question to be determined is, whether we have any definite statements in it, or internal evidence, whereby we may assign an approximate date to it.

No one, accustomed to judge of ancient writing, could have any hesitation in pronouncing the manuscript of Probable date of the present manuscript.

² The way in which portions of the "Consuetudinary" were engrafted into the statutes of other cathedrals, is well illustrated in the volume, edited by Dr. Simpson, of the "Statutes of St. Paul's," and in that, recently issued by Mr. H. Reynolds, containing the "Statutes of Wells."

the Osmund Register to be of a date as early as the thirteenth century. This is the declared opinion of such accurate judges as Mr. Maskell, Dr. Rock, and of others equally qualified to give a trustworthy judgment in the matter. But there are internal evidences which are convincing enough, and which, when considered as a whole, narrow the question before us very considerably, and enable us to fix the probable date of the manuscript pretty accurately.

Sundry reasons for an approximate date.

First of all, in § xxi. (p. 39), we have, reckoned among double feasts, that of the HOLY TRINITY. Now it is well known that the festival of the Holy and Undivided Trinity was first appointed to be held on the octave of Whit-Sunday—the anniversary of his own consecration—by archbishop Thomas à Becket in 1162, some sixty years and more after the decease of Osmund, and that it was not until the fourteenth century that the festival was appointed for the church of Rome by Pope John XXII. The fact is interesting, not only as showing us that the date of the “Consuetudinary,” as we have it, could not have been previous to 1162, but as proving the right exercised by church in England of regulating her own ceremonial observances and ritual, without interference on the part of the church of Rome.

Then again, in that same section, we have also named, as double feasts, “Christmas Day and the four following “days”; and these were, the festivals of S. Stephen, S. John the Evangelist, the Holy Innocents, and S. Thomas of Canterbury; moreover, in § lvi. (p. 99) the festival of “S. Thomas the Martyr” is expressly named among lesser double feasts. The date of the canonization of S. Thomas à Becket was not till the year A.D. 1173. The “Consuetudinary” in its present form cannot therefore be of an earlier date.

But a further proof of its having been compiled, as we now have it, at least fifty years subsequently even to that time, is furnished by an entry in § xlv. (p. 79); for there we have mention of the festival of "S. Michael 'in monte tumba ;'" and this was first appointed to be kept as a lesser holiday by the council of Oxford in the year A.D. 1222. So the date of our manuscript must not in any case be fixed earlier than that year, or more than a century after the death of Osmund.

Another fact, however, comes to our aid in fixing more precisely the date of our copy of the "Consuetudinary." A copy of the same original manuscript, from which the present Sarum "Consuetudinary" was made or arranged, or, it may be, of this very manuscript itself, was furnished for the use of the cathedral of St. Patrick, Dublin, the same having been erected into a cathedral church and modelled "ad exemplar insignis ecclesie Sarum" by Henry de Loundres, who held that see from A.D. 1213-28. The history of this Dublin copy of the "Consuetudinary," which is almost a verbatim copy of the one at Sarum, and which has been pronounced by Dr. Todd and others to be of the writing of the thirteenth century, is not a little remarkable. In 1846 it became by private purchase, somewhere in London, the property of the bishop of Down and Connor. It was afterwards given by bishop Mant to the Rev. Dr. Todd, one of the Fellows of Trinity College, Dublin. Shortly after his decease in 1869, it became, by purchase, the property of the University of Cambridge, in the public library of which it is now in safe keeping. It was printed in extenso by Dr. Todd, in vols. 30 and 31 of the British Magazine, and he speaks of it as "the original copy sent over from Salisbury for the officials at Dublin to use in preparing their own ritual." It is the only portion of the "Osmund Register" of which we have a cotemporary copy. A careful collation of it has been made with the Sarum manuscript, and in several cases the readings of the Dublin manuscript—it is referred to in the notes as MS. D.—throw considerable light in the true meaning of the Consuetudinary.

Description of the Dublin manuscript of the "Consuetudinary."

Probable occasion of the re-arrangement of the "Consuetudinary."

Now we are told in the Osmund Register, in its account of the building of the new cathedral and its first dedication in the time of bishop Richard Poore, a portion which will appear in our second volume, that among the prelates present in 1225, when such of the cathedral as was then built was solemnly consecrated by bishop Richard Poore, was Henry de Loundres, already alluded to, the same archbishop of Dublin who constituted St. Patrick's a cathedral church. Bearing in mind this fact, and moreover that the removal of the cathedral from Old to New Sarum was an occasion on which it would seem not only likely but almost necessary to re-construct the Consuetudinary and adapt it to the altered circumstances of the times, and taking into account other internal evidences as to its probable date, we can hardly come to any other conclusion than this ;—that whereas the original manuscript of the Consuetudinary which has perished, or at least been lost, was drawn up under the direction of Osmund himself for use in the cathedral at Old Sarum about the year A.D. 1078, the date of Osmund's consecration, the present manuscript was in the main copied from it, and possibly enlarged and modified, in any case adapted for use in the cathedral which was at the very time being gradually built at Sarum, as also in the church of St. Patrick's, Dublin. This date would probably be from 1215–30 ; for a work like the Consuetudinary must have taken some time to bring it to a satisfactory completion.

Probable helpers in the work.

And without all doubt, there were at that very time several members of the cathedral body at Sarum, who, as we seem to feel almost certain, must have had some hand in re-arranging the Consuetudinary. There was Richard Poore, first dean, and subsequently bishop of Sarum, the founder of the new cathedral, who would have necessarily felt the deepest interest in all that concerned the honour of his well-loved church and the dignity of its outward ritual. Then there was William de Wanda, first of all precentor and afterwards dean, to whose pen, or at least dictation, we owe the interesting account of the efforts made for the building of the new cathedral, which, as we have already intimated, will appear in our second volume, and who threw himself heart and soul into this work, going himself at midwinter to the diocese of London as a "predicator," or collector of alms, in behalf of the new cathedral. And who can doubt that Edmund Rich (afterwards S. Edmund, archbishop of Canterbury), who held the dignity of treasurer, lent a willing hand in the same good work? It is almost impossible to read § v. (p. 9) of the Consuetudinary, which explains the office and duties of the treasurer of the cathedral, and details the heavy charges on that dignitary for lights and other accessories of divine worship, recollecting at the same time that it was now that the prebend of Calne was permanently annexed to the treasurership for the very purpose that they who held that dignity might be able to continue to supply such "lights" and other "ornaments" in the same generous and unstinted way as Edmund Rich had done, without coming to the conclusion that that great and good man helped forward a work the special object of which was the more seemly and reverent worship of Almighty God.

And so the conclusion to which we come is this, that the date of the copy of the Consuetudinary which we are now dealing with, was between A.D. 1215-30, and that it was copied in great part from an older copy now no longer to be found, and re-arranged, with such modifications or additions as had in the course of years become necessary, for the services of the cathedral which at that time was being built at New Sarum.

present manuscript
c. 1215-1230.

It may be mentioned in passing, that the "Consuetudinary" from the Sarum manuscript has been printed by Dr. Rock in an appendix to the last volume of his "Church of our Fathers." The copy, from which he so printed it, was furnished to him by Mr. Hatcher, the historian of Salisbury, whose son transcribed it from the original manuscript. There is also a beautifully executed, and singularly accurate copy of it, in the transcript of the Osmund Register belonging to the dean and chapter, and preserved in their muniment room, which was made in the year 1833, at the expense of Bishop Burgess, and which, after his decease, was generously presented to the cathedral by his widow.¹

The question as to the completeness of the "Consuetudinary."

A question has been raised by Dr. Rock as to the entireness of the text of the "Consuetudinary." One thing is certain, that from Maundy Thursday till Easter Eve, the manuscript which we have gives no directions, though in that interval, which of course included Good Friday, some of the most solemn and impressive ceremonies were performed.² Amongst these, was the mass of the pre-sanctified, the blessing of milk and honey, the washing of the feet and of the altars, the stripping the altars of their linen cloths, the creeping to the cross and reverently kissing it, the burial of the rood.³ But, with this exception, the conclusion to which Dr. Rock comes is that our copy of the Consuetudinary is complete. "A question," he says, "will naturally be put, have we now got it as a whole as it came from Osmund's pen? Whether any more early copies of this interesting work be still in existence we do not know, and are therefore hindered from asking the question in as decisive a manner as we might, had we been able to have collated our Salisbury with other manuscripts. By looking, however, at the internal construction of the work, and beholding how completely its arrangement is fitted to its purpose, the likelihood is, that, if we except the service for Good Friday, and some of that belonging to Holy Saturday, we possess the 'Treatise on the Divine Offices' as complete as it was bequeathed to the world by S. Osmund. In such a book, that holy bishop would

Though the Consuetudinary will more or less speak The various portions of it. for itself, yet a brief summary of its contents may not be out of place. It is very carefully and systematically drawn up, and may be divided into four or five fairly distinct portions; though under each such portion there are sections on subjects more or less independent, such as the daily reading in the chapter house, the incensing of the altar, the blessing of the fonts, and the rules as to double and simple feasts.

I. The first eleven sections (pp. 1–21) have reference On the duties and rights of the several members of the cathedral body. to the members of the cathedral body, beginning with the “quatuor personæ,” i.e., the dean, the precentor, the chancellor, and treasurer; and then the various canons, and the chief “officials,” namely, the four archdeacons as “officials” of the bishop, and the subdean and subchanter as “officials” of the cathedral, all of whom had “seats in choir,” though not necessarily a “voice in chapter.” The rights and privileges, together with the duties devolving on each of these “personæ,” ² as well as on the several canons, are there explained, the residence required of them distinctly set forth, and the punishments of those who transgressed the rules laid down.

Position
of the bishop in the cathedral body.

It is impossible to read the sections relating to the dignity and duties of the Dean without seeing in them the real cause of the divorce that has taken place between the bishop and the mother church; which nevertheless derives its very name from the "cathedra" of the bishop being in it. It is true that, throughout the "Consuetudinary," the leading part in all the services is assigned to the bishop—even when the dean is directed to perform certain functions, it is almost invariably added "unless the bishop be present"—nevertheless, as is expressed in the statutes of 1319,—where the dean is called the "immediate ordinary,"—his authority in the cathedral, and over its members, "in regimine animarum et morum correctione," was supreme. All causes relating to the chapter were to be heard by him and to be determined by him, with the advice of assessors from the capitular body; the various "canons," though they received "institution" from the bishop, obtained "possession" from the dean; he assigning them their "place in choir" and their "voice in chapter." The vicars, moreover, were especially under his jurisdiction; he admitting them on the nomination of the several canons whose vicars they might be, or, failing such nomination, appointing them himself. This independent authority of the dean was reflected on his canons, for each of them held similar authority in their several prebends, many of them enjoying "archidiaconal"¹ jurisdiction in them. Moreover there is a most important privilege secured to them in the Consuetudinary, which is thus expressed:—"Quod canonici in nullo episcopo respondeant nisi in capitulo, et iudicio capituli tantum pareant."² Putting all these things together, even though in formularies and other documents, a clear line seems to be drawn, defining their several powers and privileges, one can easily see how, without taking into account the almost natural encroachments of successive centuries, the authority of the bishop over his cathedral came to be regarded as less and less, till, as Bishop Denison remarked, though he had "extraordinary jurisdiction as visitor, he really seemed to have no ordinary jurisdiction as bishop."

Of course our concern is not to argue the matter, but simply to give the reasons for such a state of things having come to pass. One fact, namely, that of the bishop being a canon of the cathedral—more than one of them speaks of himself as "con-canonikus"—is everywhere apparent. He was always possessed of a distinct "prebend"—for some centuries now it has been that of "Potterne," and previously either that of "Major Pars Altaris" or "Horton,"—in virtue of which he had a special stall assigned to him, in which he sat in his choir-habit when not actually taking part in any "office," and which gave him the right of being present—a right I conceive existing to this day—at all meetings of chapter. Special psalms, moreover, were assigned to the bishop, as Prebendary of Potterne, as to all the other canons, which he was to recite daily, thus completely identifying him with the cathedral. Indeed there is one instance, in a formal document, in which this fact comes out in a striking way. For when, in the year 1392, during the episcopate of John Waltham, a composition was entered into as to his right and mode of visiting the cathedral body—a claim which had long been resisted—it is there directed that the bishop should each day enter the chapter "ut canonicus," and then if any matter were brought before him needing correction he should "ut episcopus" enjoin that it should be corrected. There is, to say the least, something very pleasing in the thought of the bishop, even when acting as a judge, not losing the character of a canon—an elder brother, assisted by brethren, deciding concerning some offending brother.

On the ordering of the choir.

II. The twelfth section of the Consuetudinary is headed "De chori ordinatione," and this and some twelve subsequent sections (pp. 21-49) refer to matters more or less bearing on the "ordering of the choir," and of the "clerici," whose duties called them thither from time to time; such, for instance, as their mode of entering or leaving the choir, or in passing from one part of it to the other, rules as to the time by which at each service they must enter it in order to be reckoned as present, of standing or kneeling at various portions of the services, of turning at certain times to the altar, of the "habit" to be worn by the various "clerics," of the office of the rectores chori (or "rulers of the choir"), one of the reforms, it is said, introduced by Osmund himself. And then, as bearing on the last named office, we have two sections, one defining what its duties were, the other explaining what were "double" and which were "simple" feasts. On one or two of these matters only is it necessary here to make any remark.

How the canons and others were arranged in choir.

The canons and others ministering in the cathedral, when in choir, occupied one or other of three rows of seats,¹ the word used is formæ, arranged on either side. On the first or lowest "form" were the "pueri" or choristers, who were divided into pueri canonici (or those who were on the foundation or roll of the cathedral,) and "pueri non-canonici," (or what we should call probationers,) among the latter probably being some who served as acolytes. On the second, or middle row, sat the junior canons, the junior vicars, and other clerics ministering in the choir, that is, the subdeacons and clerks in minor orders (minorum ordinum clerici). On in his proper place, so that they need not "jump over" the forms;—

 "Intrantes clerici in locis suis ita
 "se ordinate recipiant ne formas
 "inordinate transiliant."

the first, or upper row, sat the chief dignitaries, the senior canons, the archdeacons, the subdean, the subchanter, the priest-vicars, and by special privilege a few of the deacon-vicars. The “terminal” stalls were occupied by the dean and chancellor on the south side; by the precentor and treasurer on the north side. Each canon had his place either on the “decani” or “can-toris” side, as they came to be called from the dean and precentor who respectively occupied the terminal stalls. Indeed, in course of time, the fifty-two canons came to be ranged in four divisions (each of thirteen) called respectively the “quartarium” or quarter of the dean, the precentor, the chancellor, the treasurer. There is nothing here to lead us to think, that, in earliest days, there were any “return-stalls” at the western end of the choir. There was probably a low screen between the choir and nave,¹ as we read of the “choir-gates,” over which, or possibly on one side of which, was a large cross, in front of which the treasurer was bound to provide a large light. On either side of the screen there would seem to have been “pulpits;” at all events there was one which is called “pulpitum in aquila,” from the lectern or eagle which served as a desk, and from this were read the epistles and gospels.²

stalls.

The lecterns or

¹ On this point we have an important testimony in a work of Durandus which is especially valuable, as he died in 1296, and so witnesses to contemporary custom. He tells us that in primitive churches the screen enclosing the choir was only elbow-height—usque ad appodiationem—and that such custom was more or less observed in his own time. The whole passage is as follows:—“In primitiva ecclesia peribolus, id est, paries, qui circuit chorum non elevabatur nisi usque ad appodiationem,

² The reader stood at the lectern, which was placed just within the western entrance of the choir, the clerics being directed to turn towards him. Thus § xvii. (p. 30) we read, “Chorus ad altare se inclinet antequam ad lectorem evangelii se convertat.”

The treasurer was bound to provide five lights, "super murum post pulpitum lectionum," an arrangement hardly consistent with return-stalls. It is true that there is another pulpit mentioned, from which the gospel was to be read on certain days (p. 161), which was placed in the south side of the presbytery for the occasion, a moveable one in fact,—for the words of the Consuetudinary are, "Evangelium non in pulpito in aquila, sed in presbyterio, super pulpito ad hoc parato, legitur, versus aquilonem converso diacono, quod unus ceterariorum post lectam epistolam in loco debito disponat et ornet,"—but this can hardly be the one alluded to.¹ It is generally supposed that the union of the two pulpits formed the rood-loft of the fourteenth and later centuries, and accounts for the custom that at length prevailed of reading the gospel and the epistle from that part of the church.

How the "clerics" entered the choir.

It does not appear that, in entering the choir for any of the services, the "clerics" went in anything like a procession. The heading of § xiv. (p. 22) of the Consuetudinary "Quando ad singulas horas chorum intrare licet" distinctly implies this. They entered not only at different times, but from different parts of the cathedral. Those who entered from the eastern portion, when they reached the "gradus altaris" were to bow first to the altar, and then to the bishop if he were present; those entering from the west were, in like manner, first to bow to the altar, and then to the dean. In passing from one side of the choir to the other, both in going and returning, the like "inclination" to the altar was to be made. Minute directions also are given as to the turning to the altar at certain portions of the services, such as at each "Gloria Patri," at the commencement of the "Te Deum laudamus," at the various creeds; as also concerning standing and kneeling in choir, and the

On these matters, however, the Consuetudinary will speak for itself. A few words perhaps may not unfitly be added respecting the "Rulers of the choir" (rectores chori), and their duties and offices, because their introduction formed part of the changes made by Bishop Osmund in the ritual observances of his church, having probably been derived by him from the church of Rouen.

The "Rulers of the choir" were really the deputies of the precentor for leading the choir service. They had not only the general control of the singing, but, amongst other duties, had to look after and watch over the choristers, and to see that they did not misbehave or go out of the choir without leave. During the time of service these rulers of the choir, arrayed in silken copes and furred almuces, and each bearing a staff of beautiful workmanship, occupied stools ranged from north to south. It was for the first ruler to ask at the beginning of evensong in what tones the psalms were to be chanted, and by whom among the senior canons the antiphons were to be intoned. These instructions were communicated to the other rulers of the choir, and through them, to the several "ministri" who took part in the service. According to the dignity of the feast so varied the number of rulers of the choir. For all Sundays, and feasts of the second class, there were to be selected two canons of the lower or second form; for all the higher festivals, four canons, two from the higher and two from the lower form. To say that the choir was "ruled" on any given day meant that it was a festival of one or the other class.

But a reference to the full and detailed statement of the office of the rulers of the choir, as contained in pp. 42-46, will show how important a part was assigned to them in the direction of the various services in the cathedral.

Directions for "executing the office" on the various days.

III. We commence in § xxv. (p. 48) a series of minute and particular directions as to the mode of "executing the office," on various days, commencing with Advent Sunday, and, with the exception already referred to, embracing the course of the ecclesiastical year. Interspersed with these, and bearing directly on the various ritual observances usual on certain days, are instructions for incensing the altar and choir; for blessing the holy water with which the several altars as well as the various worshippers were aspersed; and for the daily reading in the chapter-house after prime-song. In this portion also we have a minute description of the "Tabulæ," or "Tables,"¹ in which those who were responsible for the various services, as well as the way in which they were to be carried out, were entered from week to week. This portion of the Consuetudinary occupies no less than forty-four sections, i.e., from § 25 to § 69 (pp. 49--119).

Two matters, each of some little interest, it may be remarked in passing, are brought before us, or illustrated in this portion of the Consuetudinary.

The daily reading in the chapter-house.

(a.) The first of these is contained in § 30 (p. 58) which is entitled "De ordinatione clericorum in capitulo," and which was for the daily reading in the chapter-house. This took place each morning after prime-song; that is, soon after six o'clock. Walking in procession to the chapter-house, all the members of the cathedral body on wax spread over a thin piece of wood) which, after the various entries were duly inscribed upon it, was left hanging in the chapter-house. He refers us to the Benedictional of S. Æthelwold (p. 104) to understand their ancient shape and the mode of writing upon them.

present seated themselves in due order; the Bishop occupying the central seat, having on his right hand the dean, the chancellor, the archdeacons of Dorset and of Wilts (=Sarum), the sub-dean; on his left hand the precentor, the treasurer, the archdeacon of Berks and the other archdeacon of Wilts, and the succentor. Then followed the canons and vicars, whether priests, deacons, or sub-deacons, and after them the "clerics" of the minor orders. The "pueri," or boys, including in them not only the choir, but others serving in some of the inferior offices, all stood on the floor, ranged on either side of the "pulpit," or, strictly speaking, "lectern." One boy, habited in a surplice (superpelliceo), whose duty it was for the week (and who was hence called "ebdomadarius"), read from the lectern the "martyrologie" and afterwards gave out the "obits." After the boy had gone through the list, the officiating priest, standing behind the reader, said "Animæ eorum, et animæ omnium fidelium defunctorum, per Dei misericordiam requiescant in pace." And then he added, "Preciosa in conspectu Domini, &c."

Then came a lection out of some pious writer. These lections (collationes) were arranged previously by the chancellor. According to Clement Maidstone (Crede Michi, fol. 56), the writings of Haimo, one of Alcuin's scholars, used to be read wherever the Sarum rite prevailed. After the lection, if any member of the cathedral body had been negligent of duty, he now asked forgiveness of the Dean and his brethren. Then, if it were a Sunday or a holy day, the boy who had read the lection read also the "Tabula," which was always made out by the precentor, naming (1.)—from among the canons—the rulers of the choir, the readers of the lessons, the chanters of the responses at mattins, the celebrant at high mass; and (2.)—from among the "pueri"—who was to read the chapter, to carry the candles, to bear the holy water, or to be "thurifer," or "acolyte," i.e., to bring in the chalice with the corporal cloths during the week, or during the octave of the festival.¹

Reference is made to these matters, not merely to show how carefully all arrangements were made for the various services and offices, but also to explain how, in these early days, all members of the cathedral body, from the bishop downwards to the youngest of the "pueri" or choristers, regarded themselves as part of one religious household, not only attending the services in the cathedral itself, but also meeting daily in the chapter-house for private devotion and edification; although, as members of a secular foundation, they were bound by no vows, and lived each in their separate dwellings.

On the original position of the "High Altar."

(b.) A second matter on which light is thrown by this portion of the Consuetudinary is the original position of the High Altar in the cathedral at Salisbury.

From the subjects of the roof-paintings in the choir, all of which, from the entrance to the choir as far eastward as to the arch in a line with the arch of the lesser transept are sacred in their designs, and culminate just above that arch in a majestic figure of Our Lord in glory, whereas, beyond that point, the roof-painting is not only of secular subjects, but, as it appears, inferior in point of execution, it has been conjectured that the High Altar originally stood under "the Majesty," or at all events under the arch immediately to the east of it. An incidental confirmation of this view may be perhaps derived from the fact, that the capitals of the pillars supporting this arch are foliated, and that they are the only similar ones so decorated through the cathedral.

That the High Altar stood in a detached position, at some distance from any wall, seems clear enough from the directions given in § 25 (pp. 51-52) for the incensing of the altar, the priest being bidden to incense it first "in medio," then "in dextra parte," then "in sinistra," and then follow these words "Deinde thurificando altare circueat,"—that is, he shall go right round the altar. So again in § 68 (p. 119) the priest is directed to go to the High Altar and sprinkle it on every side; "et ipsum circumquâque aspergat." Such expressions are certainly not consistent with the idea that the altar stood originally against the eastern end of the presbytery; as in the former case some space must have been left for the swinging of the censer, and in the latter the priest was certainly accompanied by the boy carrying the water.

But we read also in § 67 (p. 116) of the altar "in medio presbyterii," and in the following section of "certain of the laity standing "on either side of the "presbytery" for the purposes of being "asperged" (p. 118), expressions, which considered with their contexts (as has been shown in the notes at pp. 116–118), can only be fairly interpreted on the supposition that at the first, for it is fully admitted that was removed eastward at an early period, the High Altar stood at the point we have already indicated, under the figure of Our Lord in glory in a line with the arches forming the eastern aisles of the lesser transepts.¹

IV.—At § 69, and thenceforward to § 92 (pp. 119–145), we have a number of minute directions as to the "Processions," both inside the cathedral—a custom, in the form in which it is ordained in the Consuetudinary, peculiar to the Sarum Use²—and also outside the cathe-

On solemn processions.

² Solemn processions were used on important occasions, and especially in times of trouble and difficulty; litanies being then recited as a means of averting threatened judgment and supplicating help from Almighty God. Thus, in the Dunham Reg., fol. 104, under date of A.D. 1388, we have this entry, "Episcopus [John Waltham] mandat processionem pro "pace regis et regni." Many other instances of a similar character might be mentioned.

dral ; and amongst them of those on the Rogation Days, or, as they were called, the Gang-days. No one can read the Consuetudinary without at once perceiving how important a part these solemn processions formed in the ceremonial observances at Sarum.¹ No less than twenty-three sections are on this subject, minute directions being given for the special variations, or additions, to be made on certain days or occasions. A brief account of one of the simplest of these processions, that on the first Sunday in Advent, may be given in illustration. First walked the sacristæ (or virgers); then the boy carrying the holy water, then the cross-bearer. Next followed two acolytes abreast, then the thurifer, then the sub-deacon, the deacon, the priest, who were tabled for the week ; then the junior canons, and after them the senior canons two and two; then the chief dignitaries, duly vested each one according to the instructions, then the bishop, in a silken cope, with his mitre and pastoral staff. The procession went out by the north door of the presbytery, and proceeded right round the presbytery, the priest, as they walked on, sprinkling the several altars; then it advanced down the south aisle as far as the font, and then, passing into the nave, walked as far as the entrance to the choir where a "station" was made, the boy bearing the holy water and the acolyte standing at the step before the cross (ad gradum ante crucem), when the priest, standing himself in the midst, having said the accustomed prayers, they entered the choir. After that, the priest having, at the choir-step, said the versicle and prayer appointed, he with his attendants went through the south door into the cemetery of the canons, for the purpose of aspersing it, and offering prayers for the departed.

procession on the first Sunday in Advent.

The procession, it will have been noticed, on the occasion described, left the choir by the north presbytery door and turned to the right—to the region of warmth, and light, and brightness—so that in returning it might follow the sun's seeming path in the heavens. On occasions of woe and sadness the usage was to turn to the left, the side of gloom and darkness, to go, not along with, but against, the sun. Thus of the monks of Winchester, in the Winton Annals, it is said, that on one occasion of sadness, "processionem nudis pedibus contra solis cursum . . . fecerunt."¹ It has been already remarked, that walking within the church in procession, singing the litanies each Wednesday and Friday during Lent, was peculiar to the Sarum Use.

On high festivals, such, for example, as Ascension Day, not only were the number of attendants increased—Procession on high festivals. there were, for instance, three acolytes, each bearing a cross, and two thurifers, with a number of banners, and in particular two, one of which was called "LEO" and the other "DRACO," symbolizing, it is said, how the "Lion of the tribe of Judah" had, by his uprising to heaven, won his last fight with the devil "the great dragon"—but certain relics, in a shrine, were carried by canons clad in silken copes. On this occasion, the procession advanced from the choir down the nave, and so through the great western door; and then, turning to the right, went round the church and cemetery, re-entering at the western door. They then proceeded up the nave, and halting at the choir-entrance, as before, for the accustomed prayers and ceremonies, went back to their accustomed places in the choir.

On Rogation Days the processions took a still wider range. On one of these days, with their banners of the "LION" and the "DRAGON," going out by the south door of the church and then through the western gate of the city, and so round the city on its north side, they Processions on Rogation Days.

would enter one of the churches, and, after celebrating mass there, would return to the cathedral through the eastern city gate. On another they would go first through the east gate to some church, where having in like manner celebrated mass, they would then return through the western city gate, after perambulating the city on its south side.

But on this and many other matters connected with this portion of the Consuetudinary, such as the procession, and its attendant ceremonies, on Maundy Thursday, that on Easter Eve for the hallowing of the paschal fire, or the blessing of the fonts, or that on Low Sunday (Dominica in Albis), when they who had been recently baptised laid aside their white robes or chrysms, or the processions "venerationis causâ," or for rendering the last offices to a deceased member of the cathedral body, we have hardly space to enter. Certainly in many cases there was a symbolism in the outward ceremonies, that was not only very impressive but very instructive also. Of course it was an age in which much of the general teaching was by outward ritual; but it did realise in any case the true nature of worship, which is primarily, of course, the giving glory to God, rather than—as is now too commonly thought—the obtaining blessings for ourselves; the truth being, that, in proportion as we render of our own to God, we may look for grace from Him—that here at least it is true "There is that giveth and yet increaseth." Of course all this elaborate ceremonial had its attendant evils; for, notwithstanding its apparent devotion, its tendency was to become mechanical, and so perhaps at times only to awaken a desire for knowledge which in itself it could never satisfy.

On the proper celebration of mass.

V. The last general division of the Consuetudinary relates chiefly to the due celebration of mass, very minute and elaborate directions being given (pp. 146-170) for its performance on different days and various times, and respecting the attendant ceremonies, and the ministers who should officiate or assist at them. Then follow five concluding sections (pp. 170-184) relating to such matters as the covering of the images, and the veil which shut off the sanctuary, during the season of Lent; the special services on Maundy Thursday, such as the lighting the candles at matins, the hallowing of the oils, the "vigiliæ mortuorum," or offices for the dead, the special services to be rendered at the decease or anniversary of the various dignitaries or officials of the cathedral. But of these we can only make a passing mention, by way of completing a summary of the Consuetudinary, and must refer our readers to the "treatise" itself, which, published as it is with a translation, and explanatory notes, will it is hoped not only be intelligible but interesting to our readers.

Such then, as we have endeavoured to describe it, is the remarkable "Tractate" bearing the name of S. Osmund, which we usually term the "Consuetudinary," and which, as regards ritual observance, is the authorised exposition of the "USE of SARUM." Drawn up originally by Osmund for his cathedral at Old Sarum, it was re-edited, and possibly enlarged or modified, in the days of Bishop Richard Poore. To be understood, it must of course be read together with the "Ordinal," and no doubt some of the directions were to be interpreted by the customs, well understood and fully acknowledged by the church itself. But such as it is, contained in nineteen folios, written in contracted Latin, and only too possibly by the hand of Richard Poore or his good dean William de Wanda, or at least at their dictation, it became the most ancient and authentic copy of the statute-book of ecclesiastical ceremonial for the church, in by far the greater portion of England; and such it continued to be up to the time of the Reformation in the sixteenth century.

The authority of the "Consuetudinary" acknowledged in the time of Henry VIII.

A striking confirmation of this last statement is contained in the record of what is usually termed the "Royal Visitation" of the cathedral in the time of Henry VIII. The extract is from p. 77 of an old statute book belonging to the dean and chapter, in vellum covers, labelled H., and is said to be taken from ff. 67, 68, of what is termed "registrum vetustissimum." It is as follows:—

"This article was mynstered to the canons being resident within the cathedral church of Sarum, by me, John Tregonwell, exercising the king's most highest visitation within the said church. [A.D. 1535.]

"ITEM; whether the booke named the customarie of S. Osmund, wherein is declared the things appertayning to the deane, chaunter, chauncellor, and treasurer of Sarisbury, and to all other mynsters of the same church be authentick, or ought to be believed, or any credence to be given to the same booke or naye."

Then follows the formal record of their answer, and its confirmation by the Royal Commissioner.

"Cui quidam canonici residentiarii, omnes et singuli in domo capitulari ejusdem cathedralis ecclesie sue, xxii.º die Januarii anno Dominicæ Incarnationis MDXXXV.º per prefatum magistrum Johannem Tregonwell, commissarium, examinati, dixerunt, et quilibet eorum dixit in vim juramenti sui prius præstiti, in presentia mei Thomæ Peerse, notarii publici et actuarii in dictâ regali visitatione legitime assumpti, quod crediderunt ipsum librum, nuncupatum 'Consuetudinarium divi Osmundi' fuisse et esse authenticum et credendum eidem.

All that remains is for the editor to express his thanks to the cathedral authorities, and also to those at the diocesan registry, for free access to all documents necessary for the purposes of this work, and for the unvarying courtesy with which all his applications have been received. To many others also his thanks are due for help in elucidating difficult passages or phrases, amongst whom he ought to name Professor Stubbs, Dr. Henderson, of Leeds (the editor of the “Sarum Processional”), Precentor Venables, of Lincoln, and Mr. C. Knight Watson, the Secretary of the Society of Antiquaries. But most especially is he bound to express his obligations for much as regards ancient ritual and the true explanation of mediæval terms, to the Right Rev. and Hon. the Bishop of Clifton, and to his valued friend Canon E. A. Dayman (the joint-editor with him of the Statutes of Sarum Cathedral), both of whom have, with true generosity, helped him out of their own abundant stores in not a few difficulties, and so added materially, as he would fain hope, to the accuracy and value of a work which has all along been felt by him to be one of no small responsibility.

DE OFFICIIS ECCLESIASTICIS TRACTATUS.

Fol. 1. PERSONAS,¹ et earum officia, dignitates, et consuetudines, quibus ecclesia Sarisberiensis ordinatur et regitur, juxta institutionem felicitis memoriæ Osmundi ejusdem fundatoris et episcopi, presens tractatus explanat.

I. DE PERSONIS IN ECCLESIA SARUM CONSTITUTIS.²

Quatuor sunt igitur personæ¹ principales in ecclesia Sarum; decanus, cantor, cancellarius, thesaurarius: et quatuor archidiaconi; videlicet, archid. Dorsete, Berkesire, et duo Wiltescire. Preterea sub-decanus et succentor.

II. DECANI.³

Decani officium est, quod⁴ omnibus canonicis et vicariis cum⁵ animarum regimine et morum correctione præemineat, quod debeat⁶ causas omnes ad capitulum spectantes audire, et iudicio capituli terminare;

¹ The name "persona," whence of course comes our word "parson," is applied to the clergy of a cathedral who held particular offices, not necessarily of dignity, but of responsibility. At Salisbury it was for the most part confined to the "Quatuor Personæ," enumerated above; but it is also sometimes applied to the archdeacons, as "officials" of the bishop; and to the sub-dean and succentor as "officials" respectively of the dean and precentor.

TREATISE CONCERNING ECCLESIASTICAL OFFICES.

THE "persons" and their offices, the dignities, and the customs by which the church of Sarum is ordered and ruled, after the institution of Osmund of blessed memory, founder and bishop of the same, the present treatise explains.

I. OF THE "PERSONS" CONSTITUTED IN THE CHURCH OF SARUM.

There are, accordingly, four principal persons in the church of Sarum; the dean, the precentor, the chancellor, the treasurer: and there are four archdeacons, namely, the archdeacon of Dorset, of Berkshire; and two of Wiltshire. There are besides a sub-dean and a succentor.

II. OF THE DEAN.

The office of the dean is to preside over all the canons and vicars as regards the cure of souls and the correction of morals; to hear all causes relating to the chapter, and to decide them by the judgment of the chapter;

excessus clericorum corrigere, et delinquentium personas juxta delicti quantitatem, et personarum qualitatem, digna animadversione punire.

Præterea canonici institutionem ab episcopo, a decano vero possessionem de prebendis accipiunt, cum consensu capituli.

Decani est etiam canonicis jam institutis communam¹ ecclesiæ suo jure conferre, et eis stallum in choro et locum in capitulo assignare; vicarias vacantes, ad presentationem canonicorum presentium, vel justa et probabili causa vel de licentia decani et capituli ob quancunque causam absentium, de clericis idoneis ordinare. Verum si ultra mare absente canonico, quacunque de causa, vicaria aliqua vacaverit, decanus eam sua propria auctoritate, citra assensum ipsius canonici, cui voluerit idoneo clerico potest conferre.

Præterea nullus clericorum de superiori gradu, vel de secunda forma,² in choro admittatur, nisi auctoritate decani.

Præterea omni³ duplici festo, absente episcopo, et in prima Dominica Adventus, et in Dominica Palmarum, et in Capite Jejunii, et in tribus diebus ante Pascha, et in vigilia Pentecostes, et in anniversariis episcoporum et decanorum ecclesiæ, tenetur exequi officium.

² De secunda forma,—the seats in the choir made to turn up so as to afford supports to the clergy when standing were termed forma, because, says Ducange, they were generally carved with ornamental figures, "quod formæ seu imagines opere sculptorio vel penecillo adumbratæ in singularum dossalibus affingerentur." He adds another reason for the name, "because above they were curved after the shape of the forms of aqueducts" ("quod superne in modum formarum aquæductuum arcuatæ sint"). The word "form" is still used to denote a long stool or seat.

to correct the excesses of clerics, and to punish with proper penalty the persons of the delinquents according to the extent of the offence, and the standing of the persons themselves.

Moreover the canons receive institution from the bishop, but possession of their prebends from the dean, with the consent of the chapter.

It is the office of the dean also of his own right to confer on canons already instituted the "communa" of the church, and to assign them a stall in choir and place in chapter; and to appoint from fit clerics to vacant vicarages, at the presentation of canons present, or of those absent with just and reasonable cause, or for any cause with the leave of the dean and chapter. But if any vicarage become vacant when the canon be absent from any cause beyond the sea, the dean of his own authority, independently of the assent of the canon himself, may confer it on any fit cleric that he may please.

Moreover no cleric of the higher grade, or of the second form, may be admitted in choir except by the authority of the dean.

Moreover in every double feast, when the bishop is absent, and on the first Sunday of Advent, and on Palm Sunday, and on Ash Wednesday, and on the three days before Easter, and on the vigil of Pentecost, and on the anniversaries of bishops and deans of the church, he is bound to perform the office.

III. CANTORIS.¹

Cantoris officium est chorum in canticum elevatione et depressione regere, (vel per se vel per succentorem suum, et in omni duplici festo lectiones legendas canonicis presentibus injungere);² cantores, lectores, et ministros altaris in tabula ordinare. Ad illum etiam pertinet puerorum instructio et disciplina, et eorundem in choro admissio et ordinatio.

Preterea in majoribus festis duplicibus tenetur interessè regimini chori ad missam cum ceteris rectoribus chori. Preterea in omni duplici festo rectores chori³ de cantibus injungendis et incipiendis tenetur instruere.

² D. omits the words within ().

³ Rectores chori,—in translating this expression it has been thought well to adhere to that which use, and the authority of such men as Rock, Chambers, and others, has sanctioned, in "Rulers of the Choir." In like manner "regere chorum" and also "dies in quibus chorus regitur" have been rendered "to rule the choir," and "days in which the choir is ruled." The meaning of "rulers" is simply "leaders" of the choir. On ordinary days the hebdomadary, or other person appointed, gives out the antiphons and psalms and the choir take them up; but whenever the choir is held with any degree of solemnity it is the duty of the precentor or his substitute, or two or four "cantors," according to the rules subsequently laid down, to intone the psalms, and to pre-intone (injungere) the antiphons and hymns. The ceremony of pre-intoning (antiphonam injungere) consists in this, that the precentor, or other leaders of the choir, present themselves before the canon, whose turn it is to intone the antiphon, and give him its proper pitch and tone by chanting in a low voice the first words of the same. The canon repeats them in a loud voice, and forthwith the choir takes up the chant. Whenever the bishop has to intone an antiphon or hymn the office of pre-intoning the same devolves on the precentor. The meaning of the rubric above,—"omnes cantus ab episcopo . . . injungere," is,—"the precentor is required in his own person to set, or pre-intone, for, the bishop, all chants to be commenced by the bishop himself."

III. OF THE PRECENTOR.

The office of the precentor is to rule the choir and to regulate the pitch of the singing, whether in a higher or lower key (either by himself or his succentor), and on every double feast to appoint the lections to be read by the canons present ; and further to table the chanters, readers, and servers at the altar. To him also belongs the instruction and discipline of the boys, and their admission and ordering in choir.

He is further bound in greater double feasts to be present for the ruling of the choir at mass with the other rulers of the choir. Moreover on every double feast he is bound to instruct the rulers of the choir respecting the setting and commencing the chants.

He is moreover required in his own person to set for the bishop all chants to be commenced by the bishop himself; and he has power to correct and compel all who are disobedient in such matters aforesaid.

IV. CANCELLARII.¹

Cancellarii officium est scholis regendis et libris corrigendis curam impendere, lectiones auscultare et terminare, sigillum ecclesiæ custodire, literas et cartas componere, et literas in capitulo legendas legere, lectores in tabula notare: omnes etiam lectiones ad missam, quæ in tabula non scribuntur, tenetur injungere.

Fol. 1,

V. THESAURARII.

Thesaurarii officium est ornamenta et thesauros ecclesiæ conservare, [et] luminaria subministrare; scilicet, in Dominica prima in Adventu quatuor cereos ad utrasque vespervas, et ad matutinas, et ad missam, scilicet duos insuper altare,² et alios duos in gradu coram altari: simile observetur in Dominica Palmarum, In aliis autem Dominicis omnibus per annum, et quandocumque chorus regitur et invitatorium a duobus dicitur, tantum duos debet administrare;³ in Dominicis tamen omnibus, ad missam, quatuor.

In die Natalis Domini ad utrasque vespervas, et ad missam, octo cereos debet administrare, unumquemque unius libræ ad minus, circa altare, et duos coram imagine beatæ Mariæ; ad matutinas totidem; et preterea sex in eminentia coram reliquiis et crucifixo et imaginibus ibi constitutis, et in corona⁴ ante gradum⁵ quinque, unumquemque dimidiæ libræ ad minus; et quinque super murum post pulpitem lectionum. Simile observatur in omnibus festis duplicibus quæ habent processionem.

⁴ Corona is thus explained,—

"Candelabrum in modum coronæ
"et circuli variis lucernis in"structum, ab ecclesiarum laque-
"aribus dependens."

IV. OF THE CHANCELLOR.

It is the office of the chancellor to give his attention to the ruling of the schools and the correction of the books, to hear and determine readings, to keep the seal of the church, to draft letters and deeds, to read in chapter such letters as have to be read, to table readers; he is also bound to enjoin the lections at mass which are not written in the table.

V. OF THE TREASURER.

It is the office of the treasurer to keep the ornaments and treasures of the church, and to furnish the lights; to wit, on the first Sunday in Advent, four wax tapers for either vespers, as well as at matins, and at mass, namely, two above the altar and other two on the step before the altar; the like is observed on Palm Sunday. On all other Sundays throughout the year, and wherever the choir is ruled and the invitatory said by two, he is bound to supply only two; on all Sundays, however, at mass, there must be four.

On Christmas Day at either vespers, and at mass, he is bound to supply eight wax tapers, each of one pound at least, about the altar, and two before the image of the blessed Mary; for matins an equal number; there must moreover be six prominently¹ before the relics, and the crucifix, and the images there placed; and five in a corona before the [choir] step, each of half a pound at least; and five over the wall behind the lectern. The like is observed in all double feasts which have processions.

A Pentecoste tamen usque ad Nativitatem beatæ Mariæ, et in ipso festo Nativitatis, septem cerei candelabro æneo¹ imponuntur. In aliis vero duplicibus festis minoribus quatuor circa altare et duos coram imagine beatæ Virginis ad utrasque vespervas et ad missam; ad matutinas preterea tres in corona et tres post pulpitum.²

Quandocunque invitorium a tribus dicitur, et quinta et sexta feria et sabbato ebdomadæ Paschæ et Pentecostes, idem exigitur servicium in luminariibus quod in prima die Dominica Adventus. In Cœna Domini sicut in diebus Dominicis ad missam.

In die Parasceves ad missam duos cereos debet; omni feria per annum unum tantum ad matutinas, scilicet ad gradum chori; ad missam vero duos cereos. In vigilia Paschæ et Pentecostes ad missam quod³ in festis majoribus duplicibus.

⁴ D. adds "tantum."

⁵ Mortarium.—O. Eng. a mortar or mortary. There is a French word mortier. It means a large night-light, and was made of large lumps of yellow wax with a wick which was lighted, and so gave light through the night. It was probably called a mortar from its shape, and in its precise meaning was an earthen night-lamp of wax. Though commonly used at the altars or shrines of the dead, it must not be confounded with the

From Pentecost to the Nativity of the blessed Mary, and on the feast of her Nativity itself, seven wax tapers are to be placed in the candelabrum of brass. On the other lesser double feasts, four about the altar and two before the image of the blessed Virgin for either vespers, and for mass; at matins three besides in the corona, and three behind the lectern.

Whenever the invitatory is said by three, and on the fifth and sixth day and on the Saturday of the week of Easter and of Pentecost, the same service is required as regards lights as on the first Sunday of Advent. On Maundy Thursday as on Sundays at mass.

On Good Friday he should supply two wax tapers at mass; on every ferial day throughout the year one only at matins, namely, at the choir-step; at mass, however, two. On the vigil of Easter and of Pentecost at mass, the same as on the greater double feasts.

Moreover on Good Friday, after the placing the Lord's Body in the sepulchre, two of wax, each of half a pound at the least, from the treasury, shall burn all day before the sepulchre. On the following night and thenceforward until the procession which takes place before matins on Easter Day, one of these only.

The treasurer is also bound to find a large wax Paschal candle, besides one mortar every night throughout the noctibus per annum coram altari S. Martini, et aliud ante januas ostii chori occidentalis, dum matutarum¹ expletur officium.

Sacristas² quoque suis expensis tenetur exhibere thesaurarius: campanas vero ecclesiæ congrue suspensas in statu congruo conservare, et earum usibus necessaria providere; ornamenta etiam ecclesiæ suis expensis reficere; panem, vinum, aquam, et candelas singulis altaribus ecclesiæ, excepto parochiali, administrare; incensum, carbonem, stramen, juncum, et nattas per totum annum comparare;—juncum vero³ in his festis, in Ascensione Domini et Pentecoste, in festo Sancti Johannis Baptistæ, in Assumptione et Nativitatis beatæ Mariæ; stramen in his festis, in festo Omnium Sanctorum, in Natali⁴ Domini, in Purificatione beatæ Mariæ, [et] in Pascha; nattas in festo Omnium Sanctorum.

VI. ARCHIDIACONORUM.

Archidiaconi officiales sunt domini episcopi, quorum officium in exterioribus administrationibus consistit.

VII. SUBDECANI.

Subdecani officium est, si decanus abfuerit⁵ ecclesiæ, vices ejus supplere, [et] curam archidiaconatus in urbe et suburbio gerere.

for that of "Virgiferi" (or Virgers), were, under the treasurer, the perpetual guardians of the "ornamenta" and other treasures of the church. See Sarum "Fasti," p. 296.

year before the altar of St. Martin, and another before the gates of the western entrance of the choir, until the office of matins is finished.

The treasurer is also bound to be answerable for the sacrists at his own expense, to keep the bells of the church properly hung and in a proper condition, and to provide what is necessary for their use; to repair the ornaments of the church at his own expense; to supply bread, wine, water, and candles for the several altars of the church, with the exception of the parish altar; to supply incense, charcoal, straw, rushes, and mats throughout the year: namely, rushes on the feasts of the Ascension and Pentecost, of St. John Baptist, and the Assumption and Nativity of the blessed Mary; straw on the feasts of All Saints, Christmas Day, the Purification of the blessed Mary, and Easter; mats on the feast of All Saints.

VI. OF ARCHDEACONS.

VII. OF THE SUBDEAN.

The office of the sub-dean consists in supplying the place of the dean if he be absent from the church, and discharging archidiaconal functions in the city and the suburbs.

VIII. SUCCENTORIS.

Succentoris officium est vices cantoris absentis supplere ; scolam cantûs per officialem suum regere.

IX. DE DIGNITATIBUS¹ PERSONARUM ET CANONICORUM ECCLESIE SARUM.

Dignitas decani est ut nullus canonicorum vel aliorum clericorum ecclesiæ, præter ejus licentiam, sibi² minuatur, vel a civitate recedat per unam noctem foris³ moram ex certa scientia⁴ facturus. Preterea, decano chorum vel capitulum intranti, vel transitum ibi facienti, clerici omnes tenentur assurgere ; et chorum, ex parte occidentali, intrantes vel exeuntes, eidem inclinare.

Fol. 2. Dignitas⁵ decani est, et omnium canonicorum, ut episcopo in nullo respondeant nisi in capitulo, et iudicio tantum capituli pareant. Habeant etiam curiam suam in omnibus prebendis suis, et dignitatem archidiaconi ubicunque prebendæ fuerint assignatæ in diocesi episcopatus Sarum, sive in ecclesiis, vel decimis, aut⁶ terris, ita quidem ut nulla exigentia omnino in dono, vel in assisa, vel alia consuetudine ab episcopo, vel a quolibet alio, fiat in prebendis eorum ; sed omnes libertates et omnes dignitates plenarie et pacifice habeant quas predictus Osmundus episcopus in eisdem prebendis [habuit] cum eas in suo haberet dominio.⁷

⁷ This is one of the passages which seem to show that the Consuetudinary, in the shape in which we have it here, was not, strictly speaking, compiled by S. Osmund. It is called by his name because it embodies the rules, statutes, and customs made or enjoined by him, to be observed in his cathedral and diocese.

VIII. OF THE SUCCENTOR.

The office of the succentor is to supply the place of the precentor when absent, and to direct the school of song by his official.

IX. OF THE DIGNITIES OF THE "PERSONS" AND CANONS OF THE CHURCH OF SARUM.

The dignity of the dean consists in this, that none of the canons or of the other clerics of the church may absent himself without his license, or go away from the city with the certain intention of remaining absent one night. Moreover all the clerics are bound to rise to the dean when he enters the choir or chapter, or when he passes from one part of the choir to the other; and all entering or leaving the choir at its west entrance must bow to him.

The dignity also of the dean and of all the canons is that they shall answer to the bishop in nothing save in chapter, and that they shall obey the judgment of the chapter only. They shall have also their own court in their several prebends, and the dignity of archdeacon wherever the said prebends are assigned in the diocese of Sarum, whether in churches, or tithes, or lands, so that no demand whatever, whether in gift, or in assise, or any other custom, from the bishop or any one else, shall be made in their prebends; but they shall enjoy all their liberties and all their dignities fully and peaceably, even as the aforesaid bishop Osmund possessed them when they were held by him in his own demesne.

Moreover every canon who obtains a prebend is bound, for the sake of charity, to pay one ounce of gold to the solidos, vel unius diei procurationem, caritatis causa, solvere tenetur. Si quis autem canonicorum, sive ad dedicationem ecclesiarum, sive alias, cum episcopo ejusdem ecclesiæ fuerit, partem oblationis¹ sicut capellanus habebit. Ad hoc etiam duas partes² canonici defuncti in usum concessit episcopus Osmundus ceterorum canonicorum, et tertiam partem in usum pauperum, per ipsius anni spatium; sepulturam insuper totam, cum oblationibus quæ, episcopo missam celebranti, in ecclesia Sarum offeruntur, præter auri medietatem.³ Si dominus episcopus ecclesias vel capellas prebendarum dedicaverit, nihil ibi percipiunt capellani episcopi, nec alii, nisi solus canonicus cujus fuerit prebenda.

Preterea, si decanus, sive quicumque canonicus, per aliquam prebendarum transitum fecerit, de jure et dignitate sua debet ei hospitium, a canonico cujus fuerit prebenda, per unam noctem honorifice exhiberi, sive fuerit canonicus presens, sive non.⁴ Et si, culpa ipsius canonici, vel servientis sui, in hospitio, sicut decet, non fuerit admissus, illius noctis expensæ canonico super hoc conquerenti, de prebenda ipsa, judicio capituli in integrum restituentur. Per aliam quoque noc-

³ Of this passage the following is probably the explanation. If the bishop celebrates mass at the funeral of a canon, he is entitled to receive the "honorarium missæ,"—i.e., the oblation made to the person celebrating mass. In the church of Sarum, however, it seems that several oblations were due on such occasions to the celebrant; but by the grant of S. Osmund all such were to go to the chapter, with the exception of "medietatem auri," which was still to go to the bishop who celebrated the mass. The aurum here spoken of has been conjectured to be much the same as the uncia auri mentioned just a few lines previously, and to have been some coin, like a sovereign, half such coin being the usual fee given to the celebrant on solemn occasions. S. Osmund made over to the chapter all oblations given at canons' funerals, except the ordinary celebrant's fee, which was still reserved for the bishop.

dean, and forty shillings to the canons, or one day's procuration. If any one of the canons be present with the bishop, whether at the dedication of churches or on other occasions, he shall have a portion of the oblation as a chaplain. Bishop Osmund also granted two parts [of the prebend] of a deceased canon for the use of the rest of the canons, and the third part for the use of the poor, for the space of that year; and moreover all the dues on sepulture, together with the oblations which in the church of Sarum are offered to the bishop celebrating the mass, with the exception of the moiety of [an ounce? of] gold. If the bishop have dedicated any churches or chapels of prebends, the chaplains of the bishop shall receive nothing there, nor any other persons, save only the canon whose prebend it might be.

Moreover if the dean or any canon journey through any prebend, of right and in virtue of his dignity there is due to him honourable entertainment for one night from the canon whose prebend it may be, whether the canon himself be present or not. And if through the fault of the canon himself, or of his servant, he be not admitted as is fit into hospitality, the expenses of that night shall on the judgment of the chapter be refunded, out of the revenue of that prebend, to the canon making complaint. For a second, or even more nights, if a

X. DE RESIDENCIA PERSONARUM ET CANONICORUM, ET ALIIS CONSUECUDINIBUS ECCLESIE SARUM.

Decanus, cantor, cancellarius, thesaurarius, residentes sint in ecclesia Sarum, remota omni excusationis specie.

Archidiaconi cum tali moderamine officium archidiaconatûs impleant, ut duo ex eis residentiam faciant in ecclesia, nisi necessaria et evidens causa possit eos excusare.

Canonicos nihil potest excusare quin et ipsi residentes sint in ecclesia, nisi causa scholarum vel servitium domini regis, qui unum habere potest in capella sua, et archiepiscopus unum, et episcopus tres. Verumtamen, si necesse habuerit,² canonicus pro communi utilitate ecclesiæ vel prebendæ suæ, et hoc fuerit in manifesto, poterit per anni tertiam partem abesse.

Defuncto autem canonico, omnes exitus et obventiones prebendæ suæ totius termini infra quam decedit ei debentur; reditus quoque termini proximo³ sequentis, et obventiones primi diei illius termini.

Sunt autem quatuor termini, scilicet, festum Sancti Michaelis, Natale Domini, Pascha, et Nativitas Sancti Johannis Baptistæ.

reasonable cause demand it, he is bound to exercise the grace of hospitality towards a brother and canon; and, if evident necessity exist, he shall supply horses for the same as far as to Sarum.

X. OF THE RESIDENCE OF THE "PERSONS" AND CANONS, AND OF OTHER CUSTOMS OF THE CHURCH OF SARUM.

The dean, the precentor, the chancellor, the treasurer, shall be resident in the church of Sarum, every kind of excuse being disallowed.

The archdeacons shall so manage the discharge of their archidiaconal office that two of them shall be in residence in the church, unless necessary and evident cause may excuse them.

Nothing may excuse the canons from being themselves resident in the church, except the work of schools, or the service of the king, who may have one in his chapel, and the archbishop one, and the bishop three. Nevertheless if there be necessity, and this be evident, a canon for the common benefit of the church, or of his own prebend, may be absent for one third part of a year.

When any one is constituted a canon, he must swear, in the presence of his brethren, the gospel being presented to him, that he will inviolably observe the dignities and customs of the church of Sarum.

On the decease of a canon, all the revenues and obventions of his prebend for the whole of the term within which he died are due to him; the rents also of the term immediately following, and the obventions of the first day of that term.

There are four terms, namely, the feast of St. Michael, Christmas Day, Easter Day, and the Nativity of St. John Baptist.

Preterea, elapso termino infra quem decedit, tertiam partem totius prebendæ per annum sequentem percipit; ex illa tamen tertia parte, vicario prebendæ totius anni sequentis debentur stipendia. Residuum vero in usus pauperum, vel alias pro dispositione defuncti, erogatur. Canonico preterea defuncto statutum est triginta dierum in conventu obsequium fieri, et trigintale¹ separatim unumquemque celebrare presbyterorum; reliquos vero cujuscunque ordinis sint separatim psalteria cantare viginti, et ab unoquoque in ebdomada sua privatim anniversarium celebrari.

XI. DE PENA² DELINQUENTIUM.

Seniores obsequendi³ sunt ut fratres;⁴ verumtamen si in cotidiano servitio, vel horis canonicis, sine rationabili causa, sæpius defuerint, et a decano correpti hoc non emendaverunt, in capitulo coram decano et fratribus prostrati debent veniam recipere. Si vero de inobedientia et rebellione vel alio notorio deprehensi fuerint, debent a stallo degradari, et ad ostium [chori] post decanum, vel in choro ultimi puerorum, secundum quantitatem delicti penitentiam agere. Quod si hanc disciplinam neglexerint et incorrigibiles apparuerint severiori subiaceant ultioni.

XII. DE CHORI ORDINATIONE.

Quatuor principalium personarum stalla chori Sarum sunt terminalia. In introitu chori a parte occidentali a dextris stallum est decani, a sinistris cantoris,—a parte orientali in dextra parte stallum est cancellarii, ex opposito thesaurarii.

¹ The "trigintal," corrupted into "trental," was an office in which masses and other commemorations were said for a deceased brother for thirty days. See Ducange, s.v. Tricenarium.

⁴ The true reading of the original was possibly "Seniores obsecrandi" (as in D.) sunt ut patres," and so an allusion to I. Tim. v. 1, which, in the Vulgate, runs, "Seniorem ne increpaveris, sed obsecra ut patrem."

Moreover, the term within which the canon died having elapsed, he receives a third part of the whole prebend for the following year; from that part, however, must be deducted the stipend due to the vicar of the said prebend for the whole of the ensuing year. The rest is expended for the use of the poor, or otherwise according to the direction of the deceased canon. There is appointed also for a deceased canon a service of thirty days by the cathedral body generally, and that each priest should separately celebrate a "trigintal" for him; that the rest, of whatever order, should separately sing twenty "psalters," and that by each one in his week his anniversary should be privately celebrated.

XI. ON THE PUNISHMENT OF OFFENDERS.

The seniors are to be dealt with as brethren; but if in the daily service, or in the canonical hours, without reasonable cause, they are frequently absent, and though reproved by the dean have not amended this fault, they must, kneeling down in chapter before the dean and their brethren, receive pardon. But if they be convicted of disobedience and rebellion or any other notorious offence, they must be degraded from their stall, and at the entrance of the choir after the dean, or the last of the boys in choir, do penance according to the extent of their offence. If they neglect this discipline and appear incorrigible they must submit to severer punishment.

XII. OF ORDERING THE CHOIR.

The stalls of the four principal "persons" in the choir of Sarum are terminals. In entering the choir from the west the stall of the dean is on the right hand, that of the precentor on the left hand. At the east of the choir the stall of the chancellor is on the right hand, that of the treasurer opposite to it on the left hand.

In prima forma priores habentur canonici pueri,³ deinde ceteri pueri³ secundum ætatis exigentiam.

XIII. DE INGRESSU CLERICORUM IN CHORUM ET EGRESSU.

Chorum intrantes clerici ita se habeant ordinati,⁴ ut si ex parte orientali intraverint ad gradum se ad altare inclinent, postea ad episcopum, si presens fuerit. Si vero ex parte occidentali ingressi fuerint, primo ad altare se inclinent, deinde ad decanum. Eodem modo ramine choro exeant.

Next to the dean stands in choir the archdeacon of Dorset, and next to him the sub-dean. Next to the chancellor stands an archdeacon of Wiltshire; between them, in the middle, stand the canons first in dignity, then the priest-vicars, then a very few deacons, who, on the ground of age or character, are allowed by dispensation in the higher grade.

Next to the precentor in choir stands the archdeacon of Berkshire, then the succentor. Next to the treasurer stands another archdeacon of Wiltshire; then the rest of the canons are arranged between them in the manner aforesaid.

In the second "form" (or row) the junior canons take precedence, then the deacons, then the rest of the clerics.

In the first "form" the choristers on the foundation take precedence, then the rest of the boys according to age.

XIII. OF THE ENTERING AND LEAVING THE CHOIR BY CLERICS.

Clerics entering the choir shall so order themselves that if they have entered from the east side they shall bow to the altar at the step, afterwards to the bishop if he be present. If they enter from the west side they shall first bow to the altar and then to the dean. With the same arrangement they shall leave the choir.

XIV. WHEN IT IS PERMITTED TO ENTER THE CHOIR AT THE SEVERAL "HOURS."

Clerics may enter the choir at matins, and at all "hours"¹ which at the commencement of their office

Ad vigiliam mortuorum, et ad collationem, quolibet tempore; ad missam vero ingredi licet usque ad primam collectam. Ad alias vero horas quæ sine intervallo missam sequuntur nulli intrare licet nisi hii qui missæ interfuerint. In Quadragesima tamen in diebus ferialibus, quando de feria agitur, ad vespervas intrare possunt hii qui horis diei interfuerint licet missæ non interfuerint; et in festis novem lectionum quamvis omnino nulli horæ diei prius interfuerint. Quilibet autem processionem totius anni intrare possunt,⁴ licet nulli horæ diei precedenti interfuerint.

XV. DE TRANSITU CLERICORUM AB UNA PARTE CHORI IN OPPOSITAM.

Præterea, si quis clericus ab una parte chori in oppositam transierit, in cundo et redeundo ad altare se inclinet. Intranses quoque clerici in locis suis ita ordinate se recipiant ne formas inordinate transilient. Idem etiam exeuntes observent.

have hymns, until the hymn is finished: at vespers, however, until the third or fourth verse of the first psalm. At compline in like manner they who have been present at the preceding vespers; otherwise at compline, and at vigils of the dead, it is not permitted to enter: in Lent, however, they may enter at compline as at vespers at another time. At a vigil of the dead, and at the daily reading, at any time; at mass it is lawful to enter up to the first collect. At other "hours" which without an interval follow mass, it is allowed to none to enter save such as have been present at mass. In Lent, however, on ferial days, when the office is of the "feria," they who have been present at the "hours" of the day may enter at vespers even though they may not have been present at mass; and in festivals of nine lections, even though they may not have been present at any of the daily "hours." Any one, however, may enter a procession throughout the year, even though he may not have been present at any previous "hour" of the day.

XV. OF THE PASSING OF THE CLERICS FROM ONE PART OF THE CHOIR TO THE OPPOSITE SIDE.

If any cleric pass from one part of the choir to the opposite side, he shall in going and in returning bow to the altar. The clerics also entering the choir shall arrange themselves in their proper places in an orderly manner, so as not to jump over the forms in a disorderly way. They shall observe the same rule in leaving the choir.

No sound shall be made in choir by the clerics; no conversation, except such as may be necessary, shall take place.

XVI. DE STATIONE IN CHORO FACIENDA IN SINGULIS HORIS.

Preterea superioris gradus clerici ad omnes vespas principales per annum stare tenentur in choro continue, nisi dum versus responsorii dicitur, quando responso-rium habetur. Secundæ vero formæ clerici eodem modo se habeant, ut videlicet semper stent nisi dum versus responsorii canitur, quod dicitur ad gradum.¹ Pueri vero sine omni exceptione ad vespas stare tenentur continue nisi in ebdomada Paschæ; tunc enim ad vespas sedere debent dum versus gradalis, et versus "Alleluia," cantantur.

Ad completorium vero omnes indifferenter clerici per totam illam horam stare tenentur; similiter ad matutinas per totum tempus nisi dum lectiones leguntur, et responsoria cum suis versibus cantantur.

Ex dispensatione tamen clerici de superiori gradu, et de secunda forma, ex utraque parte chori, alternis vicibus in psalmodia sedere possunt,² quandocumque ad matutinas nocturnum dicitur; et preterea in omnibus festis trium lectionum, quæ fiunt cum novem psalmis, ita tamen quod, quando aliquis ad unum psalmum sedet, ei proximus interim stando psallat.

Ad primam vero, et ad ceteras horas, omnes uniformiter tenentur stare. Similiter ad missam per totum tempus, nisi dum lectiones vel epistolæ leguntur, et gradale, et "Alleluia," et responso-rium³ cum suis versibus, cantantur. In duplici tamen festo stare debent omnes dum a choro "Alleluia" canitur, Pueri vero semper stantes sint ad missam, choro canente.

XVI. OF STANDING IN CHOIR AT THE SEVERAL "HOURS."

The clerics of the higher grade at all the principal vespers throughout the year are bound to stand continuously in choir, except when the versicle of the responsory is said, when there is a responsory. The clerics of the second form are to order themselves in the same way, namely, always to stand except when the versicle of the responsory, which is said at the step, is sung. The boys, however, without any exception, are bound to stand continuously, except in Easter week; then they should sit at vespers whilst the gradual and the "Alleluia" are being sung.

At compline, however, all the clerics without exception are bound to stand during the whole of the "hour;" in like manner at matins during the whole time except while the lessons are being read, and the responsories with their verses are being sung.

The clerics of higher grade by dispensation, as well as those of the second form on either side of the choir, may sit in turns during the psalmody whenever nocturn¹ is said at matins; and moreover in all feasts of three lessons, which have nine psalms, so, however, that when any one sits at one psalm, the one next to him shall sing it standing.

At prime, and at the remaining "hours," all without exception are bound to stand. In like manner they are to stand at mass during the whole time, except whilst the lections or the epistles are read, and the gradual, the "Alleluia," and the responsory with its verses are sung. In a double feast, however, all must stand whilst the "Alleluia" is sung by the choir. The boys are always to be standing at mass, whilst the choir are singing.

ally they were said at different hours; but now they are said continuously, together with lauds. See Shipley, "Glossary of Ecclesiastical Terms" sub voce.

Rectores vero chori, cum duo tantum habentur, sequuntur per omnia regulam clericorum de secunda forma ad vespervas, et ad matutinas, ut ad missam; (nisi quod semper dum chorus canit "Alleluia" stare tenentur, et in inceptione cantuum ad missam)¹ ad altare se convertunt. In duplici vero festo omnes rectores chori gestum chori² per omnia imitentur.

XVII. DE CONVERSIONE CLERICORUM³ AD ALTARE FACIENDA.

Conversi autem ad altare stare tenentur clerici ad vespervas, ex quo dicitur "Deus in adiutorium" quousque incipiatur prima antiphona super psalmos; simili modo se gerant in inceptione cujuslibet horæ, et quotiens dicitur "Gloria Patri."⁴ In responsoriis vero cantandis generaliter observatur quod semper hii qui versum cantant ab inceptione ipsius responsorii⁵ quousque versus cum "Gloria Patri" (si "Gloria" habetur) percantetur, stare debent.

Chorus quoque in ipsa inceptione responsorii ad altare se convertit quousque chorus ipse cantet. Similiter observatur in⁶ capitulis et collectis⁶ dicendis, et in fine omnium ymnorum, et in omnibus versiculis, et post "Magnificat," et "Benedictus," et "Nunc dimittit"

⁴ See Statutes of St. Paul's (Part iii. ch. 18), "De inclinatione ad Gloria Patri," where there is a marginal note in one manuscript, "Both sides must read north and south, but sing 'Gloria Patri' eastward." In the Wells Statutes also we find this direction, "Quoties

" autem dicitur 'Gloria Patri' in signum devotionis et reverentiæ vertant se psallantes, sicut moris est, versus magnum altare." Lambeth MS. fol. 62. This custom was observed till a recent period in Exeter cathedral. See Walcott's "Traditions of English Cathedrals," pp. 102-105; and Hierurgia Anglicana (1848), p. 366.

⁶ D. adds "omnibus," and omits "et collectis."

The rulers of the choir, when two only are appointed, follow in everything the rule of "clerics" of the second form at vespers, and at matins, and at mass; [save only that always whilst the chorus sings "Alleluia" they are bound to stand, and in the commencement of the chants at mass] turn to the altar. In every double feast all the rulers of the choir in everything conform to the attitude of the choir.¹

XVII. OF THE TURNING OF THE "CLERICS" TO THE ALTAR.

The clerics are bound to stand at vespers turned towards the altar from the words "Deus in adjutorium" until the first antiphon before the psalms be begun; in like manner they shall place themselves at the commencement of any "hour," and as often as "Gloria Patri" is said. In singing responsories it is generally to be observed that they who sing the verse should always stand from the beginning of the responsory itself until the verse with "Gloria Patri" (if the "Gloria" be used) be sung through.

The choir also in the beginning of the responsory turn themselves to the altar as long as the choir sing: the like is observed in saying chapters and collects, and in the end of all hymns, and in all the versicles, and after "Magnificat," and "Benedictus," and "Nunc di-

“tis,” ex quo dicitur “Gloria Patri” quousque totum servitium compleatur. Simile quoque observatur post ultimum versum ultimi psalmi, cujuslibet horæ, quod scilicet semper sit conversus ad altare chorus quousque responsum incipiatur, si responsum habetur, vel capitulum dicatur. Similiter fit in laudibus.

Ad matutinas, ad altare stat chorus conversus in initio quousque ultimo reincipiatur invitatorium; et in singulis nocturnis post ultimum versum psalmi quousque inchoetur lectio.

Ad pronunciationem autem cujuslibet evangelii ad ipsum lectorem se convertat chorus dum verba evangelii dicuntur. In inceptione etiam “Te Deum laudamus” similiter donec chorus cantet, et dum ultimus versus canitur. Quando vero “Te Deum laudamus” non dicitur, sed nonum responsum repetitur, tunc ad altare chorus se convertit quousque incipiatur antiphona super psalmos, ut supradictum est. In ceteris autem horis per totam horam predicto modo se habet chorus post ultimum versum ultimi psalmi.

Ad missam gestus predictus attenditur¹ dum “Gloria in excelsis” inchoatur quousque [chorus] cantet, et in eodem ymno ad hæc verba, “Adoramus Te,” et hæc, “Suscipe deprecationem nostram,” et in fine ejusdem cum dicitur “Jesu Christe [cum Spiritu Sancto],”² usque ad epistolam vel lectionem.

Item in fine gradalis, vel “Alleluia,” vel responsorii,³ vel prosæ, chorus ad altare se inclinet antequam ad lectorem evangelii se convertat; et ad⁴ “Gloria Tibi, Domine” semper [ad altare]⁵ se convertat signo crucis se signans; quod ter ad missam publice observatur, scilicet in “Gloria in excelsis Deo,” quando dicitur “mittis,” from the time when “Gloria Patri” is said until the whole service is completed. The like is also observed after the last verse of the last psalm of each “hour,” namely, that the choir should always be turned towards the altar until the responsory is completed, or the chapter said. The like is observed in lauds.

At matins the choir stands turned towards the altar in the beginning until the invitatory be recommenced for the last time; and in each of the nocturns, after the last verse of the psalm until the lection is begun.

At the giving out of any gospel the choir shall turn to the reader whilst the words of the gospel are said; at the beginning also of “Te Deum laudamus”: in like manner until the choir shall sing, and whilst the last verse is sung. But when “Te Deum laudamus” is not said, but the ninth responsory is repeated, then the choir shall turn to the altar until the antiphon before the psalms is begun as aforesaid. In the other hours, during the whole “hour,” the choir shall order itself in the aforesaid manner after the last verse of the last psalm.

At mass the aforesaid attitude is observed whilst “Gloria in excelsis” is begun until the choir sing, and in the same hymn at these words, “Adoramus Te,” and at these also, “Suscipe deprecationem nostram,” and at the end of the same when it is said, “Jesu Christe,” “cum Spiritu Sancto,” till the epistle or lection.

Also in the end of the gradual, or “Alleluia” or responsory or prose, the choir shall bow to the altar before turning to the reader of the gospel; and at “Gloria Tibi, Domine” they shall always turn to the altar, each signing himself with the sign of the cross; which last custom is to be thrice publicly observed at mass, namely, in “Gloria in excelsis Deo,” when it is

XVIII. DE PROSTRATIONE IN CHORO FACIENDA.

In ferialibus diebus quando ad horas preces dicuntur, in prostratione chorus se habet² ad omnes horas dum preces dicuntur, ex quo inchoatur “Kyrie eleison” quousque dicitur “Per Dominum nostrum.” Post orationem solus sacerdos a prostratione se erigit cum dicitur “Exurge Domine, [adjuva nos]”; et ad matutinas cum dicitur oratio dominicalis³ ante lectiones quousque dicatur “Et ne nos inducas,” &c.; et in laudibus sicut ad vespas.

Ad missam quamlibet quæ de feria dicitur, extra Paschale tempus, post “Sanctus” usque “Per omnia [secula seculorum],” ante “Agnus Dei” [eodem modo]. Preterea in Quadragesima, in inceptioe cujuslibet horæ, fit genuflexio.⁴ Prostratus etiam debet esse chorus in

⁴ In one MS. of the St. Paul's Statutes, in which this section is included almost word for word, we have, after “genuflexio,” the words “terram vel formulas osculando.” Simpson's Statutes of St.-Paul's, p. 58.

said "In gloria Dei Patris," and here and after the "Sanctus" when it is said, "Benedictus qui venit in nomine Dei." Also at the beginning of "Credo in unum Deum" until the choir shall sing it, and meanwhile thrice in one turning to the altar they shall bow, namely, when this clause is said, "Et incarnatus est de Spiritu Sancto ex Maria Virgine, et homo factus est, et crucifixus est pro nobis sub Pontio Pilato," and in the end of the creed when it is said, "Et vitam futuri sæculi. Amen."

From this time until the offertory is begun, and at the turning of the priest to the people until he himself turn again to the altar, and after the offertory until the whole office of mass is finished, the choir shall follow this attitude on any feast throughout the year.

XVIII. OF PROSTRATION TO BE OBSERVED IN CHOIR.

On ferial days when the prayers are said at the "hours," the choir is to kneel at all the hours while such prayers are being said from the time when "Kyrie eleison" begins until it is said, "Per Dominum nostrum." After the prayer, the priest alone raises himself from his knees when it is said, "Exurge, Domine, adjuva nos," and at matins, when the Lord's Prayer is said before the lessons until it is said, "Et ne nos inducas;" and in lauds, as in vespers.

At any mass which is said of the "feria," except at Easter-tide, after "Sanctus" until "Per omnia sæcula sæculorum"; before "Agnus Dei" in like manner. Moreover in Lent, at the commencement of any "hour" there is to be genuflexion. The choir also should kneel omni feria, quando de feria agitur, extra Paschale tempus. In vigilia mortuorum, ad "Placebo" ex quo dicitur "Kyrie eleison" donec ultima oratio dicatur; ad "Dirige" dum oratio dominicalis dicitur ante lectiones,¹ post "Benedictus" quoque eodem modo quo post "Magnificat."

XIX. DE HABITU CHORI² PER TOTUM ANNUM.

Fol. 4. Preterea sciendum est quod omnes clerici indifferenter nigris utuntur cappis³ per totum annum, nisi in his duplicibus festis quæ ex propria sua solemnitate processionem habent adjunctam, vel in aliis etiam festis duplicibus quæ diebus fiunt Dominicis; tunc enim omnes cappis utuntur sericis ad processionem, et ad missam.

Item in vigilia Paschæ quando "Gloria in excelsis" inchoatur, facta genuflexione, clerici deponant cappas nigras et in superpelliciis appareant, et exinde per totam septimanam, et etiam in octava die, superpelliciis utantur. Simile quoque observetur in vigilia Pentecostes et per septimanam. In omni etiam duplici festo, a Pascha usque ad festum Sancti Michaelis, semper in superpelliciis appareant in choro, in capitulo, et ad omnes horas diei. Ad matutinas vero per totum annum nigris cappis utuntur. Nullus autem clericorum

³ The "cappæ nigræ" here spoken of were, it is conceived, not what we now term copes, but capēs (or tippetts), which were worn over the surplices, and were dropped at the "Gloria" on Holy Saturday, as described further on. All the "clerics" of whatever degree in the choir would seem to have worn these "black tippetts." But the "cappæ sericæ" were silken copes. The same word "cappa" appears to be used to indicate the cape and the cope, and hence some little difficulty arises at times in distinctly understanding the meaning of a passage.

on every week day, when the ferial service is used, without Easter-tide. In a vigil for the dead, at "Placebo"¹ from the time when "Kyrie eleison" is said until the last prayer is said; at "Dirige"¹ whilst the Lord's Prayer is said before the lections, after "Benedictus" also in the same manner as after "Magnificat."

XIX. OF THE CHOIR-HABIT THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

It is moreover to be understood that all the clerics without exception use black capes throughout the year, except in double feasts which from their peculiar solemnity have a procession annexed, or on other double feasts which are celebrated on Sundays; then they all wear silken copes at procession, and at mass.

On Easter Eve also when "Gloria in excelsis" is commenced, after making genuflexion, the clerics shall lay aside their black capes and appear in surplices; and thenceforth during the whole week, and also on the octave, they shall use surplices. The like custom is to be observed on the vigil of Pentecost and throughout the week. In every double feast, from Easter till the feast of St. Michael, they shall always appear in surplices in choir, in chapter, and at all the day-hours. At matins, however, throughout the year they use black capes. None of the "clerics" of the higher grade shall de superiori gradu almucia¹ utatur nisi nigra in choro, nec in capitulo; alii vero clerici nulla utantur omnino de die.

Rectores chori vero semper sericis utantur cappis in choro. In Paschali tempore utuntur ministri altaris ad missam dalmaticis, et tunicis albis: rectores chori cappis similiter albis; et in Annunciatione Dominica, et in octabis beatæ Mariæ, et infra octabas et in commemorationibus ejusdem, et in utroque festo Sancti Michaelis, et in festo cujuslibet virginis. Rubeis vero utuntur indumentis in utroque festo Sanctæ Crucis, et in quolibet festo martyrum,² et in tractis³ cantandis. In festibus simplicibus, in Quadragesima, et in Dominica Passionis Domini, et in Dominica Palmarum, rectores chori cappis utuntur rubeis.

XX. QUANDO CHORUS REGI DEBET.⁴

Solet autem chorus regi omni die Dominica, et omni duplici festo, et in omni festo novem lectionum per totum annum, et a primis vesperis Natalis Domini usque ad octabas Epiphaniæ, et in ipsis octabis, nisi in vigilia Epiphaniæ cum extra Dominicam venerit, et per ebdomadam Paschæ et Pentecostes, et in quibusdam festis etiam quæ contingunt Paschali tempore: in hiis videlicet, in festo Sancti Ambrosii, et Sancti Marci, et Sancti Georgii, et apostolorum Petri et Pauli, Philippi et Jacobi; et in Inventione Sanctæ Crucis, et in festo Sancti Johannis ante portam Latinam, et Sancti Dunstani, et Sancti Aldehmi, et Sancti Augustini, et

¹ The almucia (almuce or amesse) was a cape or tippet of fur, the points of which came down in front. By subsequent statutes in 1319 the canons were allowed to wear almuces "de minuto vario interius et exterius de griseo," i.e., of a grey fur externally lined internally with use any but a black almuce in choir or in chapter; none of the other clerics shall use an almuce at all by day.

The rulers of the choir shall always use silken copes in choir. At Easter-tide the ministers at the altar use dalmatics, and white tunicles at mass: the rulers of the choir in like manner have white copes; and at the Annunciation, and on the octaves of the blessed Mary, and within the octaves and at the commemorations of the same, and on either feast of St. Michael,¹ and on the festival of any virgin. They use red vestments, however, in either festival of the Holy Cross, and in any festival of martyrs, and chanting the "tracts." In simple feasts, in Lent, and on Passion Sunday, and on Palm Sunday, the rulers of the choir use red copes.

XX. WHEN THE CHOIR SHOULD BE RULED.

The choir is wont to be ruled² on every Sunday, and on every double feast, and on every feast of nine lections throughout the year, and from the first vespers of Christmas Day till the octave of the Epiphany, and in the octave except on the eve of the Epiphany when it does not fall on a Sunday, and throughout the week of Easter and of Whitsuntide, and also on certain festivals which happen in Easter-tide; to wit, in the feast of St. Ambrose, of St. Mark, of St. George, and of the apostles Peter and Paul, and of Philip and James; and in the Invention of the Holy Cross, and in the feast of St. John before the Latin gate, of St. Dunstan, of St. Aldhelm, of St. Augustin, of St. Barnabas the Apostle; and

XXI. QUÆ FESTA SUNT DUPLICIA ET QUÆ SIMPLICIA.

Sciendum est quod quædam festa sunt duplicia, quædam simplicia. Duplicia autem festa in ecclesia Sarum¹ hæc sunt; dies Natalis Domini et quatuor sequentes,² dies Circumcisionis Domini, dies Epiphaniæ; et Purificatio Sanctæ Mariæ, et Annuntiatio Dominica, et prima dies Paschæ cum tribus sequentibus, [et Inventio Sanctæ Crucis, dies Ascensionis Domini, dies Pentecostes cum tribus sequentibus,]³ et festum Sanctæ Trinitatis, et Sancti Johannis Baptistæ, et apostolorum Petri et Pauli, et Assumptionis et Nativitatis beatæ Virginis; festum Reliquiarum, et Sancti Michaelis, et Omnium Sanctorum, et Sancti Andreæ apostoli.

In his autem duplicibus festis chorus regitur a quatuor clericis, quorum duo principales semper erunt de superiori gradu; duo secundarii, quandoque de superiori gradu, quandoque de secunda forma. De superiori gradu erunt in die Natalis Domini et in duobus sequentibus, et in die Epiphaniæ, et in die Paschæ et in secunda feria [Paschæ], in Assumptione beatæ Mariæ, in die Ascensionis, in die Pentecostes et in secunda feria. In reliquis, secundarii erunt de secunda forma.

Omnia autem festa quæ non sunt⁴ duplicia, in quibus chorus regitur, dicuntur simplicia. It talibus itaque chorus regitur a duobus tantum de secunda forma.

² Quatuor sequentes; in the Statutes of St. Paul's, which were largely indebted to the Sarum use, these feasts are enumerated as those of S. Stephen, S. John the Evangelist, Holy Innocents, and S. Thomas of Canterbury. The last named festival shows that the Conventualary had been modified since S. Osmund's time.

XXI. WHICH ARE DOUBLE, AND WHICH ARE SIMPLE, FEASTS.

It is to be understood that certain feasts are double and certain simple. In the church of Sarum the double feasts are as follows: Christmas day and the four following days, the day of the Circumcision, the day of the Epiphany, and Purification of St. Mary, and the Annunciation, and the first day of Easter with the three following days, and the Invention of the Holy Cross, the day of the Ascension, the day of Pentecost with the three following days, and the feast of the Holy Trinity, and of St. John the Baptist, and of the apostles Peter and Paul, and of the Assumption and Nativity of the blessed Virgin, the feast of Relics, and of St. Michael, and of All Saints, and of St. Andrew the Apostle.

In all these double feasts the choir is ruled by four clerics, of whom the two principal ones shall always be of the higher grade; the two secondaries shall be sometimes of the higher grade, sometimes of the second form. The latter shall be of the higher grade on Christmas day and the two following days, and on the Epiphany, and on Easter day, and on the second day of Easter week, on the Assumption of St. Mary, the day of the Ascension, on Whitsunday and on the second day of that week. In the rest, the secondaries shall be of the second form.

All feasts which are not double in which the choir is ruled are called simple feasts. In such feasts the choir is ruled by two only from the second form.

In majoribus autem festis duplicibus, committitur discretioni cantoris quos velit ad chorum regendum ordinare; ita tamen provideat quod semper principales canonici, si tot fuerint presentes. In aliis vero festis duplicibus erunt principales canonici ebdomadarii: secundarii juxta cantoris dispositionem eligantur de secunda forma.

In simplicibus autem festis tenentur chorum regere ebdomadarii qui scilicet in tabula Dominicali scribuntur ad "Invitatorium" dicendum; et hii quidem chorum regent, quandocunque regendus est, infra quindecim dies continuos per totum annum, quando tabula per septimanas integras discurrit, ita quod qui in prima [Dominica et] ebdomada fuit principalis, in secunda sit secundarius, et vice versa.

Alternis enim vicibus per septimanas chorus esse debet, una séptimana ex parte decani, alia ex parte cantoris. In omnibus tamen duplicibus festis, semper debet esse ex parte decani,² si fuerit ibi persona presens qui divinum officium in illis festis exequatur, nisi in tempore Natali, et in tempore Paschæ, et in ebdomada Pentecostes. Tunc enim in illis continuis festis duplicibus singulis diebus chorus mutatur.

¹ The Canons in choir sit half on one side and half on the other. When the rulers of the choir have intoned a psalm the chant is taken up by the canons on one side, and the next verse is sung by the canons on the other side. The "choir" is said to be on the side which takes up the chant after it has been intoned by the rulers. The rules "De alternatione chori" are framed for regulating which side of the choir shall on different days perform this office. In some cathedral and collegiate churches it is still customary to have a tablet, with the word "chorus" inscribed on it, hung over the stalls on one side of the chancel. This tablet is changed from one side to the other according to the rules laid down. By the "choir side" is meant that which has first to "take up" the chants intoned by the rulers of the choir.

In the greater double feasts it is left to the discretion of the precentor to appoint whom he will for the ruling of the choir, provided only that they shall always be principal canons, if a sufficient number be present. In other double feasts the principal rulers shall be the "hebdomadary" canons; the secondaries shall be chosen according to the arrangement of the precentor from the second form.

In simple feasts the hebdomadary canons who are entered on the Sunday table to say the "Invitatorium," are bound to rule the choir; and these shall rule the choir, whenever it is to be ruled, for fifteen successive days during the whole year, when the table runs for whole weeks, so that he who on the first Sunday and week was principal, in the second shall be secondary, and vice versâ.

XXII. OF THE ALTERNATION OF THE CHOIR.

The choir should be changed alternately and weekly, one week on the "decani" side, the other on the "cantoris" side. In all double feasts, however, it should always be on the "decani" side, if the person whose duty it is to perform the divine office at those festivals be present on that side, except at Christmas-tide, and at Easter-tide, and in Whitsun week. Then, in those continuous double feasts, the choir changes each day.

In quibusdam tamen temporibus anni, non per septimanas sed per dies tabula discurret, scilicet, a die Dominica¹ ante Natale proxima, quando in Sabbato precedente chorus uterque perficitur,² usque ad octabas Epiphaniæ si in Dominica evenerint. Sin autem in aliqua media feria contigerint, tunc usque ad proximam Dominicam diem sequentem, idem [modus] observabitur. Si vero in primo³ Sabbato ante Natale non fuerit vicissitudo utriusque chori pariter completa, tunc a die Natali usque ad predictum terminum tabula per dies discurret.

Item a Cœna Domini usque ad octabas Paschæ variatur chorus per singulos dies. Rectores tamen ebdomadarii ante diem Paschæ non mutantur; a die autem Paschæ usque ad octabas singulis diebus variantur.

XXIII. DE OFFICIO RECTORUM CHORI.

In simplicibus festis, principalis rector chori ab initio in vesperis antiphonam super psalmum et psalmum intonat,⁴ et differentiam a cantore quærat, et in quo gradu debeat incipi; hoc quæsito exequatur illud juxta cantoris responsionem. Si plures fuerint antiphonæ super psalmos, secundam antiphonam, et quartam, secundarius eodem, et eodem gradu, injungat. Si vero responsorium ad vespervas sit cantandum, tunc principalis rector chori, post intonationem quarti psalmi, responsorium inquirat a cantore, et a quo et⁵ a quibus sit cantandum. [Si fuerit a duobus cantandum,]⁶ tunc principalis rector chori secundo responsorium signi-

⁶ D. omits the words within brackets.

In certain times of the year the table is arranged not by weeks, but by days ; namely, from the Sunday next before Christmas, when on the preceding Saturday both choirs shall have completed their turns, till the octave of the Epiphany if it happen on a Sunday. But if it falls on any day in the middle of the week, then the same shall be observed up to the Sunday next following. But if on the first Saturday before Christmas the alternation of either choir be not equally completed, then the table shall run by the day until the aforesaid term.

Also from Maundy Thursday to the octave of Easter the choir alternates day by day. The hebdomadary rulers are not changed before Easter day ; from Easter day to its octave they are changed day by day.

The same rule shall be observed in Whitsun week up to Trinity Sunday.

XXIII. OF THE OFFICE OF THE RULERS OF THE CHOIR.¹

In simple feasts the chief ruler of the choir from the beginning in vespers intones the antiphon before the psalm and the psalm itself, and shall inquire its mode from the precentor, and in what grade it should be begun ; this being ascertained he shall carry out the instructions of the precentor. If there be more antiphons before the psalms the secondary shall enjoin the second and the fourth in the same way and in the same grade. But if the responsory at vespers be sung, then the principal ruler of the choir, after the intonation of the fourth psalm, shall inquire as to the responsory from the precentor, and by whom it is to be sung. If it have to be sung by two, then the principal ruler of the choir shall signify the responsory to his secondary, and by Deinde autem¹ rector ymnum et versiculum et antiphonam super "Magnificat" et "memorias," et earum ordinem, a cantore quærat. Hiis omnibus quæsitis, ipsemet ymnum inchoet. Versiculum, si a duobus sit dicendus, per se et per secundarium, a duobus pueris ex duabus partibus chori injungat; sin autem ab uno solo per se tantum. Deinde antiphonam super "Magnificat" injunget, et psalmum ipsum intonet. Dum dicitur oratio, cui voluerit "Benedicamus" injungat; et, si duplex² fuerit, secundarius ex sua parte. "Memorias" autem ipsi rectores similiter incipiant. Ultimum vero "Benedicamus" secundarius semper ex parte sua injungat; si duplex fuerit, uterque.³

Ad matutinas officium principalis rectoris est in primis invitatorium a cantore quære et cantum psalmi "Venite"; deinde cum socio suo incipiat invitatorium et psalmum simul cantent; postea principalis rector quærat ymnum a cantore, et primam antiphonam super psalmum; deinde versiculos suo loco et primam antiphonam super laudes. Cætera omnes vero, ut supra notatum est, exequatur.

whom it is to be sung on his side. If, however, it have to be sung by one, then the principal ruler for his part may enjoin it on whom he will.

Then the ruler shall inquire from the precentor of the hymn, and versicle, and antiphon before the "Magnificat," and the "commemorations," and their order. All these things being ascertained, he shall himself commence the hymn. The versicle, if it have to be said by two, he shall direct by himself and by his secondary to be so said by two boys from two parts of the choir: but if it have to be said by one only, by himself alone. Then he shall enjoin the antiphon before the "Magnificat," and shall intone the psalm. Whilst the prayer is said he shall enjoin the "Benedicamus" on whom he will; and if it be double the secondary shall do the same on his side. The rulers themselves shall commence the "commemorations" in like manner. The last "Benedicamus" the second of the two rulers shall give out on his own side; if it be a double (i.e., feast), both shall give it out together.

It is to be noted that the choir is only ruled at vespers, at matins, and at mass.

At compline the office of the principal ruler is to enjoin the versicle, and the antiphon before "Nunc dimittis," to whom he will.

At matins the office of the principal ruler is first of all to ask what is the "Invitatory" from the precentor, and also the chant for the "Venite," and then with his fellow-ruler they shall commence the "Invitatory" and chant the psalm; afterwards the principal ruler shall ask the hymn from the precentor, and the first antiphon before the psalm; then the versicles each in its place and the first antiphon before lauds. He shall fulfil all the rest of the office as is before directed.

At prime the office of the principal ruler is to enjoin the antiphon before "Quicumque vult" and the responsory "Jesu Christe."

Ad missam ejusdem officium est in primis quærere officium a cantore, deinde socio suo illud intimare: postea simul incipiant et psalmum intonent, et "Gloria Patri" incipiant. Deinde eodem modo "Kyrie eleison" quæratur, intonetur¹ et incipiatur; deinde "sequentia," "offerenda," "sanctus," "agnus," et "communio," prædicto modo quærantur, intonentur,² et incipiantur.

Præterea in profestis diebus per totam ebdomadam ejusdem officium est ad vespas versiculum et antiphonam super "Magnificat" quærere et injungere; et "Benedicamus" injungere. Ad completorium ut supra. Ad matutinas, invitatorium quærere a cantore, et versiculos et antiphonam super "Benedictus" quærere et injungere.³

In duplicibus autem festis omnes simul rectores totum invitatorium cantent antequam a choro repetatur. Principalis rector et suus collateralis simul psalmos intonent et ymnos incipiant; et secundarius cum suo collateralis ex sua parte se gerant. Præterea ipsi collaterales versiculos, et "Benedicamus" injungant. Ad primam collateralis ex parte chori responsorium injungat; ad missam vero principalis rector "Gloria in excelsis" a cantore quærat, et sacerdoti injungat. Cætera autem omnia sicut in simplicibus festis de duobus deinde⁴ est exequantur.

Præterea est sciendum quod si aliquis rector chori in simplicibus festis in tabula scribitur ad cantandum solus, cappam sericam interim non deponat:⁵ si autem cum alio cantaverit in habitu illi se conformet. Præterea si ad legendum scribitur in tabula habitum legentium⁶ extra chorum assumat.

⁶ D. "legendo."

At mass it is the duty of the same first of all to inquire the office from the precentor, and then to intimate it to his fellow-ruler; afterwards they together begin and intone the psalm, and shall commence "Gloria Patri." Then in like manner the "Kyrie eleison" shall be ascertained, intoned, and commenced; then the "sequence," the "offertory," the "sanctus," the "agnus," the "communio,"¹ shall in like manner be ascertained, intoned, and commenced.

Moreover in ordinary days throughout the week the duty of the same ruler is at vespers to ascertain and enjoin the versicle, and antiphon before the "Magnificat"; and to enjoin "Benedicamus." At compline, as above. At matins to ascertain the "invitatory" from the precentor, and to ask and enjoin the versicles and antiphon before "Benedictus."

On double feasts all the rulers shall together chant the "invitatory" before it is repeated by the choir. The principal ruler, and his fellow-ruler on the same side of the choir, shall together intone the psalms and commence the hymns: and the secondary ruler with his colleagues shall do likewise on their side. Moreover they shall themselves enjoin the verses to be sung by the sides respectively, and the "Benedicamus." At prime the collateral ruler shall enjoin the responsory on the "choir-side"; at mass, however, the principal ruler shall ask the "Gloria in excelsis" from the precentor, and enjoin it on the priest. All the rest is to be carried out as in simple feasts of two [rulers].

Moreover it is to be noted, that if any ruler of the choir is tabled to sing alone on simple feasts, he shall not meanwhile put off his silk cope; but if he have to chant with another he shall conform himself to him as regards his choir-habit. Moreover if he is tabled to read, he shall without the choir assume the habit used by readers.

XXIV. QUOD QUILIBET CLERICUS SUB CAPPÀ UTATUR SUPERPELLICEO.

Generaliter etiam observari debet quod tam rector chori, quam quilibet alius, sub cappa serica utatur superpellicio.¹ Præterea officio rectoris [chori] est annexum, ne pueri inordinate se gerant in choro, et ne choro exeant nisi licentia, providere.

Tenantur autem pueri interesse vesperis, completorio, primæ horæ diei, et missæ; vigiliis quoque mortuorum quotiescunque fuerint, corpore presente, et in trigintalibus, et in anniversariis. Ad completorium non tenantur esse nisi qui in tabula scribuntur. In Adventu vero et a Septuagesima usque ad Quadragesimam puer ebdomadarius responsorii² tenetur interesse tertiæ et sextæ horæ diei ad antiphonas incipendas et responsoria cantanda, quando de temporali agitur. In Quadragesima vero tenetur idem interesse omnibus horis diei ad hoc³ idem faciendum.

XXV. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM IN PRIMIS
VESPERIS IN PRIMA DOMINICA ADVENTUS.

Dominica prima in Adventu ad vespervas, pulsato classico, excellentior sacerdos qui presens fuerit, dicta oratione dominica, officium exequatur. Antiphona super psalmos incipiat in secunda forma a primo clerico illius gradus, qui, dum incipit, ad chorum stet conversus; in fine autem primi versus psalmi ad altare se inclinet. Hoc etiam generaliter per totum annum observetur in conversione et inclinatione.

¹ In the Statutes of Sarum Cathedral (1319) we have in § xxx., which is headed "De habitu vicariorum," a direction that the surplices worn by the canons and others, should be "plana, et non constricta, nec opere consutorio curiosius complicata."

XXIV. THAT EVERY CLERIC SHOULD USE A SURPLICE UNDER HIS COPE.

It is generally to be observed that as well a ruler of the choir, as any other cleric, should under a silken cope use a surplice. It is, moreover, annexed to the office of ruler of the choir to see that the boys do not behave themselves disorderly in choir, or without leave quit the choir.

(Boys are bound to be present at vespers, compline, prime, and mass; at the vigils of the dead also as often as they may be, the body being there, and in tringtals, and in anniversaries. At compline only those boys are bound to be present who are tabled for the purpose. In Advent however, and from Septuagesima up to Lent, the boy tabled for the week for the responsory is bound to be present at the "hours" of tierce and sext, to commence the anthems and to sing the responsories, when the office for the season is used. In Lent indeed he is bound to be present at all the day-hours for the same purpose.)

// XXV. ON THE MANNER OF EXECUTING THE OFFICE IN THE FIRST VESPERS ON THE FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT.

On the first Sunday in Advent at vespers, the bell having been sounded, the priest highest in rank who may be present, after saying the Lord's Prayer, shall execute the office. The antiphon before the psalms shall be commenced in the second form by the first cleric of that grade, who whilst he begins shall stand turned towards the altar; in the end of the first verse of the psalm he shall bow to the altar. This custom in turning to the altar and bowing to it is to be observed generally throughout the year.

A cujuscunque gradus clerico antiphona incipiatur, secunda autem a suo pari ex opposito incipiatur:¹ cæteræ [vero] sequentes per ordinem hinc inde discurrant. Hic ordo observetur in omnibus sabbatis per totum annum super hiis antiphonis incipiendis.

Post tertium vero psalmum, tres pueri, accepta licentia a rectoribus, egrediantur ut se induant; duo ad deferendos cereos, tertius ad thuribulum. Sacerdos vero, in capitulo dicendo, nec stallum nec habitum mutet, sed dicendo ad altare se vertat, et hoc semper observetur.

Ad has vespervas duo clerici de superiori gradu cantent in cappis sericis responsorium ad gradum: eodem modo cantetur responsorium ad vespervas in sabbatis ante passionem, et ante Dominicam Palmarum.² In cæteris autem sabbatis per totum annum, quando de temporali agitur, et responsorium cantatur a duobus de secunda forma, in cappis sericis cantetur.

In penultimo versu ymni, exeat sacerdos ad cappam sericam assumendam. Dicto vero ymno unus puer ex parte chori dicat versiculum, loco nec habitu mutato, ad altare conversus. Idem modus servetur a quolibet puero quodocunque solus dicit versiculum, vel "Benedicamus."

Interim autem introeant ceropherarii, et, acceptis candelabris, veniant obviam sacerdoti ad gradum presbyterii. Deinde sacerdos benedicendo ponat thus in thuribulum, et procedat ad altare, et facta genuflexione ante altare, incenset altare primo in medio, deinde in dextra parte,³ post in sinistra; et exinde was the use up to the end of the fifteenth century, taking it to be the right hand and the left of the officiating priest. In the year 1485 the Roman pontifical laid it down as a rule, that the right hand and the left were to be taken from the crucifix upon the altar, which of course reversed the old arrangement. See Maskell's "Ancient Liturgy" (1836), p. 29, note.

Of whatever grade the cleric shall be by whom the antiphon shall be commenced, the second shall be begun by his equal on the other side; the rest that follow in their order shall run on this side and that alternately. This order shall be observed in all weeks throughout the year, as regards commencing these antiphons.

After the third psalm, three boys, leave having been obtained from the rulers, shall go out of the choir to vest themselves; two to carry the tapers, the third to carry the thurible. The priest in saying the chapter shall change neither stall nor choir-habit, but in saying it shall turn to the altar, and this is always to be observed.

At these vespers two clerics of the higher grade shall sing the responsory at the step, vested in silken copes: in the same manner shall be sung the responsory at vespers on the Saturdays before Passion Sunday and before Palm Sunday. In all other Saturdays throughout the year, when the office of the season is used, and the responsory is sung by two of the second form, it shall be so chanted in silken copes.

In the last verse but one of the hymn, the priest shall go out to put on a silken cope. The hymn having been said, one boy on the choir-side shall say the versicle, turned to the altar, changing neither his place nor his habit. The same use is followed by any boy who says the versicle alone, or "Benedicamus."

Meanwhile the taper-bearers shall enter, and, having taken their candlesticks, come to meet the priest at the step of the presbytery. Then the priest shall bless and put incense into the thurible and proceed to the altar; and having made genuflexion before the altar, shall incense the altar, first in the middle, then on the imaginem beatæ Virginis, postea arcam in qua continentur reliquiæ: deinde thurificando altare circueat.¹ Hoc peracto, [sacerdos] ad extremum gradum ante altare ad altare se inclinet; et, precedentibus ceroferrariis et thuribulo, in stallo huic officio deputato se recipiat.

XXVI. DE CHORI THURIFICATIONE.

Deinde puer ipsum sacerdotem ibidem incenset, postea rectores chori, [incipiens a principali; deinde superiorem gradum ex parte decani,]² incipiens ab ipso decano; postea superiorem gradum ex parte cantoris eodem ordine; exinde secundas formas, et primas, simili ordine, ita ut puer ipse singulis incensatis³ illis inclinet. Hæc autem fiant dum antiphona super "Magnificat" incipitur, et psalmus psallitur. Antiphona vero in superiori gradu incipiatur; et hoc generale est per totum annum, quod quælibet antiphona super "Magnificat," et "Nunc dimittis," et "Benedictus," in superiori gradu semper incipiatur.

Dum vero antiphona canitur post "Magnificat," sacerdos ad gradum accedat, et puer ebdomadarius lectionis deferat ei libellum in superpelliceo, ceroferrariis eidem sacerdoti assistentibus. Finita oratione, puer quidam dicat "Benedicamus Domino;" secundum "Benedicamus" post "memorias" dicat alius puer ex opposito eodem modo.

XXVII. DE COMPLETORIO SEQUENTE.

Ad completorium antiphonam super psalmum⁴ incipiat primus de secunda forma; psalmum intonet aliquis de superiori gradu. Quidam puer dicat versiculum; right side, afterwards on the left; and then the image of the blessed Virgin; afterwards the chest in which are contained the relics: then in incensing he shall go right round the altar. This completed, the priest, at the lowest step before the altar, shall bow to the altar; and, the taper-bearers and thurible preceding him, shall betake himself to the stall set apart for this office.

XXVI. OF THE INCENSING OF THE CHOIR.

Then the boy shall there incense the priest himself, and afterwards the rulers of the choir, beginning from the principal one; then the higher grade of clerics on the "decani" side, beginning with the dean himself; then the higher grade on the "cantoris" side in like order; next the second and first forms in like order, so that the boy himself shall bow to each of them when so incensed. This is to be done whilst the antiphon before the "Magnificat" is begun, and the psalm sung. The antiphon shall be commenced in the higher grade, and this shall be observed generally throughout the year, that any antiphon before "Magnificat," and "Nunc dimittis," and "Benedictus," shall always be commenced in the higher grade.

Whilst the antiphon is being sung after "Magnificat," the priest shall go to the step, and the "hebdomadary" boy shall, in a surplice, bring to him a book of lections, the taper-bearers standing by the same priest. The prayer being finished, one of the boys shall say "Benedicamus Domino;" the second "Benedicamus" after the "commemorations" another boy shall say, from the opposite side, in the same manner.

XXVII. OF COMPLINE THAT FOLLOWS.

At compline the first of the second form shall begin the antiphon before the psalm; one of superior grade shall intone the psalm. One of the boys shall say the et hæc omnia fiant juxta dispositionem¹ rectoris ebdomadarii.

XXVIII. DE MATUTINIS² EJUSDEM DOMINICÆ.

Eodem die ad matutinas, primam antiphonam super psalmum incipiat primus de prima forma: secunda vero antiphona a suo pari ex opposito incipiat: tertia vero a tertio sibi opposito incipiat; quarta a sub-diacono vel aliquo alio inferiore in secunda forma; quinta a diacono in secunda forma; sexta in superiori gradu a quovis pro voluntate ipsius rectoris; septima ab alio ejusdem gradus clerico; eodem modo octava et nona per ordinem.

Post inchoationem tertiæ antiphonæ, puer quidam librum ad locum legendi in habitu legentium deferat, qui et ipse primam lectionem legat, habitu non mutato. Secunda et tertia similiter a duobus pueris hinc inde legantur. Quarta a subdiacono de secunda forma, vel inferiori clerico. Quinta a diacono de secunda forma. Sexta a quovis in superiori gradu. Septima a diacono superioris gradus. Octava, et nona, a diacono vel presbytero de superiori gradu.

Primum responsorium tres pueri in superpelliceis ad gradum incipiant. Solus autem ebdomadarius primum versum; secundus, secundum; tertius, tertium; singuli per se cantent. Deinde tres "Gloria Patri" simul cantent, et similiter responsorium re-incipiant. Cetera responsoria a singulis clericis juxta ordinem lectorum cantentur, loco nec habitu mutato, ita ut ex eadem parte chori in eodem gradu singulæ lectiones cum suis responsoriis dicantur.

versicle, and all then shall be done according to the arrangement of the "hebdomadary" rules.

XXVIII. OF THE MATINS OF THE SAME SUNDAY.

On the same day at matins the first of the first form shall begin the first antiphon before the psalm; the second antiphon shall be begun by his fellow on the opposite side; the third shall be begun by a third opposite to him; the fourth by a sub-deacon or some other of lower grade in the second form; the fifth by a deacon in the second form; the sixth in a superior grade by some one at the discretion of the ruler of the choir himself; the seventh by some other cleric of the same grade; in like manner the eighth and ninth in order.

The separate versicles at matins shall be said by separate boys alternately.

After the beginning of the third antiphon, a certain boy shall bring the book to the place of reading in the habit of readers, who also himself shall read the first lection, his habit being unchanged. The second and third shall be read in like manner by two boys from opposite sides of the choir. The fourth by a sub-deacon of the second form, or an inferior cleric. The fifth by a deacon of the second form. The sixth by some one in the superior grade. The seventh by a deacon of superior grade. The eighth and ninth by a deacon or priest of the superior grade.

Let three boys in surplices begin the first responsory at the step. The hebdomadary boy alone shall sing the first verse; the second the second; the third the third; each shall sing singly. Then the three shall sing "Gloria Patri" together, and in like manner re-commence the responsory. The other responses to be chanted by the several clerics according to the order of readers, neither place nor vestment being changed, so that from the same part of the choir in the same grade the several lections with their own responses shall be said.

In laudibus prima antiphona incipiat ab aliquo in secunda forma juxta voluntatem ipsius regentis chorum. Secunda autem a suo pari ex opposito in eadem forma; ceteræ eodem modo per ordinem in eadem forma; versiculos ante laudes¹ sacerdos dicat. Cetera omnia ut ad primas vespas prænotatum est sunt exequenda.

Eadem die Dominica ad primam antiphona super psalmum² incipiat a primo clerico in secunda forma. Antiphona super "Quicumque vult" ab aliquo in superiori gradu incipiat, sicut fit in omni festo per annum quando chorus regitur. Hac die, et omni die per annum, præterquam in festis duplicibus, responsorium "Jesu Christe" dicatur a quodam puero ex parte chori pro voluntate ipsius rectoris, loco nec habitu mutato. In festis vero duplicibus idem responsorium dicatur a quovis in secunda forma, et ab eodem dicatur versus.³ Deinde in choro dicantur preces cum oratione [dominica] usque "Preciosa est," post versiculum "Qui replet in bonis desiderium."

XXIX. QUÆ PERSONÆ DICANT "Confiteor."⁴

Episcopus si adsit, vel excellentior canonicus sacerdos dicat "Confiteor," tam ad primam quam ad completorium, per totum annum, quando dicitur "Confiteor." Finita oratione in choro cum "Dominus vobiscum" et "Benedicamus Domino," cant clerici processionaliter in capitulum.

¹ D. has "versiculum ante lectionem." There can be little doubt as to this reading being the correct reading, as there were no versicles before "Lauds"; but there is a versicle before each lesson, which versicle, being a blessing, had not to be said by the next in turn, unless he were a priest.

⁴ D. Quæ persona dicat "Confiteor" in choro.

In lauds let the first antiphon be begun by some one in the second form, as the ruler of the choir wills. The second by his fellow opposite in the same form; the rest in like manner in order in the same form; a priest shall say the versicles before the lauds. Let all the rest be carried out as noted above at first vespers.

In the same Sunday at prime let the antiphon before the psalms be begun by the first clerk in the second form. Let the antiphon before "Quicumque vult" be begun by some one in the superior grade, as is usual in every feast throughout the year when the choir is ruled. On this day, and on every day throughout the year, except in double feasts, let the responsory "Jesu Christe" be said by some boy on the choir side, as the ruler shall please, neither place nor vestment being changed. But in double feasts, let the responsory be said by some one in the second form, and by the same let the verse be said. Then in choir let the prayers be said with the Lord's Prayer up to "Preciosa est," after the verse "Qui replet in bonis desiderium."

XXIX. WHAT PERSONS SHALL SAY "Confiteor."

The bishop if he be present, or the priest-canon of greatest dignity, shall say "Confiteor,"¹ as well at prime as at compline when "Confiteor" is said. Prayer being ended in choir with "Dominus vobiscum" and "Benedicamus," the clerics shall go in procession to the chapter.

XXX. DE ORDINATIONE CLERICORUM IN CAPITULO.¹Fol. 6, verso.

Sedent autem in capitulo clerici hoc ordine. Proximus episcopo a dextris sedet decanus, dehinc cancellarius, deinde archidiaconus. Dorset; dehinc archidiaconus. Wiltes, deinde subdecanus: a sinistris autem cantor, thesaurarius, archidiaconus. Berkes, alius archidiaconus. Wiltes, succentor. Proximi autem ipsis personis sedent canonici-presbyteri, deinde canonici-diaconi, subdiaconi hinc inde. Deinde vicarii-presbyteri, postea ceteri de superiori gradu vicarii; deinde canonici de secunda forma, deinde diaconi, deinde subdiaconi, et minorum ordinum clerici, de eadem forma. Pueri vero, sive fuerint canonici sive non, stent ante alios in area ex utraque parte pulpiti² suo ordine dispositi.

In primis puer quidam legat lectionem de martyrologio, sine "Jube Domne [benedicere]," et sine "Tu autem Domine," in superpelliceo. Finita lectione, obitus, si qui fuerint, pronuntiet: sacerdos vero stans post lectorem, si qui pronuncientur obitus, respondeat "Animæ eorum et animæ omnium fidelium per Dei misericordiam requiescant in pace." Deinde dicat "Preciosa in conspectu Domini, &c.," et cætera quæ ad illam horam pertinent. Quibus finitis, puer lector aliam lectionem cum "Jube Domne"³ incipiat, et eandem cum "Tu autem Domine," &c. finiat. Sacerdos this daily assembling of the various "ministers" of the cathedral, in Rock's "Church of our Fathers," iv. 127.

² Pulpitum, — here this word means the "ambo," or desk from which the lessons were read. See above, p. 10.

XXX. OF THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE CLERICS IN THE

The clerics sit in the chapter in this order: next to the bishop on the right hand sits the dean, then the chancellor, then the archdeacon of Dorset, then the archdeacon of Wilts, then the sub-dean; on the left hand the precentor, the treasurer, the archdeacon of Berkshire, the other archdeacon of Wilts, the succentor. Next to these persons sit the canon-priests, then the canon-deacons, and then the sub-deacons partly on either side. Then the priest-vicars, afterwards the rest of the vicars of a superior grade; then the canons of the second form, then the deacons, the sub-deacons, and clerks in minor orders of the same form. Let the boys, however, whether they be on the foundation or not, stand before others in the area on either side of the pulpit arranged in their order.

In the first place let a boy read the lesson from the martyrology, without "Jube Domne" and without "Tu autem Domine," in a surplice. The lesson finished, let him declare any obits, if such there be; the priest, standing behind the reader, if any obits be declared, shall reply, "Animæ eorum et animæ omnium fidelium per Dei misericordiam requiescant in pace." Then let him say "Preciosa in conspectu Domini, &c.," and the rest which belongs to that "hour;" which finished, let the boy-reader begin the other lesson with "Jube Domne," and finish the same with "Tu autem Domine." Let the priest having given the benediction autem, facta benedictione ad lectionem, in loco suo se recipiat. Puer vero finita lectione a pulpito discedat¹ et tabulam legat.

XXXI. DE TABULÆ DOMINICALIS DISPOSITIONE.

Tabula ita disponi debet: in primis scribi debent rectores chori, canonici scilicet secundum ordinem quo scripti sunt in matricula ecclesiæ, bini et bini per quindecim dies; ad lectiones legendas et responsoria cantanda, scribantur clerici in tabula pro dispositione ipsius cantoris. Deinde scribatur puer lecturus in capitulo per ebdomadam; deinde qui candelabra, quis thuribulum, quis aquam, quis acolytus ad missam, qui duo pueri ad gradale, qui duo de superiori gradu ad "Alleluia"; ita tamen quod pueri minores scribantur ad candelabra et ad aquam, majores ad legendas lectiones² in capitulo, et ad thuribulum, et ad acolytum. Ad missam vero cantandam, et ad epistolam, et ad evangelium legendum, scribi debent canonici tantum, eo ordine quo scribantur in matricula, ad illa officia exequenda. Et hæc tabulæ dispositio locum in omnibus Dominicis diebus [simplicibus] per annum habeat extra octabas.³

XXXII. DE TABULA IN DOMINICA PALMARUM.

In Dominica tamen Palmarum quædam prædictis adjiciuntur; scilicet, qui duo de secunda forma deferant reliquias ad processionem; qui tres de eadem forma ad "En Rex venit;" qui septem pueri ad "Gloria, laus;" qui tres sacerdotes ad "Unus autem," scribantur.

at the reading, retire to his own place. Let the boy when the lesson is finished leave the pulpit, and read the table.

XXXI. ON THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE TABLE FOR SUNDAYS.

The table ought to be thus arranged; first of all should be entered the rulers of the choir, the canons, to wit, according to the order in which they are entered on the roll of the church, two and two for fifteen days; for reading the lessons and singing the responses, let the clerks be entered on the table at the arrangement of the precentor himself. Then let the boy be entered who is to read in the chapter for the week; then who shall carry the tapers, who the thurible, who the water; who shall be acolyte at mass; which two boys are appointed for the gradual, which two of the upper grade for the "Alleluia"; so, however, that the junior boys shall be entered for the tapers, and the water, the seniors for reading lessons in the chapter, and also for the thurible, and as acolytes. To sing the mass, however, and to read the epistle, and the gospel, canons only ought to be entered, in that order in which they are entered on the roll, for fulfilling those offices. And let this arrangement of the table have place on all "simple" Sundays throughout the year which do not fall within octaves.

XXXII. OF THE TABLE ON PALM SUNDAY.

On Palm Sunday certain additions are made to the above-mentioned directions, to wit, which two of the second form shall carry the relics for the procession; which three of the same form shall be entered for "En Rex venit;" which seven boys for "Gloria, laus;" and which three priests for "Unus autem."

XXXIII. DE TABULA FERIALI.

XXXIV. ADJECTIO AD TABULAM FERIALEM DE COLLATIONE.

In Quadragesima quoque singulis feriis scribuntur clerici ad legendam collationem, ita quod fiat inceptio ab excellentiori ex parte chori, et legatur in superiori gradu per quatuor ebdomadas. Deinceps in secunda forma, ita tamen quod in quarta feria³ ante Pascha

XXXIII. OF THE TABLE FOR WEEK-DAYS.

On the second week-day it is thus arranged on the table : first of all is entered the hebdomadary boy to read the first lesson, and he is also bound to minister to the priest by holding the book at matins and vespers for saying the collects. For the second lesson some one in the first part of the second form opposite to him ; at the third lesson some one of superior grade in the first chapter. For singing the first responsory let the hebdomadary boy be entered : those are called hebdomadary boys for reading and singing through the week who are entered for the first lesson, and for the first responsory in the Sunday table. For singing the second, and the third, responsory, the clerks are entered after the order of readers. And this is observed on each week-day throughout the year, and on each feast of three lections without the ruling of the choir, except in the proper vigils, and in Ember-tide, and on Rogation days, when the exposition of the gospel is read at matins. Then two clerks of the second form are entered for the first lesson, and for the first responsory.

XXXIV. ADDITION TO THE WEEK-DAY TABLE RESPECTING THE DAILY READING.

In Lent also on each day the clerks are entered for the daily reading, so that a beginning be made by the highest in rank on the choir side, and that it be read in the superior grade for four weeks. Thenceforward in the second form, so, however, that on the fourth day before Easter it be read in the first form. In the feast of the Annunciation, when it is celebrated within Passion-tide, let it be read in the superior grade. It darii semper debent esse ex parte principali chori; eorum vero qui ad candelabra sunt, unus ex una parte chori, alter ex opposito; reliqui tres sunt in dispositione tabulam componentis.

XXXV. DE TABULA NATALIS DOMINI.

In die Natalis Domini tabulæ talis erit dispositio: inprimis scribantur rectores chori, deinde scribantur lectores et cantores, ad lectiones legendas vel ad responsoria cantanda, pro discretione tabulam componentium,¹ ita ut lectiones pro dignitate personarum ita gradatim ascendant, ut semper excellentior extremam legat. Simili quoque modo cantores responsoriorum ordinentur, scilicet ut eorum quoque fiat ascensus ut [tres] excellentiores, qui non legerint, ultimum responsorium cantent; ita etiam ut primam et secundam lectionem duo canonici de secunda forma legant, tertiam canonicus de superiori gradu; primum et secundum responsorium a duobus de secunda forma, tertium a tribus de secunda forma cantetur, sextum a tribus de superiori gradu.

Ad primam missam scribantur rectores chori de superiori gradu duo, et de secunda forma duo; ad "Kyrie eleison" tres; ad laudes super "Gloria in excelsis Deo" duo; ad gradale tres de secunda forma; ad "Alleluia" tres de superiori gradu.

[Ad secundam missam duo rectores tantum de secunda forma scribantur; ad gradale duo pueri; ad "Alleluia" de superiori gradu;²] deinde quis puer in capitulo cujus officium est deferre librum ad legendas lectiones ad matutinas, et dicendas collectas. Pueri vero notati in tabula dominicali ad candelabra, et ad thuribulum, et ad aquam, et ad acolytum, per totam ebdomadam is to be known, however, that the "hebdomadary" boys should always be on the principal part of the choir; of those who bear the tapers, one on one part of the choir, another on the opposite side; the other three are at the disposition of the drawer up of the table.

XXXV. OF THE TABLE FOR CHRISTMAS DAY.

The arrangement of the table on Christmas Day shall be as follows:—first of all shall be entered the rulers of the choir, then the readers and chanters, for reading the lessons or chanting the responsories, at the discretion of the drawer up of the table, so, however, that the lessons according to the dignity of the persons ascend by degrees, and that the highest in dignity always reads the last lesson. In a like manner shall the chanters of the responsories be ordered, to wit, that of them also there shall be a gradation, so that the three highest in dignity, who have not read, shall chant the last; so also that two canons of the second form shall read the first and second lesson, and a canon of the higher grade the third: the first and second responsory shall be chanted by two of the second form, the third by three of the second form, the sixth by three of the higher grade.

There shall be entered as rulers of the choir, for the first mass, two of the higher grade, and two of the second form; at "Kyrie eleison" three; at lauds for "Gloria in excelsis Deo" two; at the gradual three from the second form; at "Alleluia" three of the higher grade.

At the second mass two rulers only from the second form shall be entered; for the gradual, two boys; at "Alleluia," of the higher grade; then the boy whose office it is in chapter to carry the book for reading the lections at matins, and saying the collects. The boys named in the Sunday table for the tapers, and the thurible, and the water, and for the acolyte, shall execute juxta illam tabulam sua exequantur officia. Ad gradale tres de secunda forma; ad "Alleluia" tres excellentiores de superiori gradu. Ad evangelium canonicus secundum ordinem matriculæ, et numerum dierum communis tabulæ. Et ad epistolam, alius canonicus eodem modo et ordine.

XXXVI. DE TABULA COMMUNI.

Sciendum autem quod quamdiu tabula communiter discurrit, singulis diebus immutantur rectores. Ab inceptione enim communis tabulæ in omni simplici festo scribuntur duo rectores de secunda forma per ordinem, facta inceptione a principali capite formarum. In omni vero duplici festo duo principales rectores scribuntur pro voluntate ipsius cantoris; secundarii vero secundum predictum ordinem. Singulis etiam diebus dum tabula communiter¹ discurrit, mutantur, puer in capitulo, Missa, Evangelium, Epistola, ita scilicet quod³ lector in capitulo mutetur a die Natalis, quando in Dominica evenerit, usque ad Circumcisionem, vel usque ad primam⁴ Dominicam subsequentem: deinde sequatur tabulam dominicalem. Ad missam in festis duplicibus nullus scribetur; in ceteris vero diebus pro ordine matriculæ scribuntur² presbyteri; ad evangelium, et ad epistolam, scribuntur² canonici, tam in festis quam in pro-festis diebus singulis, eo ordine quo scribuntur in matricula. Sciendum autem quod si ordo presbyterorum, diaconorum, subdiaconorum, quo scribuntur in matricula, non possit extendi usque ad secundam vel tertiam feriam, tunc proxima Dominica precedente fiat tabula ebdomadaria. Si vero ultra tertiam feriam extendi possit, tunc proxima dominica sequenti fiat tabula ebdomadaria. Eadem regula ser-their offices throughout the week according to the table. At the gradual, three of the second form ; at "Alleluia," three of the higher grade of greatest rank. At the gospel a canon according to his order on the "roll," and the number of days of the common table. And at the epistle, another canon in the same manner and order.

XXXVI. OF THE COMMON TABLE.

It is to be known, that, as long as the common table is followed, the rulers are changed every day. From the commencement of the common table in every simple feast are entered two rulers of the second form in order, a commencement being made from the principal head of the forms. In every double feast however two principal rulers are entered at the discretion of the precentor himself ; the secondary rulers however according to the aforesaid order. On each day also whilst the common table is followed, there are changed, the boy in chapter, the Mass, the Gospel, the Epistle, so that the reader in chapter shall be changed from Christmas Day, when it happens on Sunday, till the Circumcision, or till the first Sunday following : then let it follow the Sunday table. For mass in double feasts no one shall be entered ; in all other days the priests are entered according to their order in the roll ; for the Gospel and the Epistle are entered canons, as well on festivals as on ferial days, in that order in which they are entered on the roll. It is to be understood however, that if the order of priests, deacons, and subdeacons, in which they are entered on the roll, cannot be extended as far as the second or third day, then on the Sunday immediately preceding shall be made a weekly table. If however it can be extended beyond the third day then on the Sunday immediately following shall be made a weekly table. The same rule shall be observed respecting the order of the vetur de ordine singulorum officiorum, ita ut in mediis feriis vacantibus ad predicta officia exequenda, scribantur clerici pro voluntate componentis tabulam. Incipienda est autem hæc tabula communis de missa, et evangelio, et epistola, die Dominica ante diem Natalem, nisi quando dies Natalis die Dominicali¹ contingit. Tunc enim ipsa die Natali sumit initium.

Secunda vero tabula communis de eisdem incipit die Dominica Palmarum, durans per ordinem presbyterorum usque ad ultimum; per ordinem vero reliquorum non nisi ad octabas Paschæ, sive ibi terminetur,² sive non.

Tertia tabula communis de eisdem incipit proxima Dominica ante Ascensionem, durans per illam ebdomadam tantum, quæ iterum die Pentecostes incipietur, sumpto initio ab illo in quem proximo terminata est, durans usque ad festum Sanctæ Trinitatis vel ulterius, quantum ad presbyteros, sicut predistinctum³ est in tabula Paschæ.

Transecta⁴ vero tabula communi, revertitur ad solitum cursum tabulæ ebdomadariæ, sumpto ipsius initio ubi ante Natale terminata est.

XXXVII. ADAPTATIO TABULÆ NATALIS IN ALIIS FESTIS DUPLICIBUS.

Sciendum autem quod Natalis tabulæ dispositio habet locum in omni duplici festo per annum novem lectionum; exceptis hiis, festo S. Michaelis, Omnium Sanctorum, et S. Andreae. In festis⁵ enim S. Michaelis, et S. Andreae, prima lectio solet esse in prima forma, secunda et tertia lectio in secunda forma; deinde omnes several offices, so that for performing them on vacant days in the middle of the week, shall be entered clerics at the discretion of the drawer up of the table. This common table respecting Mass, and the Gospel, and the Epistle is to be commenced on Sunday before Christmas Day, except when Christmas Day falls on a Sunday. In that case it takes its commencement on Christmas Day.

The second common table respecting the same commences on Palm Sunday, lasting through the order of the priests until the last; through the order of the rest, however, only till the octaves of Easter, whether it be there terminated or not.

The third common table concerning the same commences on Sunday next before the Ascension, lasting only for that week, which shall be again commenced on Whitsunday, taking its commencement from the day next to that on which it ended, lasting till the feast of the Holy Trinity or longer, as regards the priests, as is before made clear in the table of Easter.

The common table having been carried out, a return is made to the ordinary course of the weekly table, its beginning being taken from where it ended before Christmas.

This arrangement of the common table holds good in every common table throughout the year.

XXXVII. ADAPTATION OF THE TABLE OF CHRISTMAS IN OTHER DOUBLE FEASTS.

It is to be understood that the arrangement of the Christmas table holds good in every double feast of nine lections throughout the year; except these, the feast of St. Michael, of All Saints, and of St. Andrew. In the feasts of St. Michael and of St. Andrew, the first lesson is accustomed to be in the first form; the second and third lesson in the second form; and then all the lessons lectiones in superiori gradu, servato ordine ascensus supra notato.¹ Primum et secundum responsorium in prima forma, tertium in secunda forma, quartum in superiori gradu, et ita deinceps; hoc observato, quod omnia responsoria dupliciter cantentur, præter nonum, quod a tribus de superiori gradu cantetur.

XXXVIII. DE TABULA IN DIE OMNIUM SANCTORUM.

In festo vero Omnium Sanctorum hoc modo tabula disponitur, ut excellentior persona primam legat lectionem; et ita fiat descensus sicut ascensus in aliis festis duplicibus, ita quod quidam puer octavam lectionem legat, nonam sacerdos. Primum responsorium a duobus excellentioribus cantetur, et ita fiat² descensus modo lectorum ordine ipsorum cantorum non numero mutato, ita quod³ quinque pueri octavum responsorium cantent.

XXXIX. DE TABULA DIE PASCHÆ.

Die Paschæ tabula talis erit: primo scribantur rectores chori, omnes de superiori gradu. Ad primam lectionem scribatur aliquis de excellentioribus personis diaconus, et ita fiat assensus ut excellentior persona tertiam legat. Ad primum responsorium cantandum scribantur duo canonici, et ita fiat ascensus, ut tertium responsorium a tribus excellentioribus, qui non legerint, cantetur. Cetera omnia tabulam Natalis Domini⁴ imitentur.

Præterea in hac adjicitur quod duo⁵ diaconi de secunda forma deferant ad processionem ad vespas oleum et chrisma. Secunda et tertia et quarta die in the higher grade, the order of gradation above noted being observed. The first and second responsory is in the first form, the third in the second form, the fourth in the higher grade, and so thenceforward; this being observed, that all the responsories are chanted by two, except the ninth, which is to be chanted by three of the higher grade.

XXXVIII. OF THE TABLE ON ALL SAINTS DAY.

In the feast of All Saints the table is arranged in this way, namely that the more dignified person should read the first lesson; and there shall be made a descent, as an ascent, in other double feasts, so that a certain boy shall read the eighth, a priest the ninth lesson. The first responsory shall be chanted by two of the more dignified, and there shall be a descent, in the manner of the readers, in the order of the chanters, their number not being changed, so that five boys chant the eighth responsory.

XXXIX. OF THE TABLE ON EASTER DAY.

On Easter Day the table shall be as follows; first of all, let there be entered the rulers of the choir, all of them of the superior grade. For the first lesson, let there be entered a deacon from the most dignified persons, and so let there be an ascent that one of the more dignified read the third lesson. To chant the first responsory let there be entered two canons, and so let there be made an ascent, that the third responsory should be chanted by three of the more dignified, who have not read a lesson. All other arrangements follow the table of Christmas.

Moreover in this table it is added, that two deacons of the second form carry, at the procession at vespers, the oil and chrism. On the second, third, and fourth Paschæ duo diaconi¹ de superiori gradu primam et secundam lectionem legant, tertiam aliquis precellens persona,² ita ut in ipsa [tertia] lectione legenda fiat descensus personarum juxta numerum feriarum. Similis quoque ordo servetur in responsoriis cantandis per easdem ferias.

XL. DE ADAPTATIONE EJUSDEM TABULÆ.

Fol. 8. Hæc itaque tabula diei Paschæ locum habet in omnibus festis duplicibus trium lectionum præter processionem ad vespervas; excepto quod in tabula diei Ascensionis scribuntur duo ad deferendas³ reliquias ad processionem, exceptis octavo die Paschæ, et Inventione Sanctæ Crucis: octavo enim die Paschæ tertiam lectionem⁴ legat simplex canonicus diaconus ex parte chori, et ita fiat ascensus ut ultimam legat excellentior persona ex parte chori. Cetera omnia ut supra in tabula die Paschæ, ita tamen quod hac die Paschæ fit tabula ebdomadaria, de lectore in capitulo, de principalibus rectoribus chori, de evangelio, et epistola.

XLI. DE TABULA DOMINICALI A PASCHA USQUE AD PENTECOSTEN.

In ceteris autem diebus Dominicis usque ad Pentecosten hoc modo fiat tabula. Ad primam lectionem legendam, et ad primum responsorium, scribantur duo diaconi de secunda forma. Ad secundam et tertiam lectionem, et ad secundum et tertium responsorium, scribantur de superiori gradu clerici pro voluntate componentis tabulam; ita tamen quod tertium responsorium a duobus cantetur. Cetera fiant sicut in tabula octabarum Paschæ, nisi quod in hiis Dominicis, ad cantandum "Alleluia," scribantur pueri ebdomadarii.

day of Easter two deacons of higher grade shall read the first and second lesson, and some person high in rank the third, so that in the reading of the third lesson there shall be a descent of persons, according to the number of days. A like order is to be observed in chanting the responsories during the same days.

XL. ON THE ADAPTATION OF THE SAME TABLE.

This Easter table holds good in all double feasts of three lections, omitting the procession at vespers,—except that in the Ascension day table are entered two to carry the relics in the procession,—save on the eighth day of Easter and the invention of the Holy Cross: for on the eighth day of Easter a simple canon-deacon on the choir-side reads the third lesson, and so there shall be an ascent that the one higher in dignity on the choir-side shall read the last. All the rest shall be as above in the Easter table, so however that on this Easter-day there is made a weekly table, of the reader in chapter, of the chief rulers of the choir, of the gospel and epistle.

XLI. OF THE SUNDAY TABLE FROM EASTER TILL WHITSUNTIDE.

On all other Sundays up to Whitsuntide the table shall be drawn up in this manner. For reading the first lesson, and for the first responsory, let two deacons of the second form be entered. In the second and third lesson, and for the second and third responsory, let clerics of the superior grade be entered at the discretion of the drawer-up of the table; so however as regards the third responsory, that it be sung by two. All the rest is to be ordered as in the table for the octaves of Easter, except that on these Sundays the hebdomadary boys be entered for chanting the "Alleluia."

XLII. DE TABULÆ DISPOSITIONE IN INVENTIONE SANCTÆ CRUCIS.

XLIII. DE FERALI TABULA POST OCTABAS PASCHÆ.

In omni secunda feria, ab octabis Paschæ usque ad Dominicam Rogationum, nominatim⁵ scribantur ebdomadarii primæ lectionis et primi responsorii, quando de feria agitur. In secunda etiam feria post octabas Paschæ scribantur duo pueri ad cantandum "Alleluia" per ebdomadam. In aliis omnibus observatur dispositio tabulæ ferialis alterius temporis. Post Dominicam vero Rogationum, si secunda feria lecta fuerit expositio, et tertia vacaverit feria, ibi scribantur duo pueri ebdomadarii ad legendum et cantandum in eadem feria, et sexta, et sabbato. Si vero tertia feria non

 "INVENTION OF THE HOLY CROSS."

In the festival of the "Invention of the Holy Cross" there shall be the same arrangement of the table as in the octave of Easter.

On the second, third, and fourth days of Easter and Pentecost they follow the table of the same ferial days of Easter week. On the fifth, sixth, and seventh day of Easter and Whitsuntide two of the second form are entered as rulers of the choir; the lessons shall be in the superior grade according to the discretion of the drawer-up of the table. For the first responsory shall be entered two of the second form, and in like manner for the second responsory; for the third [two] of superior grade; for the gradual in the aforesaid days of Easter, and for the first "Alleluia" in the same days of Whitsuntide, shall be entered two boys; for the second "Alleluia" two of the superior grade.

On every second ferial day, from the octaves of Easter till Rogation Sunday, the hebdomadary charged with the first lesson and the first responsory, shall be entered by name, when the service is a ferial one. On the second ferial day after the octaves of Easter shall be entered two boys to chant the "Alleluia" throughout the week. In all other respects the arrangement of the table follows that of another ferial time. After Rogation Sunday, if on the Monday the exposition (of the Gospel) has been read, and the third day shall be vacant, then shall be entered two hebdomadary boys to read, and to chant, on that same day, as well as on the sixth, and on the Saturday. If however the third day have not vacaverit, vel¹ in ea expositio lecta fuerit, tunc ante sextam feriam non scribantur. Tabula vero secundæ feriæ post Ascensionem similis est per omnia tabulæ secundæ feriæ ante Dominicam Rogationum. In feria autem, quando expositio legenda fuerit, ad primam et secundam lectionem, et ad primum et secundum responsorium, scribantur diaconi de secunda forma. Ad tertiam lectionem, et ad tertium responsorium, duo de superiori gradu.

XLIV. DE TABULA S. THOMÆ APOSTOLI, ET ALIORUM FESTORUM, IN QUIBUS "INVITATORIUM" A TRIBUS CANTATUR.

Fol. 8,

In die S. Thomæ Apostoli tabula hoc modo componitur. Rectores ebdomadarii non mutantur, sed tertius de superiori gradu ex parte chori, pro voluntate cantoris, ad "Invitatorium" eis² in tabula associatur; ad duas primas lectiones, et ad duo prima responsoria, scribuntur pueri tres³ in tabula dominicali.⁴ Tertia lectio a subdiacono secundæ formæ, et tertium responsorium a duobus ejusdem ordinis et formæ clericis, dicantur. Ad quartam lectionem, et ad quartum responsorium, duo diaconi de eadem forma scribantur: ad quintam lectionem, et ad quintum responsorium, et deinceps, scribantur clerici de superiori gradu, ita tamen quod sextum et nonum responsorium a duobus cantetur: ad "Alleluia" duo de superiori gradu. Hæc tabulæ dispositio locum habet in omni festo

⁴ As this section describes what has to be done on the festival of St. Thomas, it seems clear that the text as given above from the Sarum MS. must be a mistake, inasmuch as the rubric is not concerned with what has to be done on a Sunday. The reading of the Dublin MS., "scribuntur pueri ut in tabula "dominicali," seems clearly enough to be the true reading; namely, that the boys were to be entered on St. Thomas' Day the same as on the Sunday list.

been vacant, or the exposition has been read in it, then they shall not be entered before the sixth day. The table of the second ferial day after the Ascension is similar in all respects to the table of the second ferial day before Rogation Sunday. But when on a ferial day the exposition has to be read, for the first and second lesson, as well as for the first and second responsory, there shall be entered deacons of the second form. At the third lesson, and at the third responsory, two of the higher grade.

XLIV. OF THE TABLE OF ST. THOMAS THE APOSTLE, AND OF OTHER FEASTS, IN WHICH THE "INVITATORY" IS CHANTED BY THREE.

On the day of St. Thomas the Apostle the table is arranged in this wise. The hebdomadary rulers are not changed, but a third of superior grade on the choir side, at the discretion of the precentor, is associated with them for the "Invitatory;" for the first two lessons, and the first two responsories, are entered three boys in the Sunday table. The third lesson shall be said by a subdeacon of the second form, and the third responsory by two clerics of the same order and form. For the fourth lesson, and the fourth responsory, two deacons from the same form shall be entered; for the fifth lesson, and for the fifth responsory, and thenceforth, shall be entered clerics of the superior grade, so however that the sixth and ninth responsory shall be chanted by two: for the "Alleluia," two of the superior grade. This arrangement of the table holds good in every feast of nine novem lectionum quando "Invitatorium" a tribus cantatur. Cantatur autem a tribus in omni simplici festo alicujus apostolorum et evangelistarum, et in octabis Epiphaniæ et Ascensionis, et in octabis Petri et Pauli, in festo beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ, et Sancti Laurentii, [in decollatione Sancti Johannis],¹ et in octabis Assumptionis B. Mariæ, et in Exaltatione Sanctæ Crucis, et in festo Sancti Michaelis "in monte tumba," et S. Martini, et S. Nicholai; in die apostolorum Philippi et Jacobi servetur cursus tabulæ quintæ feriæ ebdomadæ Paschæ.

XLV. DE TABULA S. MARCI, ET PARIUM FESTORUM, IN PASCHALI TEMPORE.

In festis Sancti Marci, et Sancti Johannis "ante Portam Latinam," et Sancti Barnabæ, quando ante Pentecosten contingunt,² ita fiat tabula. Ad primam lectionem, et ad primum responsorium, scribantur duo diaconi³ de secunda forma; et ad secundam et tertiam lectionem, et ad secundum et tertium responsorium, scribantur clerici de superiori gradu,⁴ pro voluntate componentis tabulam, ita quod tertium responsorium a duobus cantetur. Ad "Alleluia" duo de superiori gradu. In aliis vero simplicibus festis cum regimine chori, a Pascha usque ad Pentecosten, prima et secunda lectio,⁵ et primum et secundum responsorium, a clericis secundæ formæ [dicantur]. Tertia lectio, et tertium responsorium, dicantur a clericis de superiori gradu.

of the second form (see § xii., "De chori ordinatione," p. 22). It would seem possible that "gradus" is here, as elsewhere, used rather in the sense of step, than of rank.

⁵ In the Sarum MS. we have "primam et secundam lectionem"; but the reading from the Dublin MS. given above seems clearly the right one.

lections when the "Invitatory" is sung by three. It is so sung by three in every simple feast of any of the apostles and evangelists, and in the octaves of the Epiphany and the Ascension, and in the octaves of Peter and Paul, in the feast of the blessed Mary Magdalene, and of S. Laurence, in that of the beheading of S. John, and in the octaves of the Assumption of the blessed Mary, and in the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, and in the feast of S. Michael "in monte tumba,"¹ and of S. Martin, and S. Nicholas, in the day of the apostles Philip and James, the order of the table of the fifth ferial day at Easter-tide shall be followed.

XLV. OF THE TABLE OF S. MARK, AND OF SIMILAR FESTIVALS, IN EASTER-TIDE.

In the feasts of S. Mark, and of S. John "antè Portam Latinam," and of S. Barnabas, when they happen before Whitsuntide, the table shall run in this way. For the first lesson, and for the first responsory, there shall be entered two deacons of the second form; and for the second and third lesson, and the second and third responsory, there shall be entered clerics of the top grade, at the discretion of the drawer-up of the table, so however that the third responsory shall be sung by two. For the "Alleluia," two of the superior grade. In other simple feasts with ruling of choir, from Easter up to Pentecost, the first and second lesson, and the first and second responsory, by clerics of the second form. The third lesson, and the third responsory, shall be said by clerics of superior grade. If the feast be within the tival was instituted to commemorate an apparition of S. Michael on the mount, said to have taken place in 708. A church was built on the mount, dedicated to S. Michael, and the day of its consecration was fixed as the day of the annual festival. See Mabillon, "Annal. Benedict." ii. 19.

Si infra octabas Ascensionis responsorium dupliciter; si extra, simpliciter. "Alleluia" a duobus de superiori gradu.

XLVI. DE TABULA INFRA OCTABAS, ET IN DOMINICIS INFRA OCTABAS, ET IN IPSIS OCTABIS.

Infra autem octabas quaslibet sequendus est cursus tabulæ ferialis. Dominica infra octabas sequatur tabulam¹ aliarum Dominicarum, nisi in Dominicis infra octabas Natalis Domini, et Epiphaniæ, et Assumptionis, et Nativitatis Beatæ Mariæ Virginis, in quibus nonum responsorium a duobus cantatur. Ipsæ octabæ Apostolorum sequantur tabulam sui temporis.

XLVII. DE TABULA [IN] TRIBUS NOCTIBUS ANTE PASCHA.

In tribus noctibus ante Pascha, in lectionibus legendis et in responsoriis cantandis, fiat tabula sicut in festis simplicibus novem lectionum. Ad "Kyrie eleison" cantandum, eisdem noctibus duo subdiaconi de secunda forma: ad "Domine miserere" duo diaconi de eadem forma: ad versus cantandos duo presbiteri scribantur.

XLVIII. DE TABULA SIMPLICIUM FESTORUM NOVEM LECTIONUM.

Tabula vero simplicium festorum novem lectionum sequitur tabulam¹ Dominicarum simplicium, in lectionibus legendis, et responsoriis cantandis. In festo tamen S. Silvestri, pro reverentia temporis,² nonum responsorium a duobus cantatur.

octave of the Ascension the responsory is double; if without, it is simple. The "Alleluia" by two of the superior grade.

XLVI. OF THE TABLE WITHIN THE OCTAVES, AND ON SUNDAYS WITHIN THE OCTAVES, AND ON THE OCTAVES THEMSELVES.

Within any octaves the course of the ferial table is to be followed. Sunday within the octave shall follow the table of other Sundays, except on Sundays within the octave of Christmas, and the Epiphany, and the Assumption and Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, in which the ninth responsory is sung by two. The octaves of Apostles shall follow the table of their own season.

XLVII. OF THE TABLE FOR THE THREE NIGHTS BEFORE EASTER.

On the three nights before Easter, for reading the lessons and singing the responsories, the table shall be drawn up as for simple feasts of nine lections. For singing "Kyrie eleison" on the same nights two subdeacons of the second form; for "Domine miserere" two deacons of the same form: for singing the verses, two priests shall be set down.

XLVIII. ON THE TABLE OF SIMPLE FEASTS OF NINE LLECTIONS.

The table of simple feasts of nine lections follows the table of "simple" Sundays, as regards the reading of the lessons, and singing the responsories. In the feast, however, of S. Silvester, from reverence of the season, the ninth responsory is sung by two.

XLIX. DE MODO EXEQUENDI HORAS DIEI IN PRIMA DOMINICA ADVENTUS DOMINI.

Fol. 9. Predicta die Dominica ad matutinas principalis rector chori ebdomadarius ymnium incipiat, vel incipi faciat, ab aliquo de superiori gradu. Antiphona super psalmos incipiatur a secundo clerico de secunda forma ex parte chori, et ita ceteræ antiphonæ ad ceteras horas per ordinem discurrant. Psalmum intonet, vel intonari faciat ab aliquo de superiori gradu, predictus rector chori. Nulla enim ymni vel psalmi inceptio vel intonatio fieri debet ullo die per annum, nisi in superiori gradu, quando chorus non regitur.¹ Responsorium dicatur in secunda forma a clerico proximo illi qui antiphonam incepit. Capitulum et collectam dicat sacerdos, loco nec habitu mutato. Similis modus et ordo servetur in ceteris horis dicendis. Eodem die, ad secundas vespervas, antiphona super psalmos incipiatur a primo clerico subdiacono; secunda antiphona a suo pari ex opposito incipiatur: ceteræ antiphonæ simili modo per ordinem discurrant. Hic ordo servetur² in omnibus Dominicis diebus per annum super hiis antiphonis incipiendis. Responsorium ab aliquo de secunda forma cantetur, juxta voluntatem ipsius rectoris, loco nec habitu mutato. Hoc eodem modo cantetur responsorium omni die Dominicali quando de temporali agitur, et responsorium habetur, excepta Dominica Palmarum; tunc enim cantetur responsorium ab aliquo de superiori gradu. Sciendum autem quod solummodo in Adventu et in Quadagesima dicitur responsorium diebus Dominicis ad secundas vespervas. Completorium non mutatur.

¹ The meaning of this rubric would seem to be,—that the clerics of the second form should continue to give out the “antiphons” in the regular order one after the other; but not so with regard to the “hymns” and “psalms,” for these are always begun by one of the canons in the upper grade whenever the choir is not “ruled,” and so are not given out by the “ruler” of the choir” himself.

XLIX. ON THE MODE OF FULFILLING THE "HOURS" OF THE DAY IN THE FIRST SUNDAY OF ADVENT.

On the aforesaid Sunday at matins let the principal hebdomadary ruler of the choir begin the hymn, or cause it to be begun by some one of the superior grade. Let the antiphon before the psalms be begun by the second clerk of the second form on the choir side, and so let the rest of the antiphons at the other "hours" run on in succession. Let the aforesaid ruler of the choir intone the psalm, or cause it to be intoned by some one of the superior grade. For no beginning of any hymn or psalm or intonation should be made on any day throughout the year except in the superior grade, when the choir is not ruled. Let the responsory be said in the second form by the clerk next to him who began the antiphon. Let a priest say the chapter and collect, without change of vestment or place. Let a like mode and order be observed in saying the other "hours." On the same day, at second vespers, let the antiphon before the psalms be begun by the first clerk subdeacon; the second by his fellow opposite; let the rest in like manner run hither and thither in order. Let this order be observed on all Sundays throughout the year in beginning these antiphons. Let the responsory be sung by some one of the second form, at the discretion of the ruler himself, without change of place or vestment. In this same mode let the response be sung on every Sunday, when the office is of the season, and there is a responsory; except on Palm Sunday, for then the response is sung by some one of the superior grade. It is to be known that only in Advent and in Lent is a responsory said on Sundays at second vespers. Compline is not changed.

L. ADAPTATIO SERVITII DIEI DOMINICÆ PRIMÆ IN ADVENTU IN ALIIS DOMINICIS PER ANNUM.

Sicut in hac die Dominica, ita singulis diebus expletur servitium per annum quando de temporali agitur: excepto quod non qualibet die Dominica dicitur responsum ad vespervas, et excepto quod in Quadragesima in Dominicis [diebus], dicitur responsum, et¹ ad utrumque completorium, ab aliquo de secunda forma pro arbitrio rectoris ebdomadarii: et excepto quod per quatuor extremas Dominicas Quadragesimæ dicuntur tres versus post antiphonam super "Nunc dimittis," ad utrumque completorium. In Sabbatis autem in superiori gradu; in Dominicis in secunda forma; in Dominica Palmarum in superiori gradu dicuntur. Similiter, in quolibet festo novem lectionum, tres versus post antiphonam super "Nunc dimittis," per quatuor extremas ebdomas in Quadragesima, ad utrumque completorium, dicuntur modo predicto; excepta Annuciatione Dominica, tunc enim ad utrumque completorium in superiori gradu dicitur² versus; et excepto quod in Dominicis Passionis Domini,³ una sola antiphona dicitur super psalmos in singulis nocturnis, quarum prima⁴ in prima forma; secunda, in secunda forma; tertia, in superiori gradu. Similiter in matutinis⁵ una sola antiphona dicitur super psalmos, et illa incipitur in superiori gradu; et una sola antiphona in laudibus. In octabis tamen Paschæ, quinque antiphonæ in laudibus dicuntur in superiori gradu; et in proxima⁶ Dominica ante Ascensionem Domini quinque in secunda forma. Et exceptis quibusdam quæ ad tabulam dominicalem illius temporis pertinent; et exceptis mediis

L. ADAPTATION OF THE SERVICE OF ADVENT SUNDAY ON OTHER SUNDAYS THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

As on this Sunday, so on each Sunday is the service fulfilled throughout the year, when it is the service for the season : except that a responsory is not said in every Sunday at vespers, and except that on Sundays in Lent, the responsory is said at each compline by one of the second form at the pleasure of the hebdomadary ruler ; and except that in the four last Sundays of Lent, three verses are said after the antiphon before "Nunc dimittis" at either compline. On Saturdays, however, they are said in the superior grade, on Sundays in the second form, on Palm Sunday in the superior grade. In like manner in every feast of nine lections the three verses after the antiphon before "Nunc dimittis," through the last four weeks in Lent, at either compline, are said in the aforesaid manner ; except in the Annunciation, for then at either compline the verse is said in the superior grade ; and except that on Sundays of the Lord's Passion one antiphon only is said before the psalms in each nocturn, of which the first [is begun] in the second form, the second in the second form, the third in the superior grade. In like manner at matins one antiphon only is said before the psalms, and that is begun in the superior grade ; and one antiphon only at lauds. In the octaves of Easter, however, five antiphons in lauds are said in the superior grade ; and in the Sunday next before the Ascension five in the second form. Excepting certain things which pertain to the Sunday table of that season ; and excepting also the Dominicis post inceptionem historiarum, tunc enim una sola antiphona dicitur in laudibus; et excepto tempore Paschali, tunc enim in Sabbatis non dicitur nisi una antiphona super psalmos.

LI. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM¹ FERIALE IN SECUNDA FERIA ADVENTUS.

Secunda feria in Adventu, Invitatorium, a cantore quæsitum,² cantet aliquis de secunda forma vice rectoris ebdomadarii; ymnus³ in superiori gradu incipiatur ad dispositionem rectoris. Cetera etiam omnia quæ ad generale officium rectoris pertinent, idem rector per se vel per alium exequatur. Prima antiphona a primo primæ formæ incipiatur; secunda antiphona a sibi opposito primæ vel secundæ formæ, et ceteræ secundum ordinem discurrant, ita quod quinta incipiatur a primo clerico secundæ formæ, ex parte chori. In laudibus prima⁴ et tertia antiphona a predictis duobus pueris incipientur. Ceteræ in secunda forma incipientur, ordine clericorum continuato prius incepto. Cetera omnia quæ ad matutinas pertinent ut in Dominica expleantur: excepto quod in feriis omnes ymni in superiori gradu incipiuntur; et preterea sacerdos in collectis dicendis, locum nec habitum mutat, ad vespervas et ad matutinas. Preterea non incensatur altare in feriis, ad matutinas vel ad vespervas, ad "Magnificat" et ad "Benedictus." Ad primam, antiphona super psalmos a primo primæ formæ incipiatur ex parte chori; antiphonam super "Quicumque vult," primus de secunda forma incipiat. Responsorium ab aliquo primæ formæ dicatur. Cetera omnia vero ut in precedente Dominica, nisi quod in hac feria ad omnes horas preces cum prosternationibus⁵ fiunt. Ad middle Sundays after the beginning of the "histories," for then one antiphon only is said in lauds; and except Easter-tide, for then on Saturdays there is said but one antiphon before the psalms.

LI. ON THE MODE OF FULFILLING THE FERIAL OFFICE ON THE SECOND DAY¹ OF ADVENT.

On the second day in Advent, the Invitatory, when ascertained from the precentor, one of the second form shall sing in place of the hebdomadary ruler; the hymn shall be begun in the superior grade at the arrangement of the ruler. All other things which pertain to the general office of the ruler, the same ruler shall perform, either by himself or another. Let the first antiphon be begun by the first of the first form, the second by his opposite of the first or second form, and the rest run in order, so that the fifth may be begun by the first clerk of the second form, on the choir side. In lauds let the first and third antiphon be begun by the aforesaid two boys. Let the rest be begun in the second form, the order of clerks previously begun being continued. Let all other things pertaining to matins be carried out as in Sunday, except that on week-days all the hymns are begun in the superior grade. And further, the priest in saying the collects changes neither place nor vestment at vespers and at matins. Moreover let not the altar be incensed in week-days, at matins or at vespers, at "Magnificat" and at "Benedictus." At prime, let the antiphon before the psalms be begun by the first of the first form on the choir side; let the first of the second form begin the antiphon before "Quicumque vult." Let the responsory be said by one of the first form. All the rest shall be as in the preceding Sunday, except that in this week-day, at all the "hours," the prayers are tertiam, antiphonam super psalmos incipiat puer ebdomadarius responsorii, et responsum cantet; cetera fiant ut in precedente Dominica. Ad sextam eodem modo fiant omnia sicut ad tertiam. Ad nonam, antiphona super psalmos incipiat a primo clerico secundæ formæ; responsum a sibi proximo cantetur; cetera ut in aliis horis. Ad vespervas, primam antiphonam incipiat primus primæ formæ; secundam sibi oppositus de eadem forma: ceteræ omnes in eadem forma per ordinem discurrant. Responsum cantet puer ebdomadarius responsorii: cetera fiant ut superius ad matutinas. Ad completorium, antiphonam super psalmos incipiat quidam de prima forma pro voluntate rectoris ebdomadarii. Cetera ut in Dominicis, nisi quod hic fiunt preces [cum prostrationibus].²

LII. ADAPTATIO EJUSDEM IN ALIIS FESTIS¹ PER ANNUM.

Modus et ordo servitii hujus feriæ singulis feriis per annum servetur, quando de temporali agitur, excepto quod extra Adventum et Septuagesimam puer ebdomadarius responsorii non tenetur interesse tertiæ, nec ceteris horis sequentibus diei, et preterquam in Sexagesima, quia tunc ad nonam antiphona super psalmos a puero ebdomadario incipitur, et responsum ab eodem cantatur. [Ad completorium quoque responsum ab aliquo primæ formæ cantatur;]² ad vespervas etiam in alio tempore quam in Adventu et in Quadragesima, in feriis non dicitur responsum. Præterea in Paschali tempore ad matutinas et ad vespervas, non dicitur nisi una sola antiphona super psalmos, nec said prostrate. At tierce, let the hebdomadary boy of the responsory begin the antiphon before the psalms, and sing the responsory; the rest shall be done as in the previous Sunday. At sext, let everything be done in the same manner as at tierce. At none-song, let the antiphon before the psalms be begun by the first clerk of the second form; and let the responsory be sung by the next to him; let the rest be as in the other "hours." At vespers, let the first of the first form begin the antiphon; the second antiphon, the opposite to him of the same form; all the rest shall run in order in the same form. Let the hebdomadary boy of the responsory sing the responsory; let the rest be as above at matins. At compline, let one of the first form begin the antiphon before the psalms, at the discretion of the hebdomadary ruler. Let the rest be as on Sundays, except that here there are prayers with prostrations.

LIII. ADAPTATION OF THE SAME TO OTHER WEEK-DAYS (?) THROUGHOUT THE YEAR.

Let the mode and order of this week-day be observed in other week-days throughout the year, when it is the office for the season, except that out of Advent and Septuagesima the hebdomadary boy of the responsory is not bound to be present at tierce, nor at the other following "hours" of the day, and except in Sexagesima, because then at none-song the antiphon before the psalms is begun by the hebdomadary boy, and the responsory is sung by the same. At compline also the responsory is sung by one of the first form: also at vespers at other times than in Advent and in Lent, a responsory is not said on week-days. Moreover in Easter-tide, at matins and at vespers, one antiphon only is said before the psalms, etiam in laudibus, neque preces fiunt cum prosternationibus.¹ Preterea in Quadragesima omnes horæ diei ante missam dicuntur. Post missam vero sine intervallo "Placebo," et vespere diei: deinde vespere de Sancta Maria. Post prandium autem, pulsata collatione, dicuntur vigiliæ mortuorum: deinde legitur in collatione, habitu non mutato. Postea sequitur completorium.

LIII. MODUS EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM IN DIE NATALI DOMINI.

In die Natali Domini ad primas vespervas, primam antiphonam super psalmos incipiat aliquis excellentior persona post illum qui exequitur officium illius diei. Secunda ab excellentiore alterius partis chori incipitur, et ita discurrant singulæ personarum dignitate. Capitulum episcopus in cappa serica dicat, loco non mutato. Responsorium, cantor et aliæ duæ personæ cantent, pro dispositione ipsius cantoris, in cappis sericis. Dum ymnus² canitur, duo pueri, qui serviunt de thuribulo,³ duas cappas de serico deferant principali sacerdoti, quarum alteram alteri sacerdoti pro voluntate sua transmittat, ad thurificandum altare. After mass, however, follow without interval "Placebo," and the vespers of the day; then the vespers of Saint Mary. After dinner however, an assembly being summoned, the vigils of the dead are said; then there is reading in assembly, without change of habit. Afterwards compline follows.

LIII. MANNER OF EXECUTING THE OFFICE ON CHRIST- MAS DAY.

On Christmas Day at the first vespers, some one more dignified person, after him who executes the office of that day, shall commence the first antiphon before the psalms. The second shall be commenced by the more dignified of the other side of the choir, and so each shall run with the dignity of the "persons." The bishop, not changing his place, shall say the chapter in a silken cope. The precentor and two other "persons" shall sing the responsory, on the appointment of the precentor himself, in silken copes. Whilst the hymn is sung, two boys who serve with the thurible, shall take two silken copes to the principal priest, one of which he shall transfer to another priest at his discretion, for the incensing of the altar. Two boys in surplices shall say the versicle; the more dignified "person" on the choir side shall commence the antiphon before the "Magnificat"; and, if the bishop be present, the precentor shall enjoin¹ the antiphon itself on him.

LIV. ON THE MANNER OF INCENSING THE ALTAR.

After the commencement of the antiphon, the priest who presides at the office, with another priest next in rank to himself, shall proceed to incense the altar with two thuribles, one of which shall be served by the

When they have been incensed, the priests shall both meet at the door of the presbytery on the south side, and so they shall enter it, and incense the bishop in his own seat; then the inferior of the two shall incense the superior, before the choir-step.) Should the bishop not be present, the second priest shall incense his superior in the seat appointed for the hebdomadary priest. At saying the collect, the bishop alone shall not change his place. "Benedicamus" shall be said by two of the second form in surplices. At compline, one of the higher grade shall begin the antiphon before the psalms. A boy shall say the versicle without changing his place or his "habit." One of the more dignified shall begin the antiphon before "Nunc dimittis," on the appointment of the ruler. At matins, the antiphons upon the psalms shall in the same way run from this side to that, as at first vespers. The separate versicles shall be said by two boys in surplices at the step. Six lessons shall be read in surplices; the seventh, eighth, and ninth in silken copes. The separate responsories shall be said in surplices at the step. The readers and chanters, at vespers, at matins, and at mass, after they have read and chanted, shall bow themselves before the bishop for benediction. It is to be understood, that during each of the nocturns, at the second, fifth, and eighth lesson, the altar shall be incensed by a priest, taken alternately from either side of the choir, vested in a silken cope. The choir also shall be incensed by one boy alone. When

But the other altars shall not be incensed. It is to be understood, however, that, whenever the bishop may be present, by him, without any change of place, shall the blessing be pronounced over the incense to be placed in the thurible by the priest or deacon. The "Te Deum laudamus" being finished, the first mass shall be sung, at the close of which, the principal priest shall say the versicle before lauds. The antiphons at lauds shall run on in the upper grade, following the order first begun but not completed in the rest of the antiphons; the chapter, and all else that belongs to matins, shall be carried out in the same way and order as at vespers, except that only the principal altar is incensed at matins; and moreover, the last "Benedicamus" shall be said by two boys in surplices. At prime, the antiphon before the psalms in the superior grade; the antiphon before "Quicumque vult" shall be begun by the second highest in dignity on the choir-side; the responsory "Jesu Christe" by some one of the second form, according to the choice of the secondary ruler, with a change neither of place nor "habit." All the rest that belongs to prime shall not be changed. At tierce, the antiphon before the psalms is in the higher grade; the responsory in the second form, according to the pleasure of the ruler. The same mode shall be observed in the other "hours." At the second vespers, the first antiphon before the psalms, at the pleasure of the precentor himself, shall be commenced by some canon in the superior grade; the second, in like manner, by his fellow on the other side, and so of the rest. LV. ADAPTATIO EJUSDEM FESTI IN ALIIS FESTIS
DUPLICIBUS.

Simili modo expletur servitium in aliis duplicibus festis majoribus novem lectionum: in hiis scilicet, in Epiphania, Purificatione, in festo S. Trinitatis, in Assumptione, et Nativitate beatæ Mariæ, et in festo Reliquiarum, et in festo Omnium Sanctorum; [excepto quod in festo Omnium Sanctorum]³ servatur ordo preposterus in lectionibus legendis, et responsorii cantandis, quantum ad dignitatem lectorum et cantorum; et octavum responsorium a quinque pueris⁴ in superpelliceis et amictibus,⁵ capita velatis, cereosque accensos singulis deferentibus, cantatur; et ex-choir and the presbytery sang the response, "Audivi vocem de celo dicentem, Venite omnes virgines sapientissimæ," &c. Rock's Church of our Fathers, iv. 257.

the more dignified at the arrangement of the precentor; all the rest as above at matins and first vespers. The first "Benedicamus" being finished, all the deacons in silken copes, and carrying lighted tapers, shall go in procession from the altar of St. Nicholas, through the middle of the choir, to the altar of St. Stephen; and then, the responsory having been sung and the "com-memoration" of St. Stephen¹ finished, singing some responsory of St. Mary, they shall return into the choir; and there they shall so wait until the prayer of that "memorial" is ended. "Benedicamus" is said by two deacons. At compline the antiphon before the psalms shall be begun by a canon of the superior grade. The rest is not changed.

LV. ADAPTATION OF THE SAME FEAST TO OTHER DOUBLE FEASTS.

The service is fulfilled in a similar way in other greater double feasts of nine lessons: to wit, in these, Epiphany, Purification, the feast of the Holy Trinity, in the Assumption, and Nativity of the blessed Mary, and in the feast of Relics, and in the feast of All Saints; except that in the feast of All Saints the reversed order is observed in reading the lessons, and singing the responsories, as regards the dignity of the readers and singers; and the eighth responsory is sung by five boys in surplices and their heads veiled with amices, and each of them bearing a lighted taper; and

LVI. DE MINORIBUS FESTIS DUPLICIBUS.

In aliis etiam minoribus festis duplicibus, ut in die S. Thomæ martyris, Annuntiatione Dominica, Nativitate S. Johannis Baptistæ, in festo apostolorum Petri et Pauli, in festo S. Michaelis, et S. Andreæ, potest predictus modus servitii servari; excepto quod ad primas vespervas, et ad secundas, una sola antiphona super psalmos dicitur, et illa¹ incipitur in superiori gradu, pro voluntate cantoris. Preterea in hiis festis, ad vespervas non incensatur nisi principale altare; nec² ad matutinas in nocturnis incensatur altare vel chorus. Preterea ultima lectio non semper ab excellentiore legitur, sed ab excellentiore ex parte chori. Preterea in festo S. Michaelis, et S. Preterea nullum responsorium a tribus cantatur nisi nonum. Preterea omnes antiphonæ super laudes, pro dispositione rectoris, in secunda forma discurrunt.³ except also, that in these double feasts the gospel is not chanted at matins save in Epiphany. Moreover in none other of the aforesaid festivals shall any lesson be read except in surplices.

LVI. OF THE LESSER DOUBLE FEASTS.

In other lesser double feasts also, as in the day of S. Thomas the martyr, the Annunciation, the Nativity of St. John Baptist, the feast of the apostles Peter and Paul, the feast of S. Michael, and of S. Andrew, the aforesaid manner of service may be observed; except that at first and at second vespers, one antiphon only is said before the psalms, and that is commenced in the superior grade, at the discretion of the precentor. Moreover in these feasts, none, save the high altar, is incensed at vespers; and neither altar nor choir is incensed in nocturns at matins. Moreover the last lesson is not always read by the more dignified, but by the more dignified on the choir side. Moreover in the feast of St. Michael, and of St. Andrew, the first lesson is read in the first form, the second and third in the second form. The first and second responsory (are sung) in the first form, the third in the second form. Moreover no responsory is sung by three, except the ninth. Moreover all the antiphons before lauds, at the arrangement of the ruler, run in the second form.

In die Paschæ tres antiphonæ super psalmos eodem modo discurrant, sicut tres primæ Natalis Domini; et tres lectiones et tria responsoria sicut in tertio nocturno diei Natalis Domini. Preterea altare non incensatur hoc die, nisi ad "Te Deum laudamus" et "Benedictus." In laudibus, antiphonæ et cetera eodem modo discurrant ut in nocte Natalis Domini. ³ D. adds "servitium,"

⁴ The words "cum eodem versu," translated as above, though it may well seem the natural rendering, are hardly apposite to the object of this section, which is not to tell us what verses or psalms have to be sung, but by whom, and how, they are to be sung. A suggestion has been made that "versus" in this passage really means a "turning," and not a "verse," the meaning being that the two cantors shall sing with "the same turning,"—i.e., turning in the same direction, as previously ordered, in the words "conversi ad chorum." It is admitted that such use of "versus" is not a known one.

LVIII. OF EASTER DAY.

On Easter Day the three antiphons before the psalms shall run in the same manner as the first three of Christmas Day, and the three lessons and three responsories as in the third nocturn of Christmas Day. Moreover the altar is not incensed on this day except at "Te Deum laudamus," and "Benedictus." In lauds, the antiphons and the rest shall run in the same manner as in the night of Christmas. In commencing the antiphons, at prime and at the other "hours," the same manner shall be observed as on Christmas Day. Throughout the week, however, the priest shall say the versicles at all the "hours" before the collect. At the second vespers, the rulers on the choir side, turned towards the choir, shall commence "Kyrie eleison": the antiphon before the psalms shall be commenced by some one in the top grade at the pleasure of the precentor. The gradual shall be sung with the same verse by two of those who may have sung at mass, without any change of habit; in like manner the "Alleluia," by two of

After "Benedicamus" has been said, the procession shall go to the font through the south door of the presbytery, with the cross, the candle-bearers, the thurifer, the oil, and chrism, and a boy carrying the book before the priest, all of them wearing albs except the boy who carries the book before the priest, who shall be in a surplice, and the priest, who in like manner shall be vested in a surplice, with a silken cope. The rulers, however, both in going and returning shall commence the antiphons. The procession having been completed, as is described in the Ordinal, and the "commemoration" of St. Mary finished, the "Benedicamus" shall be said by two boys. At compline, the antiphon shall be commenced by some one of the superior grade.

On the second day,¹ the antiphon before the psalms shall be commenced in the superior grade, the lessons and responsories shall be read and sung in the superior grade in surplices: all the rest as on Easter day, except that at lauds one antiphon only is said, which is commenced in the superior grade. After "Benedictus," the procession shall go to the cross, through the western entrance of the choir, with the [processional] cross, and taper-bearers, and thurifer, and a boy carrying the book before the priest, who shall all be in the same "habit" as at vespers, except him who carries the cross in a surplice. At the "station," two of superior grade shall say the verse, turning to the choir, in surplices. The procession finished, they shall return to the choir; and the rest is performed as above at the procession at vespers. At prime and at the rest of the "hours" all shall be done as on Easter Day. At vespers and at compline all shall be done in like manner as on Easter Day.

LIX. DE TERTIA ET QUARTA FERIIS¹ PASCHÆ.

LX. DE OCTAVIS³ PASCHÆ.

Octava die Paschæ ad vespervas, antiphona super psalmos in superiori gradu incipiatur pro voluntate rectoris; antiphonam super "Magnificat" unus de excellentioribus ex parte chori incipiat: cetera fiant ut in die Paschæ ad vespervas, præter gradalem, et "Alluia," et processionem. Completorium fiat sicut in aliis duplicibus festis novem lectionum. Ad matutinas, antiphonæ super psalmos, lectiones, et responsoria, in superpelliciis, in superiori gradu, discurrant, pro voluntate cantoris. In laudibus, antiphonæ eodem modo in superiori gradu discurrant; cetera omnia ut supra in feriis ad processionem.⁴ Ad primam et ad alias horas idem modus servetur qui in duplicibus novem lectionum. Ad secundas vespervas, antiphonæ super psalmos, et super "Magnificat," in superiori gradu incipientur pro voluntate rectoris. Cetera ad vespervas, et ad completorium, ut in festis duplicibus novem lectionum.

⁴ The correct reading is probably that of D., "præter processionem." If the reading "ad processionem," as in the Sarum MS., is retained, it must be taken as equivalent to "usque ad," that is, "all the rest as described above on ferial days up to the procession," or, "as far as the procession," for on reaching the octave-day the procession ceased.

LIX. OF THE THIRD AND FOURTH DAYS AFTER EASTER.

The manner and order of the service of the third and fourth days is similar through all services to those of this day.¹

LX. OF THE OCTAVE OF EASTER.

On the octave of Easter, at vespers, the antiphon before the psalms shall be commenced in the superior grade, at the will of the ruler; one of those higher in dignity on the choir side shall commence that on the "Magnificat"; all the rest shall be as on Easter Day at vespers, except the gradual, and "Alleluia," and the procession. Compline shall be as on all double feasts of nine lections. At matins, the antiphons before the psalms, the lessons and the responsories, shall be assigned to those in the higher grade, in surplices, at the discretion of the precentor. In lauds, the antiphons shall run in like manner in the superior grade: all the rest as above on ferial days up to the procession. At prime, and at the other "hours," the same manner shall be observed as in double feasts of nine lections. At second vespers, the antiphons before the psalms and the "Magnificat" shall be commenced in the superior grade, at the will of the ruler. All the rest at vespers, and at compline, shall be as in double feasts of nine lections.

LXI. ADAPTATION IN THE CASE OF OTHER DOUBLE FEASTS IN EASTER-TIDE.

The manner and order of the service of this day shall be observed on the festival of the Annunciation when that feast is celebrated after Easter, and on the Invention of the Holy Cross, except that then at either vespers the responsory is said as in double feasts of nine lections. On the fifth, sixth, and seventh days of Easter and Whitsun week, the antiphons before the psalms shall be sung in vespers in the superior grade, the versicles by two boys; the rest shall be as on the second "feria" of those weeks. At matins the antiphon before the psalms shall be said in the superior grade; the lessons and responsories in surplices. At lauds, the antiphon is in the second form; the rest shall be as on the first vespers of the same days. At prime, and at other "hours," it shall be as on the Sundays of their respective seasons.

LXII. ON THE MANNER OF PERFORMING THE OFFICE ON ASCENSION DAY.

On the vigil of the Ascension the antiphon before the psalms at vespers shall be commenced by one of the more dignified on the "decani" side; three of the more dignified shall sing the responsory; the antiphon before the "Magnificat" shall be commenced by the officiating canon of the day; all the rest at vespers, and at compline, as in the other feasts of nine lections. At matins, in commencing antiphons, in reading lessons, and singing responsories, the same order and manner shall be observed as on Easter Day. At prime, and at the other "hours," the same manner and order shall be observed as in the octaves of Easter; except that, at the second vespers, the responsory is chanted by three of the more dignified. LXIII. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM IN FESTO
S. THOMÆ APOSTOLI.

In vigilia S. Thomæ Apostoli ad vespervas, antiphona super psalmos in superiori gradu pro voluntate rectoris incipiatur; responsorium duo de superiori gradu; versiculum duo pueri in superpelliciis. Antiphona super "Magnificat" in superiore gradu: "Benedicamus" duo de secunda forma in superpelliciis: secundum "Benedicamus" unus dicat, loco nec habitu mutato; cetera omnia, ad vespervas, et ad completorium, ut in Dominicis. In laudibus, antiphonæ in secunda forma hinc inde discurrant pro voluntate rectorum ordine servato incepta inchoatione tertiæ et quartæ antiphonarum:² cetera omnia ut ad

Fol. 11,
verso.

² The meaning seems to be, that the ruler of the choir shall give the first antiphon to any one he pleases on one side of the choir, and the second to some one on the other side of the choir, but that afterwards the usual order is followed;

namely, the one next after him who commenced the first antiphon begins the third, and the one next after him who commenced the second antiphon begins the fourth, and so on, running in order from one side to the other. The clause slightly paraphrased might run thus, "—the regular turns being afterwards observed, beginning with the commencement of the third and fourth antiphons."

sunday is the same in all respects as in Ascension Day. The service however of the three following days shall follow the manner and order of the same days in Easter week, as regards beginning antiphons, reading the lessons, and singing the responsories.

LXIII. ON THE MANNER OF PERFORMING THE OFFICE ON THE FEAST ST. THOMAS THE APOSTLE.

On the vigil of St. Thomas the Apostle at vespers the antiphon before the psalms shall be commenced in the superior grade at the discretion of the ruler; two of superior grade shall sing the responsory; two boys, in surplices, the versicle. The antiphon before the "Magnificat" shall be in the superior grade; two of the second form shall say the "Benedicamus" in surplices; one only shall say the second "Benedicamus," changing neither his position nor his 'habit;' all the rest at vespers and at compline shall be as on Sundays. At matins, the invitatory shall be chanted by three in silken copes: the first and second antiphons shall be in the first form, the third by a subdeacon in the second form, the fourth by a deacon of the same form on the opposite side, the fifth and thenceforth in the superior grade at the will of the ruler; the lessons are read without a change of 'habit,' except that the third and sixth and ninth responsory are said in surplices. In lauds the antiphons run from one side to the other in the second form at the will of the ruler, yet so that the usual order shall be followed, beginning with the commencement of the third and fourth antiphons; all the rest as at first vespers. At

Iste modus et ordo servitii servetur in omnibus festis et octavis novem lectionum quando invitatorium est triplex.¹ In die apostolorum Philippi et Jacobi servetur modus et ordo quintæ feriæ ebdomadæ Paschæ; excepto quod hic² dicitur, ad primas vesp̄eras, responsum a duobus de superiori gradu, et nulla fit processio. In festis S. Marci, et S. Johannis ante portam Latinam, et S. Barnabæ apostoli, quando ante Pentecosten contingit,³ antiphona super psalmos ad primas vesp̄eras in superiori gradu, et cetera omnia ad vesp̄eras, et ad completorium, ut in festis novem lectionum quando invitatorium a tribus dicitur. Ad matutinas, antiphona super psalmos in superiori gradu; lectiones et responsoria, habitu non mutato, dicantur, excepto tertio responso quod in superpellicis dicitur. Cetera omnia ad matutinas, et ad alias horas diei, ut in festis novem lectionum aliorum apostolorum.

¹ Though in both MSS. in the heading of this section we have "duplex," it seems clearly from what follows to be a mistake for "triplex." The "invitatorium" is not doubled like an antiphon, by being repeated twice over, but on the other hand is sometimes sung by two, or by three, or even by more. In this section we read of "invitatorium quod a tribus dicitur." The expression "triplex invitatorium" would seem to mean an "invitatorium" sung by three.

prime, and at other 'hours,' all shall be done as on Sundays.

LXIV. ADAPTATION OF THE SAME IN OTHER FEASTS
WHEN THE INVITATORY¹ IS DOUBLE.

This manner and order of service shall be observed in all feasts and octaves of nine lessons when the invitatory is triple. But in the days of the apostles Philip and James the manner and order of the fifth day of Easter week shall be observed, except that here the responsory is said at first vespers by two of higher rank, and there is no procession. In the feasts of St. Mark, and of St. John "ante portam Latinam," (May 6), and of St. Barnabas, when it happens before Whitsuntide, the antiphon before the psalms at the first vespers is in the higher grade, and all the rest at vespers and at compline is as in feasts of nine lections when the invitatory is said by three. At matins the antiphon before the psalms is in the higher grade; the lessons and responsories are said without a change of 'habit,' except the third responsory which shall be said in surplices. All other things at matins and at other 'hours' of the day shall be as in feasts of nine lections of other apostles.

¹ The "Invitatory" was a verse chanted before the "Venite" (Ps. xciv.) and recited wholly and in part, alternately, after each strophe of that psalm. Dr. Rock quotes the following description of it from an old writer:—"It ys
" as moche to saye as a callynge
" or a sturrynge; wherby eche
" of you sturreth and exhortheth
" other to the praysing of God " . . . and therby also ye calle

" them that here you, and desyre
" other that ar absente to come to " prayse with you. And therto

" foloweth, and ys songe with the " Invitatory; but the Invitatory

LXV. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM IN SIMPLICIBUS VERO FESTIS NOVEM LECTIONUM.

In simplicibus vero festis novem lectionum minoribus, servetur modus et ordo servitii Dominicarum simplicium habentium responsorium in secunda forma; excepto quod antiphona super psalmos, et responsoria ad primas vespervas, in superiori gradu dicuntur in festis S. Vincentii, et S. Dionysii, et S. Clementis. In aliis vero simplicibus festis cum regimine chori a Pascha usque ad Pentecosten, ad utrasque vespervas, et ad alias horas diei, omnia fiant sicut in ceteris simplicibus alterius temporis. Ad matutinas, prima et secunda lectio, primum et secundum responsorium, in secunda forma. Tertia lectio et tertium responsorium in superiori gradu dicantur, habitu non mutato: infra octavas cum regimine chori, ad vespervas, et ad horas diei, sicut in festis simplicibus cum regimine chori sui temporis. Ad matutinas, prima et secunda et tertia antiphona in prima forma, ceteræ in secunda forma. In feriis infra octavas Ascensionis, prima antiphona in prima forma, secunda et tertia in secunda; lectiones et responsoria, ut in aliis feriis. In laudibus,¹ in festis simplicibus minoribus cum regimine chori sui temporis. In Dominicis autem diebus infra octavas servetur modus et ordo servitii qui in aliis Dominicis, exceptis illis quæ in tabulis illarum Dominicarum excipiuntur. In festis trium lectionum sine regimine chori, et in omni commemoratione beatæ Virginis, [servetur modus et ordo qui in feriis per omnia, nisi quod in quibusdam talibus festis, et in ipsis commemorationibus beatæ Virginis]² invictorium a duobus dicitur: in his scilicet:—

LXV. ON THE MANNER OF FULFILLING THE OFFICE IN SIMPLE FEASTS OF NINE LECTIONS.

In simple lesser feasts of nine lections, however, the manner and order of the service shall be that of simple Sundays having the responsory in the second form; except that the antiphon before the psalms and the responsories at first vespers are said in the higher grade in the feasts of St. Vincentius, and St. Dionysius, and St. Clement. In other simple feasts, however, with ruling of choir, from Easter to Pentecost, at either vespers and at other "hours" of the day, all shall be done as in the rest of simple feasts of another season. At matins, the first and second lection, and the first and second responsory, are in the second form. The third lection and the third responsory shall be said in the superior grade, without a change of "habit;" within octaves with ruling of choir, at vespers, and the "hours" of the day, it shall be as in simple feasts with ruling of choir according to the season. At matins, the first, second, and third antiphon shall be in the first form, the rest in the second form. On ferial days within the octaves of Ascension, the first antiphon shall be in the first form, the second and third in the second form; the lections and responsories as on other ferial days. In lauds, in simple lesser feasts with ruling of choir according to the season. On Sundays within the octaves the same manner and order of service as on other Sundays, those excepted which are excepted in the tables of such Sundays. In feasts of three lections without ruling of choir, and in every commemoration of the Blessed Virgin, the same manner and order shall be observed as in ferial days in all respects, except that in certain such feasts, and in the commemorations of the Blessed Virgin, the invitatory is said by two; namely in the following:—

how an altar at the east end of the presbytery could be said to be "in the middle of the presbytery," simply because it was equidistant from the two side walls. Certainly the precisely similar expression, "in medio chori," in § lxxx. (p. 132) can only mean in the centre of the choir. No doubt the altar was moved from the middle of the presbytery to its east end, long—perhaps some centuries—before the Reformation, but it seems clear enough that that was not its original position. Those curious on this subject will find much in the Wilts Archæol. Mag., xvii. 136, and also in the "Sacristy" (1881) bearing upon it.

In the month of OCTOBER:—Mark, Marcellinus, and Apuleius; Nicasius and his companions; Calixtus P. P.; 11,000 virgins; Crispus and Crispinian, martyrs.

In the month of NOVEMBER:—[Four] crowned martyrs; Bricius, bishop and confessor; Anian, confessor; the octave of St. Martin.

In the month of DECEMBER:—St. Andrew, the apostle.

LXVII. ON THE MANNER OF BLESSING WATER ON ADVENT SUNDAY, AND ON OTHER SUNDAYS.

On the first Sunday in Advent, all matters relating to the office in the chapter-house being finished, the hebdomadary priest, with a deacon, and subdeacon bearing the "Text,"¹ and a boy carrying the censer, and taper-bearers, and an acolyte bearing the cross, all vested in albs, and turned towards the altar in the middle of the presbytery, in a silken cope shall bless the water at the choir-step; and the boy who is entered in the table for the water shall minister to him in a surplice, by holding the salt whilst it is blest, and carrying the water so blest. The hebdomadary boy of the lection

¹ The "Text," also called "Evangelarium," was a complete copy of the four gospels, though the terms, especially the latter, are applied also to the book containing such portions of them, as were read at some time or other through the year. The volume was not only beautifully illuminated, but its binding was most costly; often of sheets of silver, and even of gold, thickly studded with precious stones. One belonging to the cathedral in 1214 is described as—"Textus unus aureus " magnus continens saphiros xx.,

" et smaragdos vi., et thopasios
" viii., et alemandinas xviii., et " gernetas viii., et perlas xii." And this was but one "Text" out of several that had been presented, as offerings, to the cathedral. See Maskell's "Monum. Ritual." (1846) i. 53. Rock's "Church of our

LXIX. DE ORDINE PROCESSIONIS EADEM DOMINICA.

Hiis⁵ peractis, eat processio hoc ordine: precedat aqua; deinde ceteri juxta predictum ordinem sequantur; deinde pueri, et illi de secunda forma, juxta ordinem quo disponuntur in choro. Reliqui de superiori gradu eo ordine quo disponuntur in capitulo, habitu non mutato. Episcopus tamen, si presens fuerit, mitram gerat et baculum; et exeat processio per ostium presbiterii septentrionale, et eat circa presbiterium. Sacerdos in eundo singula altaria aspergat. Deinde in australi latere ipsius ecclesiæ, per fontes venientes, procedant ante crucem, et ibi faciant stationem, sacerdote

² The views expressed in the note on p. 116, are further confirmed by this account of "laymen standing in the presbytery." If the altar had been at the east end of it, they must have stood between it and the stalls, and so have cut off the choir from the altar. When placed however in the "middle" of the presbytery, the laymen might stand on the space behind, and even on each side of it, without interfering with the canons. The words above, interpreted literally, seem clearly to mean that, the laity assembled round the altar—hinc inde—all during mass. Indeed there can be no doubt, as Dr. Rock tells us ("Church of our Fathers," i. 193, iv. 34), that in ancient churches the altar used to stand by itself, under a canopy, some little way from the east end.

LXVIII. OF THE ASPERSION OF THE WATER.

The blessing of the water being finished, the priest himself shall go to the principal altar and sprinkle it on every side; in returning, he shall first sprinkle the [assisting] ministers duly arranged, beginning with the acolyte. Then returning to the choir-step he shall there sprinkle the "clerics" coming to him one by one, beginning with the highest in rank. The aspersion of the "clerics" however belongs to the bishop if he be present. After the aspersion of the clerics, he shall sprinkle the lay-people standing on either side of the presbytery. The aspersion finished, the priest shall return to the choir-step, and there say the prayer with the versicle.

LXIX. ON THE ORDER OF THE PROCESSION ON THE SAME SUNDAY.¹

These matters being completed, the procession shall go in this order: the water-bearer shall go first, then the rest shall follow according to the before-mentioned order; then the boys, and those of the second form, according to the order in which they are arranged in choir. The rest of the higher grade in the order in which they are arranged in chapter, without any change of "habit." The bishop however, should he be present, shall carry his mitre and pastoral staff; and the procession shall go out through the northern door of the presbytery and go round the presbytery. The priest in his progress shall sprinkle the several altars. Then going down the south side of the church, past the font, they shall proceed to the foot of the cross, and there they shall make a "station," the priest with his attendants aforesaid

LXX. ADAPTATIO PROCESSIONIS HUIUS DOMINICÆ IN CETERIS DOMINICIS CUM EARUM EXCEPTIONIBUS.

Hic modus et ordo servitii processionis servatur generaliter omnibus Dominicis diebus per annum simplicibus. In Dominicis tamen a Septuagesima usque ad Quadragesimam, dicitur versus post antiphonam in ipsa statione ad gradum ante crucem a duobus clericis de secunda forma ad populum conversis, habitu non mutato: similiter, a Dominica post octavas Paschæ usque ad primam Dominicam ante Ascensionem, dicitur versus a duobus de secunda forma in superpelliciis. In ipsa vero Dominica ante Ascensionem dicitur versus a tribus de superiori gradu in superpelliciis in pulpito.¹ Præterea in Dominica Palmarum processioni fiunt quædam specialiter annexa: scilicet, quod aqua benedicitur extra chorum sicut quolibet festo duplici quod contingit die Dominica, et, tertia cantata, aspergatur;² deinde fit benedictio florum et frondium, et dum distribuuntur rami benedicti, preparatur feretrum cum reliquiis a quo Corpus Domini in pixide de-

¹ This must have been a distinct "pulpitum" from the one previously so called, and which has been translated "lectern." (See p. 10.) This was large enough for three men to stand in. In after days, if not as early as the date of this copy of the Consuetudinary, it would probably be interpreted as indicating the rood-loft, from which it was customary both to address the people, and to sing certain chants. In such a case, "in pulpito" might mean "from the loft."

standing each in his proper order, and he himself in the midst, so that the boy bearing the water, and the acolyte, shall stand at the step before the cross. Then the accustomed prayers having been said they shall enter the choir, and the priest at the choir-step shall say the versicle and prayer: then he shall go with his attendants to sprinkle the cemetery of the canons, in praying for the deceased.

LXX. ADAPTATION OF THE PROCESSION OF THIS SUNDAY TO OTHER SUNDAYS WITH THEIR EXCEPTIONS.

This manner and order of service as regards a procession is to be generally observed on all simple Sundays throughout the year. On Sundays however from Septuagesima till Lent, the verse after the antiphon is said in the "station" itself at the step before the cross by two clerics of the second form turned towards the people, and with no change of "habit": in like manner, from the Sunday after the octaves of Easter till the Sunday next before the Ascension, the verse is said by two of the second form in surplices. In the Sunday itself however before the Ascension, the verse is said by three of the higher grade in surplices in the pulpit. Further, on Palm Sunday,¹ there are certain things specially annexed to the procession; to wit, that the water is blessed outside the choir, as in every double feast which occurs on a Sunday, and is sprinkled after tierce has been sung; then follows the benediction of flowers and boughs; and whilst the blest branches are distributed, a shrine shall be prepared with relics from which the Body of the Lord shall be suspended in a pyx, and it shall be borne,

¹ Dr. Rock (iv. 227-32) gives us a full account of the various services, and observances, on Palm Sunday. He also gives an extract from the "Crede Michi," of Clement Maideston, the great rubrician of his time, in which their symbolical meaning, as it was then understood, is fully explained.

Post singulos versus, executor officii incipiat antiphonam, conversus ad reliquias, quam prosequatur chorus cum genuflexione; ab ipso quoque executore primo cum choro fiat genuflexio.

Deinde eat processio ad locum secundæ stationis, precentore incipiente antiphonam; fiat⁴ autem secunda statio ante ostium ubi pueri cantant "Gloria, laus." Peracta hac statione, eat processio ad locum tertie stationis, quæ fieri solet ante aliud ostium ipsius ecclesiæ ex eodem latere, ubi tres sacerdotes, in ipso ostio, habitu non mutato, conversi ad populum, dicant versum. ⁶ In cathedrals and some of the larger churches there were shrines light and movable enough to be borne on the shoulders of the clergy and held so high at the church-door that all who were in a procession could, by stooping slightly, walk under them. See below (p. 127) where we have expressions which imply, not only a portable shrine for relics, but also the large chest attached to the stone-work on which they stood.

by two clerics of the second form, to the place of the first "station," not however by following the procession, but by meeting it in the place of the first "station," their "habit" not being changed, and the light in the lantern preceding them: and so the procession shall advance, the precentor commencing the antiphon, and the priest more exalted in dignity officiating at the procession, with banners preceding, and first of all round the cloister; and so they shall go out through the gate of the canons' cemetery to the place of the first "station" which is made in the extreme part of the cemetery of the laics, where first of all is read the Gospel by the deacon himself vested for the procession; then three clerics, without a change of "habit," turned to the people before the relics shall sing the verse. After each verse, the officiator, turned towards the relics, shall commence the antiphon, which the choir shall follow up with genuflexion: by the officiator also himself first of all, with the choir, shall genuflexion be made.

Then the procession shall go to the place of the second "station," the precentor beginning the antiphon; the second "station," shall be before the door where the boys sing "Gloria, laus."¹ This "station" completed, the procession shall go on to the place of the third "station" which is wont to be before the other door of the church on the same side, where three priests in the entrance itself, without change of "habit," turned towards the people, say the verse. These completed, the procession shall go to the west door, and there enter beneath the casket of relics raised high across the entrance of the church, and there shall be made a "station" before the cross, and in the station itself the officiator shall commence the antiphon, the cross having been already un-

LXXI. MODUS PROCESSIONIS IN DIE NATALIS DOMINI.

In die Natalis Domini, dicta tertia, eat processio circa claustrum, cum tribus acolytis tres cruces deferentibus, et duobus thuribulis. Deinde predicto modo procedant, tribus, de superiori gradu, prosam in eundo cantantibus, in medio procedentibus, quæ in ipsa statione ante crucem ab eisdem terminetur. Cetera omnia, ut prenotatum est, sunt exequenda.

LXXII. ADAPTATIO EJUSDEM IN ALIIS FESTIS DUPLICIBUS NOVEM LECTIONUM.

Fol. 13. Modus processionis hujus diei locum habet in omnibus festis duplicibus novem lectionum per annum, quæ, ex sua solempnitate, processionem habent; excepto quod in aliis prosa non dicitur, et excepta Purificatione beatæ Mariæ; tunc enim, dum tertia canitur, executor officii solempni apparatu se induat, et omnes ejus ministri, sicut ad executionem missæ. Tertia dicta, idem sacerdos, cum suis ministris, ad altare pro-till the service on Good Friday. In the Sarum rite an exception was made for Palm Sunday.

covered, and the choir shall respond with genuflexion, and so the priest shall begin three times, at each verse exalting his voice, and together with the choir making genuflexion; and after the third commencement the choir shall go through the whole of the same antiphon in the station itself. Which completed, they shall enter the choir, the cross on the high altar having been uncovered; and so it shall remain uncovered for the whole day.

LXXI. ON THE MANNER OF THE PROCESSION UPON CHRISTMAS DAY.

On Christmas Day, tierce having been said, the procession shall go round the cloister, with three acolytes bearing three crosses, and with two thuribles. Then they shall proceed in the aforesaid manner, three of the higher grade walking in the middle and singing the prose¹ in going, which shall be concluded by the same in the station itself before the cross. All the rest shall be carried out as is previously noted.

LXXII. ADAPTATION OF THE SAME IN OTHER DOUBLE FEASTS OF NINE LECTIIONS.

The manner of the procession of this day holds good in all double feasts of nine lections throughout the year, which, from their own solemnity, have a procession; except that in others the prose¹ is not said, and except on the Purification of St. Mary; for then, whilst tierce is being sung, the officiator shall vest himself in solemn apparel, and all his attendants, as at the celebration of mass. Tierce having been said, the same priest with

¹ The "Prose"—this term was at the first confined to the extension of the versicles to the "Alleluia" at mass. Later on it signified the composition known as the "Sequence," which was a like prolongation of the versicle of the "Alleluia," and was instituted to give the deacon time to reach the pulpit for chanting the gospel. By degrees words were set to these cadences. The term "Prose" was used, to denote that the laws of metre were not strictly observed. See Sarum Breviary (1882), vol. i., p. 1498.

cessionaliter incedat, et cereos ante altare benedicat, et aquam benedictam¹ aspergat: deinde thurificet. Hiis peractis, in stallo suo se recipiat, dum cerei distribuntur. Cereis distributis, eat processio, modo predicto, et, in statione ante crucem, tres de superiori gradu dicant versum in pulpito, conversi ad populum, habitu non mutato. Cetera ut supra.

LXXIII. ORDINATIO PROCESSIONIS DIEI PASCHÆ.

LXXIV. DIE ASCENSIONIS.²

In die Ascensionis ordinetur processio sicut in die Paschæ, excepto quod hac die vexilla processionem precedunt, prius LEO, deinde minora vexilla per ordinem; ultimo loco, DRACO. Deinde, inter subdiacorum et thuribularium, duo de secunda forma capsulam reliquiarum in cappis sericis deferant. Ipse quoque diaconus eo die deferat reliquias, pro dispositione sacristarii.³ Preterea hac die procedit processio per medium chori, et exit per ostium occidentale, procedendo in septentrionali latere circuendo extrinsecus totam ecclesiam et atrium, et per predictum ostium his attendants shall go in procession to the altar, and bless the tapers before the altar, and sprinkle the blest water; then he shall incense the altar. These ceremonies being completed, he shall betake him to his stall, whilst the tapers are distributed. The tapers having been distributed, the procession shall go in manner aforesaid, and, in the "station" before the cross, three of higher rank shall say the verse in the pulpit, turned towards the people, with no change of "habit." The rest, as aforesaid.

LXXIII. ORDERING OF THE PROCESSION ON EASTER DAY.

On Easter Day the procession is in the same manner as on Christmas Day; except that on Easter Day the verse is said in the pulpit, as in the day of the Purification. In the octaves of Easter the procession is in the same manner as on all other Sundays, except the "habit," and except that on this day the verse is said in the pulpit as on Easter Day.

LXXIV. ON ASCENSION DAY.

On Ascension Day the procession shall be ordered as on Easter Day, except that on this day banners precede the procession,—first of all LEO (the LION), then the lesser banners in their order, last of all DRACO (the DRAGON).¹ Then, between the subdeacon and the censer-bearer, two of the second form shall carry the casket of relics in silken copes. The deacon himself also on that day shall carry the relics, on the appointment of the sacrist. Moreover on this day the procession advances through the middle of the choir, and leaves it by the western door, proceeding along the north side and going right round the outside of the church and church-

LXXV. IN DIE PENTECOSTES.²

In die Pentecostes ordinatur processio sicut in die Natalis Domini. Procedit autem usque in atrium sicut in Dominica Palmarum, et ita sine statione procedit, et intrat per ostium ecclesiæ occidentale. [Cetera sicut in die Natali.]³

LXXVI. IN CAPITE JEJUNII.

In capite Jejunii, post cinerum susceptionem, eat processio per medium chori ad ostium ecclesiæ australe, excellentioribus precedentibus, precedente vexillo cilicino. Deinde episcopus, vel executor officii, penitentes singulatim⁴ per manus ejiciat; ministerio archidiaconorum si episcopus presens fuerit. Quibus ejectis, redeat processio, ordine solito processionum servato.

LXXVII. DE PROCESSIONIBUS FERALIBUS⁵ FER QUADRAGESIMAM.

Preterea sciendum, quod per totam Quadragesimam, usque ad Cœnam Domini, quarta et sexta feriis⁶ ebdomadæ solet fieri processio ad altaria per ordinem; primo die ad altare S. Martini, deinde ad cetera per ordinem; nisi festum novem lectionum impediat. Quarta itaque feria ebdomadæ primæ Quadragesimæ, cantata nona, ante inchoationem missæ, eat processio, sed sine cruce, per ostium presbiterii ad altare S. Martini: sacerdos cum suis ministris in albis. Deinde, yard, and they enter by the aforesaid door as on Palm Sunday. The rest shall be as on Christmas Day.

LXXV. ON WHITSUNDAY.

On Whitsunday the procession is ordered as on Christmas Day. It proceeds however to the churchyard as on Palm Sunday, and so proceeds without a "station," and enters through the west door of the church. The rest shall be as on Christmas Day.

LXXVI. AT THE BEGINNING OF LENT (= ASH WEDNESDAY).

On Ash Wednesday, after the reception of the ashes, the procession shall go through the middle of the choir to the south door of the church, the more dignified going first, with a banner of sackcloth borne before them. Then the bishop, or the officiator, shall eject the penitents by their hands one by one from the church; by the ministry of archdeacons if the bishop be present. After whose ejection, the procession shall return, the accustomed order of processions being observed.¹

LXXVII. ON FERIAL PROCESSIONS DURING LENT.

It is moreover to be understood that throughout Lent² till Thursday in Holy Week, on the fourth and sixth days of the week, a procession is accustomed to be made to the various altars in order; on the first day to the altar of St. Martin, then to the rest in order, unless a feast of nine lections hinder it. On the fourth day of the first week of Lent, none-song having been chanted, before the commencement of mass, the procession shall go, but without the cross, through the door of the presbytery to the altar of St. Martin; the priest with his attendants in albs. Then, the responsory having been

LXXVIII. DE PROCESSIONE IN CÆNA DOMINI.

In Cæna Domini,³ nona cantata, eat processio ad

sentes in atrio⁴ ecclesiæ penitentes; deinde, si episcopus tentium dicat "Flectamus genua," in albis; et diaconus ex parte episcopi dicat "Levate" in simili habitu; et

² By "preces" are meant the supplications and responses which commenced with "Kyrie eleison"; by "oratio" is intended the proper prayer (oratio propria) for the service. The "oremus" is a technical name for the prayer "proper."

mand), its Latin name being "Dies mandati." See S. John, xiii. 34.

⁴ In "atrio,"—may mean the porch; but as atrium in a preceding passage (p. 128) clearly means the church-yard, it has been thought best so to translate it here also.

The prayers ended, he shall say the "Oremus" standing; and when this is ended, and the litany chanted by two of the second form, up to "Sancta Maria, Ora pro nobis," without change of "habit," the procession, after going round the presbytery, shall enter the choir through its western door, the aforesaid two finishing the litany at the choir-step; and the priest with his attendants shall then depart, without saying any "Oremus." In the same manner and order the procession is arranged on every sixth "feria" (Friday) in Lent.

LXXVIII. OF THE PROCESSION ON MAUNDY THURSDAY.

On Maundy Thursday,¹ none-song having been chanted, the procession shall go to the door of the church as on Ash Wednesday; and the penitents shall be present in the churchyard; then if the bishop be present, the principal archdeacon, on the side of the penitents, shall read the lesson without the door in a silken cope, this not being read when the bishop is absent. The lesson being finished he shall commence the antiphon twice continuously; then the deacon, on the penitents' side, shall say "Flectamus genua," in an alb, and the deacon, on the bishop's side, shall "Levate" in a similar "habit;"

of the treasurer as regards "lights" to be supplied on Good Friday, and thenceforth till matins on Easter Day. Thus far, this copy of the treatise is incomplete. What these observances were, may be seen in Rock's "Church of our Fathers," iv. 240.

LXXIX. PROCESSIO IN VIGILIA PASCHÆ [AD IGNUM BENEDICENDUM.]²

In vigilia Paschæ, congregatis clericis in choro, executor officii in cappa serica, diaconus dalmatica, subdiaconus tunica, induantur, cum ministris suis, sine lumine in cereis, et igne in thuribulo, quodam de prima forma in superpelliceo cereum illuminandum in hasta quadam deferente, et processionem precedens post aquæ latorem per medium chori et ad fontes, novum ignem benedicendum processionaliter eat, choro sequente, precedentibus excellentioribus, et, ad columnam ex parte australi, ignem benedicat. LXXIX. PROCESSION ON THE VIGIL OF EASTER TO BLESS THE FIRE.

On the vigil of Easter, the clerics being assembled in the choir, the officiator vested in a silken cope, the deacon in a dalmatic, the subdeacon in a tunic, accompanied by their attendants, having no light in their tapers or fire in the thurible, one of the first form in a surplice carrying on a pole¹ the taper to be lighted, and heading the procession after the bearer of the blest water through the middle of the choir to the font, shall go processionally to bless the new fire, the choir following him, the highest in dignity walking first; and, at the column on the south side, he shall bless the fire. This done, the procession shall return in the usual manner into the choir, two of the second form chanting some verses in surplices.

LXXX. PROCESSION ON THE SAME DAY TO THE FONT.

The septiform litany, which shall be said by seven boys in surplices in the middle of the choir, being finished, and the quinque-partite litany having been commenced in like manner in the middle of the choir by five deacons in surplices, at the invocation "Sancta Maria, Ora pro nobis" the procession shall go to the font, two deacons of the second form in albs, carrying the oil and crism, walking together between the subdeacon and the incense-bearer. Moreover the (Paschal) candle necessary for the Finita letania, executor officii, conversus ad orientem, fontibus benedicendis assistat, ministris fontes ordinate circumstantibus; scilicet, a dextris juxta sacerdotem stet diaconus, subdiaconus a sinistris. Qui fert crisma stet juxta diaconum, qui autem oleum juxta subdiaconum. Qui vero crucem defert sacerdoti sit oppositus, ad eum conversus; juxta quem eodem modo stent duo ceropherarii. Consecratis fontibus, non infunditur² oleum³ nec crisma, nisi sit aliquis baptizandus. Completo fontium ministerio, tres clerici de superiori gradu in cappis sericis canant "Rex sanctorum." Finito primo versu chorus eundem repetat, et sic progredientes chorum intrent.

LXXXI. PROCESSIO ANTE MATUTINAS [IN] DIE PASCHÆ.

Fol. 14.

In die Paschæ ante matutinas, duo excellentiores presbiteri in superpelliceis, [prius incensato sepulchro cum magna veneratione, "corpus Dominicum" super altare deponant; deinde]⁴ crucem de sepulchro tollant, [excellentiore presbitero inchoante antiphonam, et sic eam,]⁵ per ostium⁶ australe presbiterii incedentes, et per medium chori regredientes, cum thuribulario et ceropherariis precedentibus, ad altare S. Martini canentes deferant. Deinde, dicto versiculo et oratione ab excellentiore sacerdote, ibi inchoentur matutinæ, post debitam campanarum pulsationem.

blessing of the font shall go first, lighted, borne by one of the first form in a surplice, and the procession shall go out by the south door of the presbytery, and going down the south side of the church shall come to the font. The litany completed, the officiator, turning to the east, shall assist at the blessing of the font, his attendants standing round in due order; to wit, on the right nearest the priest shall stand the deacon, on his left hand the sub-deacon. He who carries the crism shall stand next the deacon, he who carries the cross shall be opposite to the priest, turned towards him; and next to him, turned in the same direction, shall stand two taper-bearers. The font having been consecrated, no oil or crism is poured into it, unless there be some one to be baptised. The ministration at the font being completed, three clerics of the higher grade in silken copes shall sing "Rex sanctorum." After the first verse is finished the choir shall repeat the same, and so advancing they shall enter the choir.

LXXXI. PROCESSION BEFORE MATINS ON EASTER DAY.

On Easter Day before matins, two of the priests higher in dignity in surplices, the sepulchre having been first incensed with great reverence, shall place the Lord's body upon the altar; then they shall lift the cross from the sepulchre, the more dignified priest beginning the antiphon, and so walking through the south door of the presbytery and returning through the middle of the choir, with the thurifer and taper-bearers preceding, they shall carry it singing to the altar of S. Martin. Then the versicle and the prayer having been said by the more dignified priest, the office of matins shall be begun, after the accustomed ringing of the bells.

LXXXII. PROCESSIONIO QUÆ EODEM DIE AD VESPERAS FIT AD FONTES.

Eodem die ad vesp̄as, post primum "Benedicamus," eat processio ad fontes eodem modo et ordine in superpelliciis quo in vigilia Paschæ quando itur ad fontes benedicendos; excepto quod hic nullus¹ preceedit cereus processionem. Deinde tres pueri in ipsa statione ante fontes, habitu non mutato, cantent "Alleluia." Post repetitionem ipsius "Alleluia," incensatis fontibus, dicat ibi sacerdos versiculum et orationem; postea, ante crucem, aliam faciant stationem, ubi dicta oratione, [solito] more² in chorum redeant.

LXXXIII. DE PROCESSIONIBUS PER EBDOMADAM

Feria secunda ebdomadæ Paschæ ad matutinas post primum "Benedicamus," eat processio cum acolito deferente crucem in superpelliceo, et cum ceropherariis et thuribulo, solito more per medium chori ante crucem, et ibi facta statione dicatur versus ante crucem a duobus de superiori gradu in superpelliciis, ad chorum⁴ conversis. Deinde dicta oratione cum versiculo, more solito, in chorum redeant. Hoc eodem modo fit⁵ processio ante crucem ad matutinas singulis diebus per ebdo-

"Processionale ad usum Sarum" (1882), p. 94.

FONT.

On the same day at vespers, after the first "Benedicamus" the procession shall go to the font in the same manner and order, in surplices, as on the vigil of Easter when they go to bless the font; except that here no [Paschal] candle precedes the procession. Then three boys in the station itself before the fonts, without a change of "habit," shall sing "Alleluia." After the repetition of the "Alleluia," the fonts being incensed, the priest shall then say the versicle and the prayer; afterwards they shall make another station before the cross, when after the prayer is said, they shall return in the usual manner to the choir.

LXXXIII. OF PROCESSIONS THROUGHOUT EASTER WEEK AT MATINS AND AT VESPERS.

On the second day (Monday) in Easter week at matins after the first "Benedicamus," the procession shall go with an acolyte in a surplice bearing a cross, and with the taper-bearers and incense, through the middle of the choir in the usual manner to the foot of the cross, and there having made a "station" the verse shall be said before the cross by two of the higher grade in surplices, turned towards the choir. Then after the prayer with the versicle has been said they shall return in the usual manner into the choir. In the same way the procession is made before the cross at matins on each day throughout the week, except that on the two days next following

LXXXIV. PROCESSIO QUÆ FIT IN SABBATO QUOD DICITUR "IN ALBIS"² ANTE CRUCEM.

In Sabbato vero ad vespervas eat processio, post primum "Benedicamus," cum ceropherariis et thuribulario tantum per medium chori, non jam ad fontes cum oleo et crismate, sicut in precedentibus diebus, sed ante crucem tantum, et ibi in statione ipsa dicatur versus a duobus de superiori gradu in superpelliciis, ad clerum conversis. Deinde dicta³ oratione cum versu, in chorum redeat processio solito more. Sciendum autem quod in⁴ hoc Sabbato usque ad Ascensionem Domini singulis sabbatis, ad vespervas, predicto modo fit processio, excepto quod in mediis sabbatis dicitur versus in statione a duobus de secunda forma: ultimo vero sabbato dicitur idem versus in superiori gradu. Eodem modo fit processio ad vespervas in vigilia Inventionis S. Crucis, excepto quod ibi nullus versus dicitur in statione.

on which the white baptismal robe was worn.

(Tuesday and Wednesday) the verse is said in the "station" before the cross, by two of the second form. On the remaining days no verse is said. On the same day at vespers the procession shall go in the same manner and order as on Easter day at vespers, except that on this day the boys do not sing in the "station" at the fonts. In like manner the procession shall be ordered at vespers on each day during the week up to the Saturday.

LXXXIV. PROCESSION ON THE SATURDAY CALLED "IN ALBIS" TO BEFORE THE CROSS.

On the Saturday at vespers the procession shall go, after the first "Benedicamus," with the taper-bearers and the thurifer only, through the middle of the choir, not now to the fonts with the oil and crism, as on the preceding days, but before the cross only, and in the "station" itself shall be said the verse by two of higher grade in surplices, turned towards the clergy. Then the prayer having been said with the verse, it shall return to the choir in the usual manner. It is to be understood however that (from) this Saturday till the Ascension, on each Saturday at vespers the procession is ordered in the aforesaid way, except that on the intermediate Saturdays the verse is said in the "station" by two of the second form; on the last Saturday however the same verse is said in the superior grade. In the same way the procession is made at vespers on the vigil of the Invention of the Holy Cross, except that there no verse is said in the "station."

LXXXV. PROCESSIO QUÆ FIT IN LETANIA MAJORE.

In letania majore, dicta missa ad principale altare, et cantata sexta,¹ ordinata processione ad gradum chori, per medium chori et ecclesiæ, exeat processio per ostium ecclesiæ australe, eodem modo et habitu sicut in diebus Dominicis; excepto quod hic vexilla processionem precedunt, et capsulæ reliquiarum pro dispositione sacristarii in hac processione deferuntur a duobus de secunda forma, habitu non mutato: et sic eat processio ad aliquam ecclesiam in urbe vel suburbio, et ibi, missa cantata, processionaliter redeant ad ecclesiam per idem ostium quo egressi sunt, et ita in chorum solito more redeant: et ita finita letania, dicatur oratio cum versiculo ad gradum chori, habitu non mutato.

LXXXVI. PROCESSIONES QUÆ FIUNT IN ROGATIONIBUS ET IN VIGILIA ASCENSIONIS.²

Feria secunda in Rogationibus hoc eodem modo ordinatur et procedit processio, excepto quod precedit "DRACO," et deinde "LEO." Preterea hoc die eat³ processio per ostium supradictum, et procedit per⁴ portam civitatis occidentalem, et ita circuendo civitatem ex latere septentrionali in aliqua ecclesia se recipit, et ibi celebrata missa, per portam civitatis orientalem ad ecclesiam redit. LXXXV THE PROCESSION WHICH IS MADE IN THE GREATER LITANY.

In the greater litany, mass having been said at the principal altar, and sext having been sung, and the procession ordered at the choir-step, the procession shall advance through the middle of the choir and go out through the south door of the church, in the same manner and "habit" as on Sundays; except that here the banners precede the procession, and the caskets of relics are carried in this procession according to the appointment of the sacrist by two of the second form, their "habit" being unchanged; and so the procession shall go to some church in the city or suburbs, and, mass having been sung there, they shall return in procession to the church through the same door by which they went out, and so shall return to the choir in the accustomed manner; and so the litany being finished, the prayer with the versicle shall be said at the choir-step, the "habit" not being changed.

LXXXVI. PROCESSIONS WHICH ARE MADE ON ROGATION DAYS AND ON THE VIGIL OF THE ASCENSION.

On the second day in Rogation-week the procession is ordered and proceeds in this same way, except that DRACO goes first, and then LEO.¹ Moreover on this day the procession shall go through the aforesaid door, and advance through the west gate of the city, and so going round the city on the north side betake themselves to some church, and mass having been celebrated there returns through the east gate of the city to the cathedral. And the rest shall be ordered as before.

On the third day in Rogation-week the procession shall go through the eastern gate of the city to the church to be visited on that day, and there mass having been said, after going round the south side of the city shall

LXXXVII. IN VIGILIA ASCENSIONIS.

LXXXVIII. IN VIGILIA PENTECOSTES.

LXXXIX. IN SABBATIS IN ÆSTATE AD VESPERAS ANTE CRUCEM.

In sabbato quando cantatur "Deus omnium"³ ad vespervas, post omnes memorias, præter memoriam Beatæ Mariæ, fit processio ad crucem eodem modo quo in sabbato octavarum Paschæ, excepto quod hic nullus versus⁴ in statione; et eodem modo singulis sabbatis usque ad Adventum Domini, nisi duplex festum impedi-erit.

XC. PROCESSIONES QUÆ FIANT VENERATIONIS CAUSA.

Fiunt præterea quædam processiones venerationis causa, ad suscipiendum regem, archiepiscopum, et proprium episcopum, vel legatum, quæ eodem modo et habitu ordinantur quo in duplicibus festis. Procedunt autem per medium chori et ecclesiæ, et per ostium return to the church through the western gate. The rest shall be as before.

LXXXVII. IN THE VIGIL OF THE ASCENSION.

In the vigil of the Ascension the procession is ordered in a similar way; as in the before-named days the procession shall go to the destined place, and return.

LXXXVIII. IN THE VIGIL OF WHITSUNDAY.

LXXXIX. ON SATURDAYS IN SUMMER¹ AT VESPERS
BEFORE THE CROSS.

On the Saturday when "Deus omnium" is sung at vespers, after all the memorials, except the memorial of St. Mary, the procession to the cross is made in the same way as on the Saturday of the octaves of Easter, except that here no verse is said in a "station;" and in the same way on each Saturday up to Advent unless a double feast should hinder it.

XC. PROCESSIONS WHICH ARE TO BE MADE IN TOKEN OF RESPECT.

There are certain processions which are made for the sake of reverence, to receive a king, an archbishop, and the bishop of the see, or a legate, which are ordered in the same manner and "habit" as in double feasts. They proceed through the middle of the choir

XCI. PROCESSIO AD HOMINEM MORTUUM² SUSCIPIENDUM.

Si vero cum processione homo mortuus sit suscipiendus, eodem modo [et ordine]³ ordinetur processio, et incedat. in alio tamen habitu.⁴ Sacerdos in hac processione et minister in albis incedunt, chorus autem in cappis nigris; et cum ad locum destinatum pervenerit processio, cadaver ipsum sacerdos aqua benedicta aspergat; deinde thurificet. Postea vero in ecclesiam redeant, et si canonicus fuerit cujus corpus defertur, in chorum deferatur; sin autem, extra chorum in ecclesia, dicta oratione, relinquatur.

"Pater noster. —Et ne nos. . . .
"Ostende nobis, Domine, misericordiam. Domine salvum fac servum tuum. Mitte ei, Domine, auxilium de sancto. Esto ei, Domine, turris fortitudinis. Nichil proficiat inimicus in eo. Domine Deus virtutum quæsumus nos. Domine exaudi orationem meam."

Oremus,— "Rege quæsumus, Domine, famulum tuum legatum [vel episcopum] nostrum, et intercedente beata Dei genetrice

"Maria cum omnibus sanctis tuis, gratiæ tuæ in eo multiplica dona, ut ab omnibus liber offensis, et temporalibus non destituatur auxiliis, et sempiternis gaudeat institutis per &c."

Vel,—"Omnipotens sempiterne Deus, miserere famulo tuo N . . . et dirige eum secundum tuam clementiam in viam salutis eternæ, ut, Te donante, tibi placita cupiat, et tota virtute perficiat, per Christum Dominum nostrum."

and church, and go out through the south door of the church, walking to the place appointed, and there the two highest in dignity shall receive in returning the "person" to be received, in procession, and in the same way in which they had entered shall conduct him to the step of the altar, and whilst he is prostrate in prayer, the priest higher in dignity shall say the prayer over him.

XCI. PROCESSION TO MEET ONE BORNE TO BURIAL.

If however one dead is to be received in procession, the procession shall be ordered and shall advance in the same manner and order, only in other "habit." The priest in this procession as well as the attendant walk in albs, the choir however in black copes; and when the procession shall arrive at the appointed place, the priest shall sprinkle the body itself with blest water; then he shall incense it. Afterwards they shall return into the church, and if it be a canon whose body is borne, it shall be carried into the choir; but if not, it shall be left in the church outside the choir, the prayer having been said.

XCII. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM DOMINICA
PRIMA IN ADVENTU AD MISSAM, ET DE OFFICIIS [SINGULORUM]¹ MINISTRORUM.

Dominica prima in Adventu, peracta processione, dum tertia cantatur, executor officii et sui ministri, ad missam dicendam, se induant, et si episcopus fuerit,² tres habeat diaconos et totidem subdiaconos ad minus, sicut in omni festo novem lectionum, quando ipse exequitur officium. In die vero Pentecostes, et in die Cœnæ, septem diaconos, et septem subdiaconos, et tres acolitos. In aliis vero duplicibus quinque tantum. Die vero Parasceves, unum solum diaconum, et unum solum subdiaconum.

Fol. 15.

Cantata vero tertia, et officio missæ inchoato, dum post officium "Gloria Patri" inchoatur, executor officii cum suis ministris ordinate presbiterium intrent et ad altare accedant;³ diacono et subdiacono, casulis indutis, manus tamen ad modum sacerdotis extra casulam non tenentibus, ceteris ministris in albis existentibus; quibus vero temporibus diaconi et subdiaconi casulis, dalmaticis, et tunicis, et albis, uti debeant, in Ordinali plene describitur.

Ad gradum altaris sacerdos ipse confessionem dicat, diacono ei assistente a dextris, subdiacono a sinistris. Et sciendum quod, quisque⁴ sacerdos officium exequatur, semper episcopus si presens fuerit, ad gradum altaris "Confiteor" dicat. Dicta vero absolute, sacerdos diaconum deosculetur, deinde subdiaconum; quod semper observatur, nisi missa pro fidelibus fuerit dicenda, et exceptis tribus ultimis diebus in Passione Domini.

XCII. ON THE MANNER OF EXECUTING THE OFFICE AT MASS ON THE FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT, AND OF THE FUNCTIONS OF THE SEVERAL ATTENDANTS.

On the first Sunday in Advent, the procession having been completed, whilst tierce is being sung the officiator and his attendants shall vest themselves for saying the mass, [and, should the bishop be present, he shall have three deacons and as many subdeacons at the least, as in every feast of nine lections when he himself executes the office. On Whitsunday however, and on Maundy Thursday, he shall have seven deacons, and seven subdeacons, and three acolytes. In other double feasts however five only. On Good Friday, one deacon only, and one subdeacon.]

[Tierce having been sung¹] and the office of the mass begun, whilst "Gloria Patri" is begun after the office, the officiator with his attendants in due order shall enter the presbytery and go to the altar; the deacon and subdeacon vested in chasubles, not however after the manner of the priest holding their hands outside the chasuble, the other attendants being in albs; at what times the deacons and subdeacons should use chasubles, dalmatics, tunics, and albs, is fully described in the Ordinal.

At the step of the altar, the priest himself shall say the confession, the deacon assisting him on the right, the subdeacon on the left. [And it is to be understood that, whatever priest fulfils the office, the bishop, should he be present, shall say "Confiteor" at the step of the altar.] The absolution having been pronounced, the priest shall kiss the deacon, then the subdeacon; which is always to be observed, unless mass for the faithful departed is to be said, and except on the last three days in Passion-tide.

¹ The time for the parochial mass used to be, except on days of fasting, immediately after tierce or "undern-sung"; that is about

9 a.m. The "altare parochiale" is alluded to at p. 12. See Thorpe's "Ancient Laws, &c." ii. 449.

Hiis peractis, ceropherarii candelabra cum cereis ad gradum altaris dimittant. Post humiliationem vero sacerdotis ad altare factam, ipsum altare sacerdos thurificet diaconi ministerio; deinde ab ipso diacono ipse sacerdos thurificetur, et postea textum ministerio subdiaconi deosculetur. Hiis peractis, in dextro cornu altaris cum diacono et subdiacono officium missæ usque ad orationem prosequatur, sive usque ad "Gloria in excelsis," quando "Gloria in excelsis" dicitur. Quo facto, sacerdos cum suis ministris, in sedibus ad hoc paratis se recipiant, usque ad orationem dicendam, vel, in alio tempore, usque ad "Gloria in excelsis" incipiendum. Dum vero sacerdos ad officium exequendum stat ad altare, diaconus post eum¹ stet in primo gradu ante altare, deinde subdiaconus ordinate, ita quod quotiens sacerdos ad populum se convertit, diaconus similiter se convertat, subdiacono interim ipsi sacerdoti de casula aptanda subministrante.

Post introitum² vero missæ, unus ceropherariorum panem, et vinum, et aquam, in pixide et phiolis³ sollempniter ad locum ubi panis, vinum, et aqua ad Eucharistiæ ministrationem disponuntur, deferat; reliquus vero ceropherarius pelves cum aqua et manutergio. Incepta vero ultima oratione ante epistolam, casula

² The introit consists of an antiphon, followed by the first verse of a psalm and "Gloria Patri," after which the antiphon is repeated. It is called introit, because it was sung at the entrance or approach of the priest to the altar. The rubric in the Sarum Missal runs thus:—
"Officium missæ usque ad orationem prosequatur; vel usque ad 'Gloria in excelsis' quando dicitur; et post officium et psalmum

"repetatur officium." To the word "officium" Maskell (Ancient Liturgy (1846), p. 21) appends the following note:—"Officium, more commonly called in later years 'Introitus,' as in the Roman use. In the Milan or Ambrosian Missal it is called Ingressa. . . . These introits, as is well known, were retained in the first revised liturgy of king Edward VI."

These offices being completed, the taper-bearers shall place their candlesticks with their tapers at the step of the altar. After making due reverence to the altar the priest shall incense the altar itself with the assistance of a deacon; then the priest shall be himself incensed by the deacon, and shall afterwards kiss the "text" by the ministration of a subdeacon. [These things being completed, on the right side of the altar with the deacon and subdeacon the office of the mass is proceeded with up to the prayer, or to "Gloria in excelsis," when "Gloria in excelsis" is said. Which done, the priest with his attendants shall betake themselves to seats made ready for the purpose, until the saying of the prayer, or, at other seasons, till the commencement of "Gloria in excelsis."] Whilst however the priest stands at the altar to execute the office, the deacon shall stand behind him on the first step before the altar, and then the subdeacon in due order, so that as often as the priest turns him to the people, the deacon shall so turn himself in like manner, the subdeacon meanwhile ministering to the priest in arranging the chasuble.

It is to be understood however that whatever is said by the priest before the epistle is so said on the right side¹ of the altar; in like manner after the partaking of the sacrament; all the rest is done in the middle of the altar.

After the introit of the mass, one of the taper-bearers shall bring bread and wine and water in a pyx and cruets solemnly to the place where the bread, wine, and water are arranged for the ministration of the Eucharist; the other taper-bearer shall bring basins with water and a towel. Meanwhile the two taper-bearers shall come to meet the acolyte at the door of the presbytery, as he carries with reverence the chalice itself to the place of the aforesaid administration, the offertory veil and corporals being laid on the chalice itself; the acolyte is in an alb and a silken mantle provided for this function. The chalice being set in its proper place, the acolyte himself shall reverently lay the corporals upon the altar, as he retires kissing the altar itself. Which having been done the taper-bearers shall set down the candlesticks with the tapers at the step of the altar. The epistle having been read, the subdeacon shall, after washing his hands, prepare bread and wine for the ministration of the Eucharist in the place of its administration, with the assistance of an acolyte. Whilst the gradual is being sung, two of the higher grade shall vest themselves in silken copes for singing the "Alleluia," and shall go to the pulpit. The gradual having been said, the boysingers shall return, bowing at the step of the altar. After the epistle also one of the taper-bearers, with some boy from the choir, shall prepare and duly adorn the "eagle" in the pulpit preparatory to reading the gospel. Whilst the "Alleluia" is sung, a deacon, first having washed his hands, begirt with a chasuble over his left shoulder in the manner of a stole, shall arrange the corporals upon the altar. Whilst the prose is sung the deacon himself shall incense the altar; then at the warning of the ministering boys returning from the choir to their ministrations, taking up the text of the gospels, and a blessing being given to him as he bows

And when he shall have come to the place of reading the gospel, the subdeacon shall receive the text itself, and, whilst the gospel is read, shall hold it on the left of the deacon; and the gospel having been read he shall offer it to be kissed to the deacon himself standing on his right hand. In returning however he carry the text itself to the altar in the front of his breast. After the commencement of "Credo in Unum," the priest himself by the ministration of a deacon shall be incensed, and afterwards, by the ministration of a subdeacon, shall kiss the text. This done, the choir, by the ministration of a boy, shall be incensed in the accustomed way, a subdeacon following and offering the text to be kissed by each one in the order in which they are incensed. These things completed, an acolyte ministering to the subdeacon, the subdeacon to the deacon, the priest shall first receive the "host" on the paten, and then the chalice from the hand of the deacon, the deacon each time kissing the hand of the priest.

Afterwards, the "sacrifice" being duly ordered and placed in the usual manner, the priest, with the assistance of a deacon, shall incense the "sacrifice" three times in the sign of the cross; then three times in going round it, and afterwards on either side. Which being finished, the priest shall wash his hands by the ministrations of the subdeacon and other attendants, the deacon in the meantime incensing the altar on its left side, and the relics, in the accustomed manner, all round. When the priest approaches the altar to perform the divine homage, the deacon and subdeacon shall be duly arranged each on his own step. ¹ The rubric of the Hereford use has "Tunc cancellatis brachiis" (arms not hands) "in modum crucis, inclinet se devote," &c. ; but both the Sarum and York use have "Corpore inclinato cancellatis manibus dicat, &c." The expression may here mean simply "with clasped hands," though, interpreting by the Hereford rubric, it more probably signifies "with hands folded cross-wise." See Maskell's Ancient Liturgy, p. 101 (1846).

It is to be understood that the attendant boys whilst "Secretum Missæ"¹ is proceeding, shall remain in the choir, occupying the outside place of the first form, until the priest with hands folded crosswise shall bow himself to the altar. For then they shall advance to the altar, to minister to the deacon in the washing of hands, with the subdeacon. When the priest signs with the sign of a cross the chalice with the "host" the deacon shall assist him on the right hand and assist him in holding the corporals.

After the reception of the sacrament, whilst the priest goes to wash his hands, the deacon shall fold up the corporals, and replace them in the burse. Afterwards however he shall place the corporals with the offertory veil over the chalice, and whilst the post-communion is being said, shall give the chalice itself to the acolyte, who, whilst "Per omnia" is being said, after the prayer, with that solemnity with which he brought it, shall carry it back. ¹ The "Pax," or kiss of peace, was at the first conveyed by a kiss on the cheek, afterwards the priest kissed a figure of our Lord, painted on a piece of wood, or graven on a plate of copper, which was set in a frame with a handle behind, in order that it might be passed from one to another. It was called "os-

"culatorium" and "tabula pacis"; though its common name was "pax brede." In the "Church of our Fathers" (iv. 160, 195) will be found much information on this subject, and some woodcuts showing its form, and the way in which it used to stand upon the altar at mass.

bus dalmaticis et tunicis. Preterea in predictis temporibus inchoatur missa sine "Gloria in excelsis" et terminatur sine "Ite missa est": in aliis vero cum "Gloria in excelsis," et cum "Ite missa est" terminatur.

Preterea nulla die Dominica per annum¹ dicitur prosa ad missam, nisi in Adventu Domini quando de Dominica agitur; et die Dominica qua cantatur "Dum medium silentium," ratione venerationis temporis Natalis Domini. Preterea qualibet die Dominica per annum dicitur "Alleluia" ad missam, nisi in² Septuagesima usque ad Pascha. Tunc enim tractus cantatur, sine "Alleluia" et sine prosa, a quatuor de superiori gradu in cappis sericis ad gradum chori; ita quod omnes simul primum versum incipiant, quem duo ex parte chori principales prosequantur, aliis duobus interim in extrema parte primæ formæ sedentibus, et ita, alternis vicibus singuli versus ab illis quatuor [totius tractus]³ dicantur,⁴ choro interim sedente, ita quidem⁵ ut omnes simul tractum ipsum terminent. In prima tamen Dominica Quadragesimæ, et in Dominica Palmarum, "tractus" in choro alternis vicibus cantatur hinc inde, modo predicto.

XCIV. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM MISSÆ FERIA SECUNDA IN ADVENTU.

Secunda feria in Adventu idem modus servitii servatur qui in precedenti Dominica, quibusdam exceptis,

¹ By the expression "nulla die Dominica per annum" is meant any "ordinary Sunday," for it does not include special Sundays like Easter or Whitsunday, or a Sunday when the office of a saint takes precedence of the office of a Sunday.

matics and tunics. Moreover in the aforesaid times the mass is commenced without "Gloria in excelsis," and finished without "Ite missa est": on other Sundays however it is begun with "Gloria in excelsis," and terminated with "Ite missa est."

Moreover on no Sunday throughout the year is a prose said at mass, except in Advent, when the office is of the Sunday, and on the Sunday when "Dum medium silentium" is sung [as an introit] by reason of the reverence of Christmas-tide. Moreover on every Sunday throughout the year "Alleluia" is said at mass, except in Septuagesima up to Easter. For then the "tract" is chanted without "Alleluia" and without a prose, by four of the superior grade in silken copes at the choir-step; so that all [four] shall together begin the first verse, which the two principal ones on the choir-side shall carry on, the other two meanwhile being seated at the extreme end of the first form; and so the separate verses of the whole "tract" are said alternately by those four, the choir meanwhile being seated, so however that all shall finish the "tract" itself together.¹ On the first Sunday of Lent, and on Palm Sunday, the "tract"² is sung in choir in alternate turns, from this side to that, in the manner just described.

XCIV. ON THE MANNER OF PERFORMING THE OFFICE OF THE MASS ON THE SECOND DAY IN ADVENT.

On the second day in Advent the same mode of service is observed as on the preceding Sunday, with

² The "Tract" was a portion of the psalms, which, on all ferial days (kept as such), and from Septuagesima till Easter, during the great penitential season, when the "*Alleluia*s" were omitted, was substituted in their place. It is said to have been called a "Tract," from the leisurely and mournful strain in which it was sung.

Dum legitur evangelium, subdiaconus textum teneat in faciem ipsius legentis, ceroferariis diacono assistentibus, uno ex dextris, reliquo a sinistris. Preterea, post lectum evangelium, sacerdos textum ministerio [diaconi] deosculetur, sed tunc non thurificetur, nec chorus incensetur; nunquam enim chorus post evangelium incensatur,² nisi quando "Credo in Unum" dicitur, sed tunc semper. Preterea "Pax" a diacono choro apportatur per duos extremos de secunda forma; cetera ut prius. Preterea hac feria, ante tertiam, dicitur missa in capitulo pro fidelibus,³ cum diacono et subdiacono, albis tantum indutis, quod semper observatur in omni missa pro defunctis, nisi quando pro episcopis ipsius ecclesiæ defunctis celebratur, et in crastino Omnium Sanctorum: tunc enim dalmaticis, et tunicis, utuntur.

XCV. ADAPTATIO OFFICII MISSÆ HUIUS FERIÆ IN ALIIS
FERIIS PER ANNUM.

Similis quoque modus servitii servatur omnibus feriis per annum, excepto quod a Septuagesima usque ad Pascha non dicitur "Alleluia" ad missam, sed per totam Quadragesimæ secundam et quartam et sextam feriam,⁴ semper usque ad Pascha, dicitur "tractus" in certain exceptions; to wit, that on this day the priest enters with his attendants to fulfil the office of the mass in the beginning of the office itself; moreover the epistle is read at the choir-step; the gradual is sung by one boy alone in a surplice at the choir-step; the "Alleluia" by another boy in the same place and a similar "habit;" the gospel, not at the eagle in the pulpit, but in the presbytery at a pulpit (or lectern) made ready for this purpose, the deacon turned towards the north, which one of the taper-bearers, after the epistle has been read, shall in the proper place arrange and adorn.¹ Whilst the gospel is being read, a subdeacon shall hold the text in the face of the reader himself, taper-bearers assisting the deacon, one on the right hand, the other on the left. Moreover after the gospel has been read the priest shall kiss the text presented to him by the deacon, but at that time he is not incensed, neither is the choir incensed; for the choir is never incensed after the gospel, except when "Credo in Unum" is said, but then always. Moreover the "Pax" is conveyed from the deacon to the choir by the two last of the second form: the rest shall be as before. Moreover on this day, before tierce, is said in chapter [the] mass for the faithful [departed], with the deacon and subdeacon vested only in albs, which is always observed in every mass for the departed, except when it is celebrated for deceased bishops of this church, and on the morrow of All Saints: then they use dalmatics, and tunics.

XCV. ADAPTATION OF THE OFFICE OF THE MASS OF THIS DAY TO OTHER DAYS THROUGH THE YEAR.

A like manner of service is observed on all days throughout the year, except that from Septuagesima till Easter "Alleluia" is not said at mass; but throughout the second, and fourth, and sixth day of Lent always up to Easter, the "tract" is said in choir in the choro modo predeterminedato. Preterea omni feria per annum, nisi in Adventu et Septuagesima, utuntur diaconus et subdiaconus dalmaticis et tunicis, nisi in vigiliis, et quatuor temporibus; tunc enim sunt in albis. Preterea in vigilia Natalis Domini, acolitus, dum oratio ante epistolam dicitur, ad gradum chori veniat, et ibi lectionem ante epistolam legat. Qua lecta, epistola ibidem sine intervallo legatur. Preterea, in omni "quatuor temporum" quarta feria, acolitus simili quoque modo lectionem legat ante epistolam, sed sine "Dominus vobiscum," cum precedat oratio,¹ et cum cantus intervallo epistola sequatur. Simili modo in Sabbatis "quatuor temporum" primam lectionem legat acolitus; deinde sequentes in secunda forma discurrant, pro dispositione "magistri scholarum," et in superpelliciis, ita ut ultima a sacerdote legatur. Cantus vero per singulas lectiones singuli pueri pro dispositione cantoris in superpelliciis cantent. Post ultimam tamen lectionem cantent duo de secunda forma in superpelliciis, ad gradum chori, sicut² pueri. Tractum³ vero post epistolam duo de secunda forma, in cappis nigris, ad gradum similiter, cantent. Preterea per totum Quadragesimam post nonam cantatur missa.⁴ [Preterea nulla feria in Paschali tempore dicitur missa capitalis]⁴ pro defunctis, nisi fiat anniversarium, vel trigintale.

¹ D. reads "sed 'Dominus vobiscum' precedat orationem," but the reading as given above is more probably the correct one. It means that on the Wednesdays in Ember-week a prayer (or collect) precedes, and then the epistle follows, with the interval of a chant. This is the same as in the Roman use, the "chant" spoken of being, not a hymn, but a short "tract."

afore appointed way. Moreover on every day through the year, except in Advent and Septuagesima, the deacon and subdeacon use dalmatics and tunics, except in vigils, and at Ember-tide; for then they are in albs. Moreover on the vigil of Christmas Day, an acolyte, whilst the prayer before the epistle is being said, shall come to the choir-step, and there read the lection before the epistle. Which having been read, the epistle shall without any interval be read in the same place. [Moreover on every fourth day (Wednesday) of Ember-tide, an acolyte in similar manner shall read the lection before the epistle, but without "Dominus vobiscum," when a prayer precedes, and when the epistle follows, with the interval of a chant. In like manner on Saturdays in Ember-tide an acolyte shall read the first lections; then the following ones shall run in the second form, at the arrangement of the "master of the schools," and in surplices, so however that the last shall be read by a priest. Separate boys, at the appointment of the precentor, shall sing the chants after the several lections, vested in surplices. After the last lection however two of the second form shall sing, in surplices, at the choir-step, as the boys. Two of the second form shall in like manner at the choir-step, vested in black copes, sing the "tract" after the epistle. Moreover through the whole of Lent mass is sung after nones. Moreover "capitular" mass for the dead is said on no week-day in Easter-tide; unless it be an anniversary or a "trigintal" (= trental).¹]

XCVI. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM PRIMÆ MISSÆ
IN DIE NATALIS DOMINI.¹

In die Natalis Domini, post "Te Deum laudamus," excellentior sacerdos primam missam cantet, cujus ministerium expletur sicut in Dominica, excepto quod diaconus et subdiaconus et acolitus utuntur dalmaticis et tunicis.² Preterea cum "Gloria in excelsis" missa dicitur. Lectio ante epistolam in pulpito ab aliquibus duobus, pro dispositione [cantoris], in cappis sericis cantetur, et sine intervallo epistola legatur. Graduale in pulpito in cappis a tribus de secunda forma cantetur: "Alleluia" a tribus excellentioribus in cappis sericis ibidem dicatur. Preterea, si episcopus exequatur officium, omnes ministri in chorum ad prosam cantandam veniant, præter principalem diaconum et principalem subdiaconum, et ibi moram faciant diaconi et subdiaconi in medio chori cum rectoribus chori, donec principalis diaconus a pulpito post lectum evangelium [per chorum]³ redeat. Preterea in processione ad evangelium legendum crux procedit,⁴ quæ a dextris erit legentis evangelium, facie crucifixi ad legentem conversa. Lecto evangelio, principalem diaconum comitentur ceteri diaconi et subdiaconi a choro usque ad altare processionaliter, ita quod bini precedant subdiaconi,⁵ deinde⁶ principalis subdiaconus in ultimo ordine subdiaconorum, uno subdiacono incedente ei a dextris, altero a sinistris: postea sequantur diaconi ordine simili dispositi; et hoc modo et ordine ad introitum missæ dominum episcopum precedant.

XCVI. ON THE MANNER OF EXECUTING THE OFFICE OF THE FIRST MASS ON CHRISTMAS DAY.

On Christmas Day [after "Te Deum laudamus" the more dignified priest shall sing the first mass, the service of which is performed as on Sunday, except that the deacon and subdeacon and acolyte use dalmatics and tunics. Moreover the mass is said with "Gloria in excelsis." The lection before the epistle shall be sung by any two, at the arrangement of the precentor, in the pulpit, vested in silken copes, and the epistle shall be read without any interval. The gradual shall be sung [by three] of the second form in silken copes in the pulpit: the "Alleluia" shall be said by three of the more dignified in the same place. [Moreover, if the bishop be the officiator, all the ministers shall come into the choir to sing the prose, except the principal deacon and principal subdeacon, and there the deacons and subdeacons shall tarry in the middle of the choir with the rulers of the choir, until the principal deacon shall return from the pulpit, after reading the gospel, through the choir.] Moreover in the procession to read the gospel the cross precedes, and this shall be on the right of the reader of the gospel, the face of the crucifix being turned towards the reader. [After the gospel has been read, the rest of the deacons and subdeacons accompany the principal deacon from the choir to the altar in procession, so that subdeacons go first two and two, then the principal subdeacon in the last row of subdeacons, one subdeacon walking on his right, and another on his left; afterwards the deacons shall follow arranged in like manner, and in this manner and order they shall go before the bishop for the commencement of mass.]

Moreover two thurifers come to incense the choir after "Credo in Unum"; [and] two subdeacons with duobus textis. Si autem episcopus non celebraverit, unum textorum defert¹ acolitus "ex parte cantoris"; primo autem est incensandus cantor, deinde principales rectores chori ex utraque parte sui, deinde duo rectores secundarii; postea chorus, solito more; eodem modo sequatur² textum. In "Pacem" danda primo deosculetur diaconus principalem subdiaconum, a quo ceteri diaconi et subdiaconi "Pacem" sumant; deinde duos secundarios rectores, qui primo "Pacem" deferant cantori, et ejus duobus collateralibus rectoribus principalibus, postea ipsis principalibus [rectoribus]³ "Pacem" ipsam ex parte "decani" et "cantoris" deferentibus; secundariis vero, ex parte "cancellarii" et "thesaurarii."

XCVII. MODUS EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM SECUNDÆ MISSÆ
EODEM DIE.

Secundam missam celebrabit sacerdos, quem episcopus ad hoc elegerit, eodem modo ut in Dominica prima in Adventu, excepto quod quidam de secunda forma leget lectionem ante epistolam in superpelliceo, quam continuo sequatur epistola. Preterea diaconus ab episcopo benedictionem accipiet ad pronuntiandum evangelium; et, post lectum evangelium, per episcopum transeundo, prius eum incensabit; et postea subdiaconus textum ei apertum deosculandum porriget; "Pacem" quoque, statim post deosculatum subdiaconum, ipsi episcopo diaconus porriget. Cetera⁴ ut prius.

² D. reads "eodem ordine sequatur osculando textum," which is probably the correct reading. In the Wells Statutes, as edited by Mr. Reynolds (p. 40) we have the latter clause given as a separate sentence, "Eodem modo sequatur textus."—The meaning seems to be,—“afterwards the choir (shall be incensed) as usual; in the same way or order (i.e. as they were successively incensed) the choir shall follow up [the kissing of] the text.”

two texts. If however the bishop be not the celebrant, an acolyte from the "cantoris" side of the choir carries one of the texts; first of all, the precentor is to be incensed, then the principal rulers of the choir on either side of him; then the two secondary rulers; afterwards the choir as usual; in the same order they shall follow up the [kissing of the] "text." [In giving the "Pax," the deacon first of all kisses the principal subdeacon, from whom the rest of the deacons and subdeacons take the "Pax"; then the two secondary rulers, who first of all bear the "Pax" to the precentor and the two principal rulers on his side; the two principal rulers themselves afterwards carrying the "Pax" on the side of the "dean" and "precentor"; the secondary rulers [carrying it] on the side of the "chancellor" and "treasurer."

XCVII. MANNER OF EXECUTING THE OFFICE OF THE SECOND MASS ON THE SAME DAY.

The priest, whom the bishop shall select for this office, shall celebrate the second mass in the same manner as on the first Sunday in Advent, except that one of the second form shall read the lection before the epistle in a surplice, and the epistle shall forthwith follow the lection. Moreover the deacon shall receive the benediction from the bishop to read the gospel; and, after having read the gospel, he shall first of all in passing before the bishop incense him; and afterwards the subdeacon shall extend the text, open, to be kissed by him. Immediately after giving the kiss to the subdeacon the deacon shall offer the "Pax" to the bishop himself. The rest shall be as before.

XCVIII. DE OFFICIO TERTIÆ MISSÆ EADEM DIE.

XCIX. ADAPTATIO SERVITII HUIUS DIEI IN ALIIS FESTIS OMNIBUS CUM REGIMINE CHORI.

Similis modus servitii observatur in omnibus festis duplicibus non continuis, et in continuis etiam, excepto quod ibi non semper excellentior sacerdos exequitur³ officium, sed secundum gradus dignitatum⁴ personarum fiat descensus, ut in Natali, et in Pascha, et Pentecoste, Similis quoque modus servatur in omni festo, et in omnibus octavis, et feriis infra octavas, cum regimine chori; excepto quod in prædictis feriis cantatur "Alleluia" in pulpito a rectoribus chori, habitu non mutato. Preterea si aliquid festum novem lectionum Quadragesimæ fiat [in] aliqua feria,⁵ ante tertiam missa "de festo" dicatur in dalmaticis et tunicis; post nonam vero missa "de jejunio"; utraque ad principale altare.

C. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM MISSÆ IN FESTIS TRIUM LECTIONUM.

Similis modus servatur in festis trium lectionum qui in feriis, exceptis prostrationibus, et exceptis feriis⁶ in quibus Invitatorium a duobus cantatur. In talibus enim festis gradale a duobus pueris in superpelliciis ad gradum chori cantatur; "Alleluia" vero a duobus de secunda forma, eodem loco et habitu. ² D. incedant.

⁵ D. in Quadragesima fiat aliqua feria.

XCVIII. OF THE OFFICE OF THE THIRD MASS ON THE SAME DAY.

The bishop shall celebrate the third mass, or in his absence another more dignified priest, in the same way as the first, except the procession, in which all the deacons and subdeacons about to minister at the mass shall walk processionally.

XCIX. ADAPTATION OF THE SERVICE OF THIS DAY TO ALL OTHER FEASTS WITH RULING OF THE CHOIR.

A similar mode of service is observed on all double feasts when several are not consecutive, and even when they are consecutive, except that in such a case it is not always the priest higher in dignity that fulfils the office, but a descent is made according to the grade of the dignity of the "persons," as at Christmas, Easter, and Whitsuntide. A like mode is observed in every feast, and in all octaves, and on ferial days within the octaves, when there is ruling of the choir; except that on the aforesaid ferial days the "Alleluia" is sung in the pulpit by the rulers of the choir, their "habit" being unchanged. Moreover if any feast of nine lections be celebrated on any ferial day of Lent, the mass "of the feast" shall be said before tierce in dalmatics and tunics; the mass "of the fast" shall be said after nones; each of them at the principal altar.

C. ON THE MANNER OF FULFILLING THE OFFICE OF THE MASS IN FEASTS OF THREE LECTIIONS.

A similar mode is observed in feasts of three lessons to that observed on ferial days, except the prostrations, and except those [festivals] in which the Invitatory is sung by two. For in such feasts the gradual is sung by two boys in surplices at the choir-step; the "Alleluia" by two of the second form, in the same place and habit. And this manner of service is observed in beatæ Virginis.¹ In festo tamen trium lectionum, quo “Alleluia, Laudate pueri” dicitur, cantatur idem “Alleluia” a duobus pueris in superpelliciis ad gradum.²

all commemorations of the blessed Virgin. In a feast however of three lections, in which the "Alleluia, Laudate pueri" is said, the same "Alleluia" is sung by two boys in surplices at the choir-step.

CI. WHEN THE IMAGES ARE TO BE COVERED UP IN CHURCHES.

On the second day of the first week of Lent at matins, all the crosses and images and relics, and the vessel also containing the Eucharist, shall be covered up till matins on Easter Day. From the preceding Saturday also until the Wednesday before Easter Day, a veil shall hang in the presbytery between the choir and the altar, which should be let down throughout Lent on week-days, when it is the ferial office, except whilst the gospel is being read; then it is raised and remains elevated until "Orate fratres" shall be said by the priest. And if on the morrow shall follow a feast of nine lections for the rest of that day it shall not be let down, not even before the next ferial matins. If however the mass "of the fast" shall be celebrated on the feast itself, the veil is let down till the commencement of the gospel, and not beyond it.

On the Wednesday before Easter, whilst the passion of the Lord is being read, at the pronouncing of that clause "Velum templi scissum est,"¹ the aforesaid veil shall fall in the area of the presbytery. On this day also at vespers, and until the mass on the morrow, the bells shall be rung as on Sundays—the choir however is not ruled,—the lights shall be kindled as on Palm-Sunday; the antiphon, upon the psalms shall run in the second form; the responsory also shall be sung by one alone in the second form. No prayers at vespers; no "commemoration;" the collect after vespers shall be said without change of habit, at the step; neither shall the vespers of St. Mary be said in the chapter nec abhinc usque in crastinum post octavas Paschæ. Completorium solito more, absque prostratione, et sine psalmo penitentiali,¹ solempniter dicatur, cum versibus [et] antiphonis post "Nunc dimittis," in secunda forma cantandis.

CII. DE ACCENSIONE CANDELARUM IN CÆNA DOMINI AD MATUTINAS.

In Cœna Domini ante matutinas xxiii. candelæ accendantur, quarum singulæ ad inceptionem uniuscujusque² antiphonæ et responsorii extinguantur. Similiter fiat in sexta feria et in sabbato. Antiphonæ super psalmos in superiore gradu discurrant, per ordinem facta inceptio ab aliquo de excellentioribus ex parte chori; et hic ordo proseguendus est per duas sequentes dies. "Gloria Patri" omnino intermittatur. Prima antiphona in laudibus a primo de secunda forma ex parte chori incipiatur; secunda a suo pari ex opposito; deinde ceteræ per ordinem in eadem forma discurrant; qui ordo per sequentes noctes continuatur. Nullum "capitulum" ad has matutinas dicatur, nec ymnus. Dum ultimus psalmus in laudibus psallitur,³ lumen, ubi videri nequeat, abscondatur. Finita quinta antiphona in laudibus, omnia luminaria per ecclesiam extinguantur. Antiphona super "Benedicamus" ab excellentiori incipiatur.

CIII. DE MODO CONFICIENDI⁴ CHRISMA EODEM DIE.

Eodem die, ad introitum missæ, procedat episcopus cum processione festiva ordinata ad altare ut in aliis duplicibus festis: assistant ei duæ de excellentioribus

¹ Sine psalmo penitentiali,—that is, without the "Miserere mei Deus," which during the last days of Holy Week is recited at the end of each "hour." This rubric would seem to be peculiar to Sarum use, in directing compline, whilst all the offices of the day are specially penitential, to be sung solemnly and without any mark of the penitential season.

meeting, nor henceforth until the morrow after the octaves of Easter. Compline shall be solemnly said in the usual way, without prostration, and without the penitential psalm, with the verses and antiphons after "Nunc dimittis" sung in the second form.

CII. OF THE LIGHTING OF THE CANDLES ON MAUNDY THURSDAY AT MATINS.

On Maundy Thursday before matins twenty-four candles shall be lighted, of which one shall be extinguished at the commencement of each antiphon and responsory. It shall be done in like manner on the sixth day, and on the Saturday. The antiphon before the psalms shall run in the higher grade, a commencement being made in order by one of the highest rank on the choir-side; and this order is to be followed throughout the two following days. "Gloria Patri" shall be altogether omitted. The first antiphon in lauds shall be commenced by the first of the second form on the choir-side; the second by his fellow on the opposite side; then the rest shall run in order in the same form; which order shall be continued for the following nights. No "chapter" shall be said at these matins, nor any hymn. Whilst the last psalm in lauds is being sung, the light shall be hidden where it cannot be seen. The fifth antiphon in lauds being finished, all the lights through the church shall be extinguished. The antiphon before "Benedicamus" shall be begun by one of the higher grade.

CIII. ON THE MANNER OF PREPARING THE CHRISM ON THE SAME DAY.

On the same day, at the commencement of mass, the bishop shall proceed to the altar with a festive procession duly ordered as on the double feasts; he shall be attended by two of the more dignified "persons" personis¹ in cappis sericis ad deducendum eum ad altare, qui intersint confessioni, unus a dextris, reliquis a sinistris, locis tamen debitis reservatis principali diacono et subdiacono, qui facta absolutione abscedant. Unus etiam [sit] in albis ad deferendum tabernaculum sericum. Tres quoque archidiaconi in cappis sericis, scilicet, archidiaconus Berkscire, et duo vice unius Wiltescire, tertius archidiaconus Dorsete, singulis suas ampullas implentibus oleo a se ad hoc comparato, percantatoque "Te igitur"³ usque "Sed venia, quæsumus, largitor admitte," antequam dicatur "Per quem hæc omnia, Domine, semper bona creas," archidiaconus Berkscire accedat per medium chori ad altare, quem precedat minister deferens "oleum infirmorum," precedente etiam alio ministro cum vexillo. in silken copes to conduct him to the altar, who shall be present at the "confession," one on the right hand, the other on the left, the proper places however being reserved for the principal deacon and sub-deacon, who, after the absolution has been given, shall retire. Then the service shall be carried on in the usual way till "Te igitur"—the bishop so saying "Te igitur"—three "ministers" in the church shall be appointed, vested in amices and albs only, to carry three banners, and other three "ministers," deacons, vested in like "habit," begirt about the shoulders with three linen scarfs, for carrying three phials full of the purest oil, one for the oil of the sick, a second for the holy oil, the third for consecrating the crism; each one of the phials shall have written over it a title of distinction, the first "oleum infirmorum," the second "oleum sanctum," the third "crisma." There shall be also one minister in an alb to carry the silken tabernacle. Three archdeacons also in silken copes, to wit, the archdeacon of Berkshire, and two (in the place of one) of Wiltshire, and the third the archdeacon of Dorset, each filling their own phials with the oil provided by himself for it, and the service having been sung through from "Te igitur" until "Sed venia, quæsumus, largitor admittite," before it shall be said "Per quem hæc omnia, Domine, semper bona creas,"¹ the archdeacon of Berkshire shall go through the middle of the choir to the altar, whom the "minister" bearing the "oil of the sick," shall precede, another "minister," also going before him with a banner. Then the bishop shall make the sign of the cross three times over the phial itself, and breathe three times in it, the minister who carries the oil presenting it to him. Then the bishop all the four gospels, richly bound, and used for being kissed, and (2) the "Evangelarium," strictly so called, with those portions only of the gospels which were read at mass on different days of the year. See above, p. 117 note, and Rock, iv. 192.

shall perform the exorcism, those "ministers" alone hearing him who are standing by the altar, without "Dominus vobiscum" and without "Oremus," as is the case in every exorcism; then shall follow the prayer without "Dominus vobiscum" and without "Oremus." After these things have been done, the archdeacon with his attendants shall retire in the same manner as he came. Then the mass shall proceed until the benediction upon the people is reached. Then the archdeacon of Wiltshire, in the same manner and order as the other archdeacon came, shall draw near with the phial containing the "holy oil," over which the bishop shall make the sign of the cross three times, and three times breathe into it, and so in the manner aforesaid perform the exorcism of the oil used at baptism; afterwards the bishop shall say the prayer over the oil, with "Dominus vobiscum," and with "Oremus."

After these things, the bishop returning to his seat, "ministers" shall be prepared in six ranks for carrying the "chrism." In the first rank shall go the banners; in the second two taper-bearers vested in albs; in the third two incense-bearers in like "habit;" in the fourth two subdeacons, chosen from amongst those ministering at the side of the bishop, their habit not changed, shall carry two copies of the gospel; in the fifth, a deacon shall carry the phial with the oil for consecrating the "chrism," over which shall be carried a canopy; three boys also shall go before the same in surplices, singing the hymn "O Redemptor,"¹ and the other verses which follow, the choir always repeating the first verse; in the sixth rank two crosses shall be carried by the two acolytes ministering at the altar, their "habit" not changed, under the canopy, one on the right of the bearer of the phial, the other on the left, following the phial itself;

Ymno dicto, revertatur episcopus ad altare, et porrigatur ei ampulla cum oleo, quæ habet "Crismatis" inscriptionem. Deinde misceatur ei balsamum ab episcopo, super quam episcopus ter crucis signum faciens, et ter sufflens in ea, conversus ad orientem, in dextro cornu altaris ita benedicat "crisma," dicens alta voce, "Veni Creator Spiritus," cum genuflexione; et ita totus ymnus cantetur, ut primus versus a clericis secus altare stantibus cantetur, secundus a toto choro, et ita alternatim ymnus cantetur. Quo dicto, subsequatur¹ benedictio, scilicet "Hæc commixtio liquorum" et cetera; deinde oratio cum "Dominus vobiscum" et ceteræ orationes sequentes. Quibus dictis, episcopus dicat alta voce "Per omnia sæcula seculorum," "Dominus vobiscum,"—" Sursum corda,"—" Gratias agimus," cum sequente prefatione. Post predictas benedictiones,² minister, ampullam "chrismatis" deferens, eam sindone qua precinctus est cooperiat, eamque in dextra parte altaris, quousque "Agnus Dei" cantetur, cum reverentia teneat. Postea episcopus dicat alta voce "Per omnia sæcula;" deinde dicat diaconus qui evangelium legit, "Humiliate vos ad benedictionem;" deinde sequatur benedictio super populum. Post benedictionem, dicat episcopus "Et pax ejus." Tunc cantor incipiat "Agnus Dei," et deferatur vas "crismatis" a predicto ministro episcopo deosculandum. Postea etiam, loco "pacis," in chorum deferatur eo ordine quo chorus solet thurificari; sicque cantor inchoet "communione," et ita servitium debito modo compleatur.

then shall come the archdeacons (the archdeacon of Dorset being placed in the middle), and so they shall go in procession to the altar.

The hymn having been said, the bishop shall return to the altar and then shall be offered to him the phial with the oil which has the inscription "crismatis." Then the balsam shall be mixed in it by the bishop, who making over it three times the sign of the cross, and three times breathing in it, turned to the east, shall bless the "chrism" on the right side of the altar in this wise; saying with a loud voice, "Veni Creator Spiritus" with genuflexion; and the whole hymn shall be so sung, that the first verse shall be sung by the clerics standing near the altar, the second by the whole choir, and so the verses of the hymn shall be sung alternately. Which having been sung, the blessing shall follow, namely, "Hæc commixtio liquorum," &c.; then the prayer with "Dominus vobiscum," and the rest of the prayers following. Which having been said, the bishop shall say in a loud voice "Per omnia sæcula sæculorum," — "Dominus vobiscum," — "Sursum corda," — "Gratias agimus," with the preface following. After the aforesaid benedictions, the "minister" carrying the phial of the "chrism" shall cover it with the scarf with which he is girded, and shall hold it reverently on the right side of the altar until "Agnus Dei" is sung. Afterwards the bishop shall say with a loud voice "Per omnia sæcula;" then the deacon who read the gospel shall say, "Bow yourselves down for the blessing;" then shall follow the benediction upon the people. After the benediction, the bishop shall say "Et pax ejus." Then the precentor shall begin "Agnus Dei," and the vessel containing the "chrism" shall be taken to the bishop by the aforesaid minister to be kissed. Afterwards also instead of the "pax," it shall be carried to the choir in the order in which the choir is usually incensed; and so the precentor shall commence the "communion," and the service shall be finished in the accustomed way.

CIV. DE MODO EXEQUENDI OFFICIUM IN VIGILIIS MORTUORUM.

In vigiliis mortuorum trium lectionum extra tempus Paschale antiphonæ super psalmos ad "Placebo" in superiori gradu [inchoetur]; similiter antiphona super "Magnificat;" versiculus ante "Magnificat" similiter. Psalmi quoque post "Magnificat" et post "Benedictus" in eodem gradu inchoentur. Orationes dicantur a sacerdote, habitu nec loco mutato, sed vel ad altare converso, vel prostrato.

Ad "Dirige" vero, tam antiphona super psalmos quam ad "laudes," quam ad "Benedictus" in superiori gradu inchoetur: versiculi similiter. Lectiones vero in secunda forma legantur, et responsoria ab eisdem lectoribus cantentur, habitu nec¹ loco mutato. In prostratione autem tenentur esse clerici, dum oratio dominicalis dicitur ante lectiones. Post "Benedictus" quoque, eodem modo quo post "Magnificat," ad "Placebo."

Sciendum est etiam quod nunquam in vigiliis mortuorum fiunt prostrationes² in Paschali tempore, nec in aliquo festo trium vel novem lectionum, nec in commemoratione Beatæ³ Virginis, nec in octavis Sanctorum, nec infra.⁴ In vigiliis vero novem lectionum simplicibus prima antiphona super psalmos ad "Placebo" in superiori gradu inchoetur; ceteræ omnes antiphonæ in prima forma discurrant, excepta antiphona super "Magnificat," et prima antiphona super psalmos ad "Dirige," et prima antiphona super⁵ laudes, et antiphona super "Benedictus," quæ in superiori gradu discurrant. Tres primæ lectiones in prima forma legantur, habitu nec loco mutato; sua⁶ quoque respon-

CIV. ON THE MANNER OF EXECUTING THE OFFICE IN VIGILS OF THE DEAD.

In vigils of the dead of three lections, outside Easter-tide, the antiphon before the psalms at "Placebo" shall be commenced in the superior grade; in like manner the antiphon on the "Magnificat;" the versicle before the "Magnificat" in like manner. The psalms also after "Magnificat" and after "Benedictus" shall be commenced in the same grade. The prayers shall be said by the priest, changing neither his place nor his "habit," but either turned to the altar, or prostrate

At "Dirige" however, as well the antiphon before the psalms, as at "lauds," and at "Benedictus," shall be commenced in the superior grade; the versicles in like manner. The lections shall be read in the second form, and the responsories chanted by the same readers, neither changing their "habit" nor place. The clerics are bound to be prostrate whilst the Lord's Prayer is said before the lections. After "Benedictus" also, in the same way as after "Magnificat" at "Placebo."

It is to be understood also that prostrations in vigils of the dead are never made at Easter-tide, nor in any feast of three or of nine lections, nor in a commemoration of the Blessed Virgin, nor on or within the octaves of Saints. In simple vigils however of nine lections the first antiphon before the psalms at "Placebo" shall be commenced in the superior grade; all the rest of the antiphons shall run in the first form except the antiphon before the "Magnificat," and the first antiphon before the psalms at "Dirige," and the first antiphon before lauds, and the antiphon before "Benedictus," all of which shall run in the superior grade. The first three lections shall be read in the first form, without change of "habit" or place; their respective responsories shall

Iste modus servitii mortuorum locum habet in omni anniversario et trigintali, post primum diem trigintalis. In anniversariis tamen simplicium canonicorum, ultimum responsum a duobus de superiori gradu dicatur ad gradum, habitu non mutato, cum suis tribus versibus. In primo quoque die trigintalis³ simplicis canonici, eodem modo ultimum responsum dicatur, sed tamen post ultimum versum responsum ab ipsis cantoribus ad gradum repetatur, et a choro percantetur: præterea sexta lectio in superiori gradu, cum suo responsorio dicitur.

Fol. 19.

De personis vero ecclesiæ in episcopos promotis in aliis ecclesiis, fiat servitium in eorum⁵ anniversariis juxta dignitatis suæ exigentiam, quæ, ante promotionem, in ecclesia Saresberiensis habuerunt. De aliis be sung by the same readers. The three middle lections shall be said in the second form with their respective responsories in like manner. The last three lections shall be read in the same manner in the higher grade with their respective responsories, so however that the second verse of the last responsory shall be said in the same grade by the one opposite; the third in like manner shall be said in the same grade on the choir-side; the rest shall be carried out as is above said.

This manner of service of the dead holds good in every anniversary and trigintal, after the first day of the trigintal. In anniversaries of "simple" canons, the last responsory shall be said by two of higher grade at the choir-step, without change of "habit," with its own three proper verses. On the first day also of the trigintal of a simple canon the last responsory shall be said in like manner, but the responsory after the last verse shall be repeated by the singers themselves at the choir-step, and shall be sung through by the choir; moreover the sixth lection is said in the higher grade, with its proper responsory.

In the anniversaries of an archdeacon, or of a subdean, or succentor, the manner of service shall be as in the first day of the trigintal of a "simple" canon.

In the anniversaries of the precentor, chancellor, treasurer, the antiphons which in simple vigils are usually in the first form, shall run in the second form; the rest shall be as in the first day of a trigintal of canons.

In the anniversaries of the Dean a like service is observed as in the case of the other "persons," except that the third lection is said in the second form, and the fifth lection with its proper responsory in the higher grade.

Of dignitaries of the church promoted to be bishops in other churches, the service in their anniversaries shall be in accordance with the claims of the dignity which, before their promotion, they had in the church of Sarum.

Sciendum autem quod, in anniversariis quatuor principalium personarum, excellentior sacerdos exequitur³ officium; episcopus vero, in anniversariis episcoporum suorum predecessorum, officium exequitur.³

⁸ D. ultimum vero.

⁹ D. in aliis vigiliis.

Of other bishops however altogether strangers, and for kings for whom there may be an office, it shall be in the same manner as in the anniversaries of "simple" canons.

It is to be understood however that there shall only be a service in the anniversaries of those who shall be entered in the "Martyrologium."¹

It is to be understood that in the anniversaries of the "four chief persons," the priest highest in dignity performs the office; the bishop however, in the anniversaries of any bishops who were his predecessors, performs the office.

In anniversaries of bishops of the church of Sarum, the whole office runs as in the double feast of S. John Baptist; the "habit" however here is not changed in reading, or in singing. The table, of lessons to be read and responsories to be sung, is arranged as in a double feast; except that here no responsory is chanted by three, except the ninth. The officiator in saying the prayers does not change his place.

When the service is performed for one who is not a canon, and the body is present, all the antiphons except the five principal ones shall run in the second form; the first two lections with their responsories in the first form; the third and fourth in the second; the fifth and thenceforth in the higher grade. The several responsories are sung by two, standing at the head of the body and turned to the east, the last by three; and the same shall be sung with repetition, so that it is commenced by the singers themselves. The several versicles shall be said in the same place by two boys; the rest as in the aforesaid vigils; and if it be the body of a canon, the service is in the same manner, as in the anniversaries of bishops of the church.

² Odiham, in Hants.

³ Lyss, near Petersfield, in Hants.

⁵ The emperor Frederick II. had, at his coronation as king of Germany at Aix-la-Chapelle, taken the sign of the cross, by which he bound himself to serve in the holy war of Palestine. This engagement he afterwards renewed, but urgent affairs in his own kingdom prevented his fulfilling his promise so speedily as the popes for the time being thought right. This led to serious differences, and in a subsequent page will be found a bull of pope Gregory IX., the successor of Honorius III., assailing him with many reproaches. The dispute culminated at length in the excommunication of the emperor, and the invasion of his kingdom of Apulia by the papal forces. See a full account of the whole matter in Canon Robertson's "History of the Christian Church."

ALEXANDER² EPISCOPUS servus servorum Dei, venerabili fratri Willielmo, episcopo Saresbiriensi, salutem et apostolicam benedictionem. Sicut lecta coram nobis tua petitio continebat, felicis recordationis Innocentius P.P. predecessor noster intellecto dudum quod prebenda de Horton,³ Wigorniensis diocesis, dignitati episcopali

¹ SWINBROOK and SHIPTON (under Wychwood) are in Oxfordshire, BRICKLESWORTH now usually called Brixworth) is in Northamptonshire. Originally Shipton and Bricklesworth constituted one prebend (Lib. Evid. c. 158, 299), but at an early period they were separated and formed into two distinct prebends (Ibid. 462). In the year 1240, on the petition of Adam de Esseby, then chancellor, the prebend of Bricklesworth was annexed to his dignity. See Lib. Evid. c. 456. The prebend of Shipton would seem for many years to have been in the gift of the crown, and by an Act of Parliament, 15 James I. (1617), was annexed to the regius professorship of civil law at Oxford, and it remained so annexed till 1855. See Sarum "Fasti," pp. 228, 369, 416.

³ The "prebend" at the first allotted to the bishop was that of "Major Pars Altaris," which, consisting as it did of "offerings," was always of uncertain amount. It was consequently exchanged in 1217 for that of "Horton," This was in the county of Gloucestershire, and so, at that time, in the Saresbiriensi esset annexa, et tu, pretextu ipsius prebendæ venerabili fratri nostro Wigorniensis episcopo subesse ut prelato quodammodo videreris, tibi tandem ut aliam prebendam alicujus ecclesiæ tuæ diocesis, eidem Saresbiriensi dignitati episcopali loco ipsius prebendæ de Horton posses annectare, concessit sub certa forma per litteras apostolicas facultatem. Cumque postmodum quædam prebenda in ecclesia de Poterna diocesis Saresbiriensis vacaret, tu eam de consensu ejusdem ecclesiæ loco ipsius prebendæ de Horton,¹ quam, prout asseritur, penitus dimisisti, dictæ dignitati episcopali duxisti auctoritate litterarum hujusmodi annectendam. Nos itaque tuis supplicationibus inclinati, quod super hiis proinde factum est ratum et firmum habentes, id, auctoritate apostolica, confirmamus, et presentis scripti patrocínio communimus. Nulli ergo omnino hominum liceat hanc paginam nostræ confirmationis infringere, vel ei, ausu temerario, contraire. Si quis autem hoc attemptare presumpserit, indignationem Omnipotentis Dei et beatorum Petri et Pauli apostolorum ejus se noverit incursum. Dat. diocese of Worcester. On the ground that it was hardly seemly that the bishop of Sarum should be in any way subject to the bishop of Worcester, in whose diocese Horton was situated, the prebend of "Potterne" was in the year 1254 substituted for it; and this, the bishops of Sarum to this day continue to hold. See Sarum "Fasti," p. 207.

ing notices of pope Alexander IV., and of bishop William of York :—

“Dictus Alexander fuit P.P. Alexander quartus, qui successit Innocentio quarto circa annum Domini m.c.c. quinquagesimum quintum, et sedit P.P. annis septem, mensibus quatuor; ejus tempore, dictus Willielmus, dictus ‘de Ebor,’ fuit episcopus Sarum; et tempore regis Henrici tertii, circa annum regni sui xlviii, dictus Willielmus obiit circa annum m.cclviⁱⁱⁱⁱ.” Alexander IV. was elected pope 12 Dec. 1254, and died 28 May 1261. ¹⁰ There is a word stabilita, which Thorpe (in his Glossary to

But both here, and at p. 20, the word in the MS. appears clearly to be stabilia. This is perhaps equivalent to "breve de stabilia,"—in Norman Law "brief d'establie," a writ to establish the right to possession of land or of a fief claimed by a superior lord from an inferior occupant. On petition, generally of the inferior, the Crown granted this writ, and held the lands or fiefs in abeyance until the right was lawfully established. See Du Cange, s. v.; and Jacob's Law Dict.

JOSCELINUS, DEI GRATIA SARUM EPISCOPUS, et totus ejusdem ecclesie conventus, universis Sancte Matris Ecclesie filiis, in Domino salutem:—Sciunt omnes ad quos carta ista pervenerit, controversiam diu inter ecclesiam Sarum et ecclesiam Bathon. habitam super capella de Alvestan tandem amicabili compositione decisam et terminatam esse hoc modo; videlicet, Quod ecclesia Sarum prefatam capellam de Alvestan dimittit ecclesie Bathon. in perpetuum liberam et quietam possidendam, tali conditione, quod singulis annis in Pascha, ecclesia Bathon. reddet ecclesie Sarum dimidiam marcam¹ argenti per manum canonici qui tenebit ecclesiam de Bedministra; scilicet, prebendam ecclesie Sarum. Et propter familiaritatem et fraternae dilectionis caritatem inter predictas ecclesias, diu habitam et in posterum, Deo volente, duraturam, venerabilis frater et co-episcopus noster Bathoniensis, Robertus, assensu et conventia cleri sui, concedit hanc libertatem prebende de Bedministra, quod vicarii ejusdem canonici ibidem servientes, ter in anno, vel quater, necessitati ingruente, ad capitulum veniant, et non saepius, et hoc summonitione archidiaconi; ad capitulum autem decani nunquam eant. Si autem contingat, quod quando predicti vicarii in causam vocati fuerint, de objectis nunquam respondeant, nisi in presentia predicti canonici de Bedministra, die et loco congruo constituto. NOVERINT OMNES ad quos presens cyrographum pervenerit, quod ego, JOSCELINUS, Sarum episcopus, concessi et donavi Willielmo de Erleg, et heredibus suis, unam hidam terræ in manerio meo de Sunning, quæ appellatur, "hida Ailmari presbyteri," et homines in ea manentes, in excambio totius terræ quam ipse jure hereditario suam esse clamabat in parco meo de Sunning. Dedi etiam ei et heredibus suis predictam hidam in perpetuum possidendam cum omni ea libertate et consuetudine quam ipsa habuit, quando mea fuit, in bosco et plano, in pratis et pascuis. Ita tamen quod homines sui, in eadem hida, habeant porcōs suos in bosco meo de Sunning, reddentes mihi tale pasnagium quale reddunt mihi villani mei de eodem manerio. Concessi etiam predicto Willielmo et heredibus suis pasnagium sexaginta porcorum in bosco meo de Sunning liberum et quietum a me et ab omnibus ministris meis in perpetuum habendum. Ille vero Willielmus quicquid clamabat in parco meo de Sunning suum esse in bosco et plano, in prato et in pascuo, ecclesiæ Sarum et mihi et omnibus successoribus meis, ab omni calumpnia liberum et quietum clamavit. Concessi etiam ego, Josecelinus, Sarum episcopus, et ecclesia Sarum, ut ipse Willielmus excambium prenominate terre in capite de rege teneat. Ipse vero Willielmus ex parte sua concessit, ut excambium quod ab ipso habeo in capite pertineat ad ecclesiam Sarum, et ad me et successores meos in perpetuum. Ut

Sed ne canonici in hac sua murmurent subtractione, eo, scilicet, quod hæc prebenda, ut reliquæ, nunquam sit reditura in eorum communam, et ne canonici sui, tanquam perpetuam, possint causari absentiam, preterea ut monachi prebendam illam Sarum ecclesiæ, monasterio suo vicinam et victui suo quam maxime necessariam, sine omni Sarum ecclesiæ remurmuratione ut superius definitum est, et deservire possint et optinere a prudentibus et religiosis viris una nobiscum, ad utriusque ecclesiæ pacem faciendam et conservandam,—provisum est quod vice versa, et caritate mutua, monasterium Scireburne Sarum ecclesiæ, cum omni libertate et integritate in prebendam dedit dimidiam hidam terræ quæ jacet apud Wimburn, quam habuit filius Euremari Baiocarum, quam Willielmus rex, ecclesiæ de Horton, dedit pro excambio terræ ab eadem ecclesia captæ, quiete et sine omni reclamatione, sicut unquam melius et liberius eam tenuit, in bosco et plano, in pratis et pascuis, in perpetuum possidendam, et sic quod prebenda illa post mortem canonici per annum juxta consuetudinem Sarum ecclesiæ ad communam canonicorum redeat, et deinceps canonicus cui data fuerit, sicut alii, eam teneat et deserviat. UNIVERSIS SANCTÆ MATRIS ECCLESIAE filiis ad quos presens scriptum pervenerit, HENRICUS ESTURMI, salutem in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra me dedisse et concessisse et quietas in perpetuum clamasse Deo et ecclesie Omnium Sanctorum de Burbach, quæ est prebenda Sarum ecclesie, omnes decimas de assartis meis de Berl̄, quæ ibi feci, et quæ ego et heredes facturi sumus, de quibus fuit controversia inter me et canonicum predictæ prebendæ, pro salute animæ meæ et antecessorum et successorum eorum. Magister vero Bartholomæus de Roches, illius prebendæ canonicus, mihi gratia faciens, assensu et consensu viri venerabilis Ricardi decani Sarum, et ejusdem loci capituli, concessit mihi et heredibus meis oratorium¹ in curia mea de Burbach, in quo ego et heredes mei propriis expensis capellanum invenimus pro tempore ministraturum: ita quidem quod idem capellanus, canonico prebendæ predictæ canonicam faciet obedientiam, et juratoriam prestabit cautionem de utilitate et dignitate matricis ecclesie conservandis illæsis. Si autem canonicus presens non fuerit, memoratus capellanus in capitulo Sarum eandem faciet fidelitatem et cautionem prestabit. Ego etiam et heredes mei omnia necessaria, tam predicto capellano quam oratorio, tam in libris quam in ornamentis et omnibus aliis rebus inveniemus. Habebit autem canonicus matricis ecclesie omnes obventiones predicti oratorii, quas per proprium ministrum, vel per predictum capellanum si maluerit, colligi faciet, et sibi portari. Item ego et familia mea servitium nostrum audiemus in matrice ecclesia quinque diebus anni solempnibus; scilicet, in die Natalis Domini, in die Purificationis Beatæ Mariæ, in die Crucis adorandæ, in die Paschæ, in die Omnium Sanctorum, nisi de gratia ipsius canonici possimus audire in aliquo predictorum dierum servitium nostrum, in proprio oratorio nostro. Baptismata, et confessiones, et purificationes, et omnia hujus spiritualia fient in matrice ecclesia. Et ut omnium istorum observatio in posterum omnimodas habeat firmitates, ego, Henricus, juravi in ecclesia Sarum pro me et heredibus meis, istud fideliter to the church of Burbage all tenths possessed by him, to be enjoyed by the prebendary for the time being.

The prebendary grants him an "oratory" in his court at Burbage, for which Henry Esturmi is to find a chaplain.

The offerings at the "oratory" to belong to the canon, and Henry Esturmi, agrees to hear service five times a year in the mother church, in which also baptisms alone are to be celebrated, and confessions heard.

A.D. 1179. JOSCELINUS, DEI GRATIA SARUM EPISCOPUS, omnibus fidelibus ad quos presens carta pervenerit, salutem. Quæ pie concipiuntur desideria non minus sunt benigno favore prosequenda. Hoc itaque rationis intuitu devotionem magñi Herberti, venerabilis presbyteri, canonici Sarum, attendentes, augmentum instaurenti, quod in meliorationem prebendæ suæ contulit, scilicet, sexaginta oves matrices, secundum suum desiderium ei consilium canonicorum, sub tali conditione concessimus et eidem prebendæ confirmamus, ut ipsa prebenda de cetero sit in perpetuum obligata ad invenienda tria mortaria¹ in Sarum ecclesia singulis noctibus lucentia; unum ante altare Sanctæ Crucis; alterum juxta magnum altare ante imaginem Sanctæ Mariæ;² tertium ante altare Omnium Sanctorum. Ut hæc autem constitutio auctoritate nostra et capituli Sarum facta firma semper perseveret, presentis cartæ attestatione et sigilli nostri munimine, eam communimus.

Bishop Jocelin approves the augmentation of the "store" of the prebend of Bedwin; the prebendary for the future to provide three "mortars" each night in the cathedral.

² According to Dr. Rock (Church of our Fathers, iii. 97, 208), the image of the Blessed Virgin always stood on the north side, whilst that of the patron saint was on the south. In the account of the "ornamenta" of the chapel of St. John the Baptist at Horningsham (see below, p. 313) there was (1) "Iconia beatæ Virginis" and (2) "Statua beati Johannis." Among requirements, as decided by the council of Exeter in 1287, for every church were "Imago beatæ Mariæ Virginis, et Sancti loci ejusdem," Wilkins' Concilia, ii. 139.

⁴ ST. CYRIAC was a deacon to whom, it is said, was given an especial power of casting out evil spirits. Amongst those so healed by him were Arthemias the daughter of Diocletian, and a daughter also of Sapor, king of the Persians.

Returning to Rome, he was first of all imprisoned, and then put to death by the emperor Maximian. There was a chapel or altar in the church of Sunning dedicated to St. Cyriac, to which, according to Leland (who gives the name as “S. Sarik”), those afflicted with “the disease of madness” were wont to resort for relief. The church of Lacock in Wilts is also dedicated to S. Cyriac. The church of Chidingfeld with the chapel of Piperham bestowed on Richard "filius Ricardi."

and the other with new, and hence sealed at two different dates. Hence the authenticity of the document itself was suspected.

Fol. 43
verso. MEMORAND. DE ACTIS PER WILLIELMUM, DECANUM SARUM, APUD SUNNING, PROUT INFRA SEQUITUR IN HOC FOLIO ET SEQUENTI.

A. D. 1222. Acta in Capitulo quod Willielmus decanus Sarum tenuit apud Sunning, anno gratiæ MCCXXII^o, feria sexta proxima ante festum beati Martini.

Visitation of the clergy officiating at Sunning or in its dependent churches. W. decanus invenit plures sacerdotes ministrantes in parochia sua de Sunning, quorum nullus fuit, vel sibi, vel alicui de suis, presentatus. Requisitum fuit ab illis per quos et sub quibus ministrabant, quod non poterant ad decanum accedere, quia longe ab eis age-bat, et petierunt quod modo possint ipsi suos capellanos presentare, et capellani obedientiam et fidelitatem jurare. Decanus annuit dummodo hoc fieret sub probatione et ordinis et literaturæ.

Simon, chaplain of Sunning: his ignorance and inefficiency. VITALIS, presbiter, vicarius perpetuus de Sunning, presentavit capellanum quem secum habet, nomine
SIMONEM, quem modo retinuit usque ad festum S.
Michaelis. Requisitus idem SIMON de suis ordinibus, dicit quod apud Oxoniam recepit ordinem subdiaconi a quodam episcopo Yberniæ, Albino nomine, tunc vicario episcopi Lincolnensis. Item ab eo recepit ordinem diaconi. Item ordinem presbiteratus ab Hugone modo Lincolnensi episcopo, transactis quatuor annis.
Probatus fuit de evangelio Dominicæ primæ in Adventu, et inventus est minus habens, nec intelligens quod legeret. Item probatus fuit de canone missæ, “Te igitur, clementissime Pater,” etc. Nescivit cujus casus esset “Te,” nec a qua parte regeretur. Et cum dictum esset ei, ut diligenter inspiceret quæ pars posset competentius regere “Te,” dixit quod “Pater,” quia omnia regit. Requisitus quid esset “clementis- “sime,” vel cujus casus, vel qualiter declinaretur, nesci-vit. Requisitus quid esset “clemens,” nescivit. Item, idem Simon nullam differentiam antiphonarum novit,

gentes*”; nec aliquid scivit de officio divino vel psalterio cordetenus (memoriter, scilicet). Dixit etiam quod indecens ei videbatur quod probaretur coram decano, cum jam esset ordinatus. Requisitus super quo fuisset quando ordinem presbiteratus accepit, dicit quod non meminit. Sufficienter illiteratus est.

Apud WOKINGEHAM ministrat Philippus, capellanus, Philip, chaplain of Wokingham and Sandhurst. qui habet illam capellam ad firmam pro decem marcis, et capellam de SANDHERST pro una marca, sed accipit a sacerdote qui ibi est duas marcas. Non fuit probatus, quia vitæ probatæ est et boni testimonii. Ubi ordinat.

JOHANNES DE HERST presentavit capellanum suum, Ricardus nomine, natum apud Rosam. Juvenis quidam est, et nichil scit. Dicit quod ordinem subdiaconi recepit London. a Willielmo episcopo; ab episcopo Petro, Winton., ordinem diaconi, transactis sex annis; a Willielmo vero episcopo Cestrensi eodem anno ordinem presbiteratus. Probatus de hac collecta adventus “Excita, quæsumus, Domine,” dixit quod nichil voluit super hoc respondere. Requisitus de canone, dixit quod nichil voluit super hoc respondere. Postquam enim suus presbiter primo exierat ab ecclesia post examinationem, et venisset ad alios, omnes inierunt consilium unum, quod non responderent; aliqui tamen eorum in articulo responderunt postea ad magnam instantiam decani. Postea requisitus, noluit in ultimo capitulo examinari, et remansit suspensus.

JOHANNES DE ERBURGEFELD presentavit capellanum Reginaldum, natum apud Windleshoram. Ordinatus, sicut ipse dicit, ad ordinem subdiaconi apud Sarum; diaconatus vero et presbiteratus apud Winton, trans- Reginald, chaplain of Erburgefield. “actis jam quatuor annis. Probatus de hac oratione, “Excita, etc.,” et de hoc textu canonis, “Te igitur,

John de Seireburn, chaplain of Sandhurst.

Capellanus de SANDHURST, Johannes de Scireburn., dicit, quod ordinatus fuit subdiaconus apud Cices-triam, diaconus apud Winton ab episcopo Godefrido, in Ybernia , et jam ministravit in predicta capella per quatuor annos. Probatus de hac oratione “Excita, etc,” et de “Te igitur,” nichil scit respondere. Probatus de cantu, de offertorio dominicæ adventus, scilicet “Ad Te levavi,” nescivit cantare.

Jordan, chaplain of Rusecombe.

Item VITALIS, presbyter, presentavit ad capellam de ROTISCAMP, Jordanum presbiterum, natum apud Stratton in Dorset., ordinatum, ut dicit, subdiaconum et diaconum apud Sarum ab episcopo Herberto; presbiterum autem ab episcopo Roffensi, Gilberto de Glanville, ante generale interdictum. Probatus, ut illi supra, de oratione “Excita” et “Te igitur,” nichil scit. Proposito ei libro ut cantaret, noluit cantare. Preceptum est Vitali, ut bonos capellanos inveniatur, et ibi, et apud Sunning: vel decanus capiet beneficia in manus suas.

Item apud ERBURGESFELD fuit quidam veteranus in domo Ricardi Bulloc, presbiter quidam de Rading.; et cum probaretur a decano utrum videret, et utrum verba integra proferret, inventum est quod nullum verbum Evangelii vel canonis integrum potuit proferre. Et ideo precepit decanus Johanni de Erburgesfeld ne ulterius permitteret eum ministrare in capella illa.

JOHANNES DE ERBURGESFELD requisitus quo jure teneret capellam illam, noluit ostendere cartam suam. In uno tamen capitulo accidit eam, et noluit ostendere: ad aliud vero tulit transcriptum unius cartæ in hæc verba:—

 capellam JOHANNIS de ERLEG, et invenit ibi oratorium Visitatio lapideum satis conveniens, quod est de beato Nicholao. of the Est autem area circa oratorium clausa palicio, et quasi chapel of preparata ad faciendum ibi cimiterium. Non habet St. Nicho-baptisterium, neque oleum, neque crisma, neque cam- las at panam ; sed in predicta area est crux lignea in qua Erlegh.
 defiguntur “ Rami in die Palmarum.” Invenit etiam ibi capellanum nomine Willielmum, qui ibi celebravit per annum, et dicit quod percipit pro stipendiis suis unam marcam de J. de Erleg, et decimas de antiquo dominio ejus : sed nunquam fuit presentatus decano, vel alicui de suis, nec fidelitatem ei fecit vel obedientiam. In-super etiam passim solebat admittere parochianos de Sunning quando celebrabat in predicta capella, cum neminem deberet recipere nisi dominum, et dominam, et eorum liberam familiam. Insuper et die Purificationis proximo preterita, suscepit circiter xxv. homines et feminas in capella sua, ad oblationem, qui fuerunt de parochia de Sunning, et hæc omnia publice confessus est in pleno capitulo de Sunning, unde et W. decanus eum suspendit a celebratione divinorum. Et nota, quod quando W. decanus primo venit Sunning

nullus in predicta capella celebrabat, neque per totum annum illum; sed anno sequenti celebrabat ibi quidam capellanus nomine . . . , et fuit ibi per annum, cui successit predictus W., et sic celebratum est ibi jam per biennium postquam W. fuit decanus sine ejus conscientia.

Requisitus VITALIS, vicarius, cujus auctoritate haberet illa capella continuum servitium, dixit quod credit quod dominus episcopus dedit licentiam Johanni de Erleg habendi ibi capellanum continuum, et dandi capellano decimas de antiquo dominio suo, quas prius solebant percipere monachi de Wallingeford; sed nescitur qualiter eas dimiserint. De minutis autem decimis nondum facta est inquisitio.

Predictus autem W. presbiter, per aliquot dies permanens in suspensione, tandem venit ad decanum in vigilia Omnium Sanctorum, presentibus Vitali vicario, Herberto et Simone, capellanis, et Waltero de Purleia, clerico, et petiit misericordiam. Decanus autem, injuriam quæ sibi facta fuit, scilicet quod ibi celebravit, eo non requisito, posuit in respectu, donec videret qualiter se de cetero habeat. Item salva questione de continuo servitio capellæ, accepit idem decanus juramentum fidelitatis et obedientiæ a predicto W., quamdiu ibi celebraverit. Juravit etiam idem W. quod non celebrabit in predicta capella quamdiu aliquis parochianorum de Sunning fuerit in ea, et quod ad nullius petitionem celebrabit in capella de Sindlesham. Juravit etiam quod die Dominica proxima sequenti reddet super altare de Sunning, quicquid percepit de oblationibus parochianorum de Sunning, [quod] fecit, et sic absolutus est suspensione. Et reddidit xii. denarios, dicens in verbo domini quod per tantum putavit bene esse quietum.

ACTA IN CAPITULO DE SUNNING DIE VENERIS PROXIMA POST FESTUM SANCTI MARTINI.

Decanus visitavit capellam quæ est in curia Thomæ de Erleg, quæ est de sancto Bartholomæo, et est lignea : est autem area circum oratorium, clausa palicio, et quasi preparata ad faciendum cimeterium; et jacent ibi lapides congregati in acervos quasi ad construendam capellam lapideam. Non habet baptisterium, neque campanam, et in predicta area est crux lignea in qua defiguntur "Rami in die Palmarum."

Erleg.

VITALIS, juratus, dicit quod antiquitus non fiebat servitium divinum in illa capella; sed ipse Vitalis fuit primus qui in ea celebravit, temporibus decani Ricardi; et postea solebat ipse, vel capellanus suus, ex gratia, cantare ibi in diebus festis, quando dominus Thomas esset presens. Postea vero, transactis jam circiter quatuor annis vel quinque, ordinatus fuit Willielmus, sacerdos, ad presentationem Thomæ, militis, a domino episcopo, qui modo sedet, et ex tunc habuit capella continuum servitium per eundem W., qui adhuc ibi ministrat. Requisitus cujus auctoritate hoc fuisset factum, et si unquam A. decanus assensum prebuisset ut esset ibi capellanus continuus, dicit, quod non, sed per episcopum solum factum est. Idem Vitalis dicit quod nunquam temporibus patris Thomæ, sed Johannis de Erleg, fuit in illa capella cantatum, sed decidebat per antiquitatem; et temporibus Herberti episcopi fuit parata nova.

WILLIELMUS DE SUNNING, capellanus qui ministrat in eadem capella, concordat cum Vitali. Interrogatus de ordinatione sua, dicit, quod factus fuit subdiaconus apud Sunning, ab episcopo Herberto, et diaconus apud Cicestriam ab episcopo Ricardo, qui nunc est Sarum, ad presentationem dicti Thomæ: fuit presbiter ab eodem episcopo Sarum apud Merleberge, transactis jam quatuor annis et amplius, in "quatuor temporibus" quod est ante Pascha, S. "sitientes;"¹ et in festo S. Michaelis proximo sequenti, cepit deservire illi capellæ continue. Requisitus si decanus A., qui tunc sedit, dedisset ei licentiam, dicit, quod non. Requisitus quæ stipendia recipiat pro se et pro clerico suo, dicit, quod quatuor summas frumenti, et duas summas et dimid. de sili-gine, et duas summas et dimid. de ordeo, et unam marcam argenti, de qua percepit decem solidos a Vitali, presbitero, pro decimis ejusdem Thomæ quas tenet, et xl. denariis de censu cujusdam rustici qui tenet de predicto Thoma. Et idem Thomas fecit pacem cum monachis de [Wallingeford?] qui solebant percipere decimas suas per redditum dimid. marc. quam eis assignavit.²

WILLIELMUS, predictus capellanus, suspensus fuit a decano, quia passim recipiebat parrochianos suos. Postea, predicto die capituli, juravit obedientiam decano, et fidelitatem omnimodam ecclesiæ de Sunning, et quod de cetero nullum recipiet quando celebrabit, nisi dominum Thomam et uxorem suam et liberam familiam suam: et nullum rusticum servientem, utpote daïam,³

INNOCENTIUS EPISCOPUS, etc., venerabilibus fratribus et dilectis filiis universis ecclesiarum prelati per Angliam constitutis, etc.

Dignis laudibus attollimus magnificentiam Creatoris, quod postquam idem qui est mirabilis et terribilis in consiliis super filios hominum aliquando toleravit, ut perflando discurreret per arcolum orti sui spiritus tempestatis, quasi ludens taliter in orbe terrarum sic offenderet infirmitatem et insufficientiam nostram nobis statim cum voluit, "Aquiloni" dixit "Da," et Austro, "Noli prohibere," imperansque ventis et mari "statuit procellam in auram," ut nautæ portum quietis inveniant præoptatum. Cum igitur inter regnum et sacerdotium Anglicanum, non sine magno periculo atque dampno, super electionibus prælatorum gravis fuerit diutius controversia agitata; illo tamen, cui nichil est impossibile, quique ubi vult spirat, mirabiliter operante, karissimus in Christo filius Johannes rex Angliæ, liberaliter ex mera et spontanea voluntate, de consensu communi suorum baronum, pro salute animæ suæ ac predecessorum ac successorum, nobis concessit, et suis literis confirmavit, ut de cetero in universis ecclesiis et singulis et monasteriis, cathedralibus, et conventualibus totius regni Angliæ in perpetuum liberæ fiant electiones quorumcunque prælatorum, majorum etiam et minorum. Nos igitur gratam et ratam habentes concessionem hujusmodi, vobis et per vos ecclesiis et successoribus vestris, prout in ejusdem regis litteris perspeximus contineri, auctoritate apostolica confirmamus, et presentis scripti patrocinio communimus. Ad majorem autem firmitatem, et per-

Tam in privilegio INNOCENTII quam HONORII, continetur hæc clausula:—Sane novalium vestrorum quæ propriis manibus aut sumptibus colitis, sive de nutrimentis animalium vestrorum, nullus a vobis decimas exigere vel extorquere presumat. Item alia clausula in utroque continetur; libertates preterea et immunitates antiquas et rationabiles consuetudines monasterio vestro concessas et hactenus observatas ratas habemus, et eas perpetuis temporibus illibatas manere sanctimus.

Ista immunitas de novalibus et de nutrimentis animalium observata est in omnibus ecclesiis in diocesi Sarum, præterquam in ecclesia de Weliford, sicut credit abbas, et, an aliter se habeat, inquiret.

Multum cedit ad commodum animarum ut conscientiam fama non deserat, et famam conscientia contemptui non exponat, sed potius mutuis promoveantur suffragiis, et mutuis sibi promotionibus suffragentur, propter quod in vestibus Aaron, mala punica cum tintunabulis dependebant.¹ Porro dum attentius quid onus honoris exposcat, quid sarcina dignitatis desideret, multa nos cura sollicitat, multae sollicitudinis urgemur instantia, qualiter Deo satisfaciamus et homini, et si non ut volumus et debemus, saltem prout permittimur et valemus. Sane multos multociens et audivimus et vidimus murmurantes propter expensas, quas venientes ad sedem apostolicam faciebant. Scimus autem quod ex talibus inferebat presumptio detractorum, quod labia dolosa et quod lingua maliloqua presumebant, cum nonnullos sermones in publico molientes, et inmitentes periculosius jacula in occulto, Romanam mordere niterentur ecclesiam, parati non solum ea quae rigor justitiae, sed etiam quae iudicium equitatis, necnon benignitatis et gratiae, consummabat, suis oblocutionibus depravare, praesertim apud eos qui "aures prurientes" habebant, et gratis erectas ad malum. Illos quoque in talibus experti sumus frequenter offendere, qui missi procurare negotia, dum ea quae illis ad necessarias deputabantur expensas suis voluptatibus applicabant, ad miserabile mendacii subsidium recurrentes, alienis manibus impingebant, quae proprie defraudarant.

Volentes, quod illi salubri consilio providerunt, efficaci opere consummare; videlicet, ut ad opus sedis apostolicæ in singulis cathedralibus ecclesiis et aliis prebendalibus, præbendæ singulæ reserventur; et interim, donec id fiat, competentes in eisdem redditus assignentur. In monasteriis vero, et ceteris regularibus domibus, ac collegiatis ecclesiis, necnon de bonis episcoporum, secundum facultates suas, constituantur certi redditus pro prebendis, quorum proventus in commune recepti, tam in nostras quam in fratrum nostrorum necessitates, necnon capellanorum cancellariæ hostiariorum, aliorumque sedis apostolicæ officialium, convertantur, et sic et provideatur nostris in vitæ necessariis, et gratis omnibus omnia pro quibuscunque negotiis venientibus ministrentur, nec sit qui per se vel alium expresse vel tacite aliquid exigat, vel etiam sponte oblata recipiat, præter bullæ redditum consuetum.

Quod si quis Giesiticus¹ tantæ cupiditati animum audebit exponere, quod, contra prohibitionis nostræ rigorem, manus ad munus quantumcumque gratuitum presumat extendere, tantæ pœnæ duritie subiacebit, quod præter publicæ confusionis opprobrium, culpam in pœna cognoscet. Quis igitur frater gratiæ, quis devotionis filius, quis Sponsi et sponsæ dilectus, ad hujusmodi statum ecclesiæ, consilio et auxilio, non assurget? Nonne id toto videbantur desiderio aspirare? tunc tamen sedes apostolica distulit, ne videretur ad hoc concilium convocasse. Ne igitur tam pii, tam sancti propositi, consummatio retardetur, per quod multum crescere poterit decor ecclesie Dei, multaque subtrahi occasio detrahendi, universitatem vestram monemus, rogamus, et hortamur in Domino, per apostolica scripta vobis mandantes, quatinus ad executionem provisionis hujus, tam in cathedralibus quam aliis, ut dictum est, ecclesiis, impendatis sic et opem et operam efficacem, quod interprete facto, monstretur quantum domus Domini vos decor alliciet, quantum sponsi et sponsae amor accendat, quantum multorum relevatio moneat, quantumque utilitas generalis inducat. Ceterum, cum ad relevanda ecclesiarum onera et gravamina prelatorum, prout possumus, intendamus, de prebendis clericis Romani, vel ab apostolica sede concessis, duximus providendum, ut postquam fuerint predicta completa, cum eas vacare contigerit, ad proprias ecclesias revertantur, ne si successive conferantur extraneis, sicut aliquando consuevit, filiis ecclesiarum, qui continuo servitio resident, redderentur inutiles, et utilitate quodammodo fierent alienae.

Serlonis quondam collectoris Devon., occasione quorun-

G. de Spineto, Roger. de Cadewyrth, et alii quamplures clerici et laici, quorum nomina esset hic difficile enumerare, totum jus suum quod se dicebant habere in memorata prebenda de Teinton, pure et absolute, sim-plici corde, Deum habentes præ oculis, pro salute animarum suarum, similiter et antecessorum et successorum, Deo et beatæ Mariæ Sarum in puram et perpetuam elemosinam resignarunt, ad votum nostrum, nostræ gratiæ se penitus supponentes. Et in hujus rei testi-monium sigilla nostra presenti scripto duximus apponenda.

Actum est hoc publice in capitulo Sarum in termino Assumptionis beatae Mariae, anno gratiae MCCXXVII^o. Et ibidem resignaverunt idem magister Ricardus et magister Michael in manus episcopi cartas suas quas super hoc habuerunt, quae ibidem cancellatae fuerunt et repositae in thesauro Sarum.

ROGERUS, DEI GRATIA, SARUM EPISCOPUS, universis sanctae ecclesiae filiis, salutem in Domino.

Concession to Arnulf "Falcarius" and his heirs, that they should have the right to present to certain prebends given by Arnulf to Sarum.

Conquestus est mihi Arnulfus, Falconarius, quod non tenetis ei conventionem quam fecit cum Osmundo episcopo et conventu vestro de prebenda illa quam dedit Deo et sanctae Mariae, cum G. filio suo in ecclesia Sarum, consensu Willielmi regis, fratris mei, per illam conventionem quam mihi recognovistis, et coram me et coram archiepiscopo stabilem et firmam stare concessisti praedicto Arnulfo, dare praedictae ecclesiae Sarum alteram prebendam cum Hunfrido, filio suo. Quare volo et firmiter precipio, quod teneatis ei et posteris suis quam fecit conventionem. Quod si nolueritis, archiepiscopus faciat fieri; si non, reddo sibi et propinquis de genere suo natis, prebendas de me et heredibus meis in perpetuum tenendas libere et quiete, sicut Willielmus Rex, pater meus, de dominico suo ipsi Arnulfo, pro servitio suo, dedit.

Command from king Henry I. that the covenant above recited be faithfully observed.

LUCIUS, EPISCOPUS, etc. Dignum est et honestati quietum, ut qui ad ecclesiarum regimen divina sumus dispensatione assumpti, ea et a pravorum hominum nequitia tueamur, et scripto eueamus apostolico communiri. Hac igitur consideratione inducti, et vestris precibus inclinati, prebendas vestras de Merleberge et Bleobirie et Sipton et de Uffenton, cum omnibus pertinentiis suis sicut xl. annis rationabiliter tenuistis, et nunc pacifice possidetis, necnon et ecclesias aliosque redditus quos justo vos communi titulo possidetis, vel ut in auctenticis scriptis venerabilium fratrum nostrorum Cantuariens. archiepiscopi et episcopi Sarum continetur, vobis, et per vos, ecclesie vestrae, auctoritate apostolica, confirmamus, et presentis scripti patrocinio communimus: Statuentes ut nulli hominum liceat hanc paginam nostrae confirmationis infringere, vel ei, ausu temerario, contraire. Si quis autem hoc attemptare presumpserit, indignationem Dei Omnipotentis, et beatorum Petri et Pauli apostolorum, se noverit incursum.

Speravimus hactenus ut tanquam viri providi et modesti, eum erga nos et Romanam ecclesiam gereretis devotionis affectum, ut non solum contra quemquam cardinalium, sed nec etiam contra familiares eorum aliquid ageretur, unde sumi posset contrarium argumentum. Pope Gregory IX. protests against any jurisdiction being exercised over a cardinal.

¹ This "Stephen" was made cardinal deacon of St. Hadrian according to Ciacconius (or rather his annotator Oldoinus) by pope Innocent III., c. 1212, at the same time as Stephen Langton. He was afterwards promoted by pope Gregory IX. to be cardinal priest of Sta. Maria Transtiberina. This deed is interesting as settling a disputed point, as to Gregory IX., and not Honorius III., having so promoted him. He was employed on important state affairs, and affairs of the church, not only under the two popes above mentioned, but also under Innocent IV., and his name occurs in many of their documents. According to Oldoinus, cardinal Stephen died at Naples, Dec. 8, 1254, and was buried in the cathedral church of that city:

CALENDARS OF STATE PAPERS, &c.

As far back as the year 1800, a Committee of the House of Commons recommended that Indexes and Calendars should be made to the Public Records, and thirty-six years afterwards another Committee of the House of Commons reiterated that recommendation in more forcible words; but it was not until the incorporation of the State Paper Office with the Public Record Office that the Master of the Rolls found himself in a position to take the necessary steps for carrying out the wishes of the House of Commons.

On 7 December 1855, he stated to the Lords of the Treasury that although "the Records, State Papers, and Documents in his charge constitute the most complete and perfect series of their kind in the civilized world," and although "they are of the greatest value in a historical, and constitutional point of view, yet they are comparatively useless to the public, from the want of proper Calendars and Indexes."

Acting upon the recommendations of the Committees of the House of Commons above referred to, he suggested to the Lords of the Treasury that to effect the object he had in view it would be necessary for him to employ a few Persons fully qualified to perform the work which he contemplated.

Their Lordships assented to the necessity of having Calendars prepared and printed, and empowered the Master of the Rolls to take such steps as might be necessary for this purpose.

The following Works have been already published under the direction to the Master of the Rolls:—

THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

[ROYAL 8vo. half-bound. Price 10s. each Volume or Part.]

On 25 July 1822, the House of Commons presented an address to the Crown, stating that the editions of the works of our ancient historians were inconvenient and defective; that many of their writings still remained in manuscript, and, in some cases, in a single copy only. They added, "that an uniform and convenient edition of the whole, published under His Majesty's royal sanction, would be an undertaking honourable to His Majesty's reign, and conducive to the advancement of historical and constitutional knowledge; that the House therefore humbly besought His Majesty, that He would be graciously pleased to give such directions as His Majesty, in His wisdom, might think fit, for the publication of a complete edition of the ancient historians of this realm, and assured His Majesty that whatever expense might be necessary for this purpose would be made good."

The Master of the Rolls, being very desirous that effect should be given to the resolution of the House of Commons, submitted to Her Majesty's Treasury in 1857 a plan for the publication of the ancient chronicles and memorials of the United Kingdom, and it was adopted accordingly. In selecting these works, it was considered right, in the first instance, to give preference to those of which the manuscripts were unique, or the materials of which would help to fill up blanks in English history for which no satisfactory and authentic information hitherto existed in any accessible form. One great object the Master of the Rolls had in view was to form a corpus historicum within reasonable limits, and which should be as complete as possible. In a subject of so vast a range, it was important that the historical student should be able to select such volumes as conformed with his own peculiar tastes and studies, and not be put to the expense of purchasing the whole collection; an inconvenience inseparable from any other plan than that which has been in this instance adopted.

Of the Chronicles and Memorials, the following volumes have been published. They embrace the period from the earliest time of British history down to the end of the reign of Henry VII.

1. THE CHRONICLE OF ENGLAND, by JOHN CAPGRAVE. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

Capgrave was prior of Lynn, in Norfolk, and provincial of the order of the Friars Hermits of England shortly before the year 1464. His Chronicle extends from the creation of the world to the year 1417. As a record of the language spoken in Norfolk (being written in English), it is of considerable value.

2. CHRONICON MONASTERII DE ABINGDON. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1858.

This Chronicle traces the history of the great Benedictine monastery of Abingdon in Berkshire, from its foundation by King Ina of Wessex, to the reign of Richard I., shortly after which period the present narrative was drawn up by an inmate of the establishment. The author had access to the title-deeds of the house; and incorporates into his history various charters of the Saxon kings, of great importance as illustrating not only the history of the locality but that of the kingdom. The work is printed for the first time.

3. LIVES OF EDWARD THE CONFESSOR. I.—La Estoire de Seint Aedward le Rei. II.—Vita Beati Edvardi Regis et Confessoris. III.—Vita Æduuardi Regis qui apud Westmonasterium requiescit. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1858.

The first is a poem in Norman French, containing 4,686 lines, addressed to Alianor, Queen of Henry III., probably written in 1245, on the restoration of the church of Westminster. Nothing is known of the author. The second is an anonymous poem, containing 536 lines, written between 1440 and 1450, by command of Henry VI., to whom it is dedicated. It does not throw any new light on the reign of Edward the Confessor, but is valuable as a specimen of the Latin poetry of the time. The third, also by an anonymous author, was apparently written for Queen Edith, between 1066 and 1074, during the pressure of the suffering brought on the Saxons by the Norman conquest. It notices many facts not found in other writers, and some which differ considerably from the usual accounts.

4. MONUMENTA FRANCISCANA. Vol. I.—Thomas de Eccleston de Adventu Fratrum Minorum in Angliam. Adæ de Marisco Epistolæ. Registrum Fratrum Minorum Londoniæ. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vol. II.—De Adventu Minorum; re-edited, with additions. Chronicle of the Grey Friars. The ancient English version of the Rule of St. Francis. Abbreviatio Statutorum, 1451, &c. Edited by RICHARD HOWLETT, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1858, 1882.

The first volume contains original materials for the history of the settlement of the order of Saint Francis in England, the letters of Adam de Marisco, and other papers connected with the foundation and diffusion of this great body. It was the aim of the editor to collect whatever historical information could be found in this country, towards illustrating a period of the national history for which only scanty materials exist. None of these have been before printed. The second volume contains materials found, since the first volume was published, among the MSS. of Sir Charles Isham, and in various libraries.

5. FASCICULI ZIZANIORUM MAGISTRI JOHANNIS WYCLIF CUM TRITICO. Ascribed to THOMAS NETTER, of WALDEN, Provincial of the Carmelite Order in England, and Confessor to King Henry the Fifth. Edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, M.A., Tutor and late Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford. 1858.

This work derives its principal value from being the only contemporaneous account of the rise of the Lollards. When written the disputes of the schoolmen had been extended to the field of theology, and they appear both in the writings of Wycliff and in those of his adversaries. Wycliff's little bundles of tares are not less metaphysical than theological, and the conflict between Nominalists and Realists rages side by side with the conflict between the different interpreters of Scripture. The work gives a good idea of the controversies at the end of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th centuries.

6. THE BUIK OF THE CRONICLIS OF SCOTLAND; or, A Metrical Version of the History of Hector Boece; by WILLIAM STEWART. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. B. TURNBULL, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. 1858.

This is a metrical translation of a Latin Prose Chronicle, and was written in the first half of the 16th century. The narrative begins with the earliest legends, and ends with the death of James I. of Scotland, and the "evil ending of the traitors that slew him." Strict accuracy of statement is not to be looked for in such a work as this; but the stories of the colonization of Spain, Ireland, and Scotland are interesting if not true; and the chronicle is valuable as a reflection of the manners, sentiments, and character of the age in which it was composed. The peculiarities of the Scottish dialect are well illustrated in this metrical version, and the student of language will find ample materials for comparison with the English dialects of the same period, and with modern lowland Scotch.

7. JOHANNIS CAPGRAVE LIBER DE ILLUSTRIBUS HENRICIS. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

This work is dedicated to Henry VI. of England, who appears to have been, in the author's estimation, the greatest of all the Henries. It is divided into three parts, each having a separate dedication. The first part relates only to the history of the Empire, from the election of Henry I., the Fowler, to the end of the reign of the Emperor Henry VI. The second part is devoted to English history, from the accession of Henry I. in 1100, to 1446, which was the twenty-fourth year of the reign of Henry VI. The third part contains the lives of illustrious men who have borne the name of Henry in various parts of the world. Capgrave was born in 1393, in the reign of Richard II., and lived during the Wars of the Roses, for which period his work is of some value.

8. HISTORIA MONASTERII S. AUGUSTINI CANTUARIENSIS, by THOMAS OF ELMHAM, formerly Monk and Treasurer of that Foundation. Edited by CHARLES HARDWICK, M.A., Fellow of St. Catharine's Hall, and Christian Advocate in the University of Cambridge. 1858.

This history extends from the arrival of St. Augustine in Kent until 1191. Prefixed is a chronology as far as 1418, which shows in outline what was to have been the character of the work when completed. The only copy known is in the possession of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The author was connected with Norfolk, and most probably with Elmham, whence he derived his name.

9. EULOGIUM (HISTORIARUM SIVE TEMPORIS): Chronicon ab Orbe condito usque ad Annum Domini 1366; a Monacho quodam Malmesbiriensi exaratum. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by F. S. HAYDON, Esq., B.A. 1858-1863.

This is a Latin Chronicle extending from the Creation to the latter part of the reign of Edward III., and written by a monk of the Abbey of Malmesbury, in Wiltshire, about the year 1367. A continuation, carrying the history of England down to the year 1413, was added in the former half of the fifteenth century by an author whose name is not known. The original Chronicle is divided into five books, and contains a history of the world generally, but more especially of England to the year 1366. The continuation extends the history down to the coronation of Henry V. The Eulogium itself is chiefly valuable as containing a history, by a contemporary, of the period between 1356 and 1366. The notices of events appear to have been written very soon after their occurrence. Among other interesting matter, the Chronicle contains a diary of the Poitiers campaign, evidently furnished by some person who accompanied the army of the Black Prince. The continuation of the Chronicle is also the work of a contemporary, and gives a very interesting account of the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. It is believed to be the earliest authority for the statement that the latter monarch died in the Jerusalem Chamber at Westminster.

10. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE SEVENTH: Bernardi Andreae Tholosatis Vita Regis Henrici Septimi; necnon alia quædam ad eundem Regem spectantia. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq. 1858.

The contents of this volume are—(1) a life of Henry VII., by his poet laureate and historiographer, Bernard André, of Toulouse, with some compositions in verse, of which he is supposed to have been the author; (2) the journals of Roger Machado during certain embassies on which he was sent by Henry VII. to Spain and Brittany, the first of which had reference to the marriage of the King's son, Arthur, with Catharine of Arragon; (3) two curious reports by envoys sent to Spain in the year 1505 touching the succession to the Crown of Castile, and a project of marriage between Henry VII. and the Queen of Naples; and (4) an account of Philip of Castile's reception in England in 1506. Other documents of interest in connexion with the period are given in an appendix.

11. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE FIFTH. I.—Vita Henrici Quinti, Roberto Redmanno auctore. II.—Versus Rhythmici in laudem Regis Henrici Quinti. III.—Elmhami Liber Metricus de Henrico V. Edited by CHARLES A. COLE, Esq. 1858.

This volume contains three treatises which more or less illustrate the history of the reign of Henry V., viz.: A Life by Robert Redman; a Metrical Chronicle by Thomas Elmham, prior of Lenton, a contemporary author; Versus Rhythmici, written apparently by a monk of Westminster Abbey, who was also a contemporary of Henry V. These works are printed for the first time.

12. MUNIMENTA GILDHALLÆ LONDONIENSIS; Liber Albus, Liber Custumarum, et Liber Horn, in archivis Gildhallæ asservati. Vol. I., Liber Albus. Vol. II. (in Two Parts), Liber Custumarum. Vol. III. Translation of the Anglo-Norman Passages in Liber Albus, Glossaries, Appendices, and Index. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A. Barrister-at-Law. 1859-1862.

The manuscript of the Liber Albus, compiled by John Carpenter, Common Clerk of the City of London in the year 1419, a large folio volume, is preserved in the Record Room of the City of London. It gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of that City in the twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth, and early part of the fifteenth centuries.

The Liber Custumarum was compiled probably by various hands in the early part of the fourteenth century during the reign of Edward II. The manuscript, a folio volume, is also preserved in the Record Room of the City of London, though some portion in its original state, borrowed from the City in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and never returned, forms part of the Cottonian MS. Claudius D. II. in the British Museum. It also gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of the City of London in the twelfth, thirteenth, and early part of the fourteenth centuries.

13. CHRONICA JOHANNIS DE OXENEDES. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1859.

Although this Chronicle tells of the arrival of Hengist and Horsa in England in the year 449, yet it substantially begins with the reign of King Alfred, and comes down to the year 1292, where it ends abruptly. The history is particularly valuable for notices of events in the eastern portions of the kingdom, which are not to be elsewhere obtained, and some curious facts are mentioned relative to the floods in that part of England, which are confirmed in the Friesland Chronicle of Anthony Heinrich, pastor of the Island of Mohr.

14. A COLLECTION OF POLITICAL POEMS AND SONGS RELATING TO ENGLISH HISTORY, FROM THE ACCESSION OF EDWARD III. TO THE REIGN OF HENRY VIII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1859-1861.

These Poems are perhaps the most interesting of all the historical writings of the period, though they cannot be relied on for accuracy of statement. They are various in character; some are upon religious subjects, some may be called satires, and some give no more than a court scandal; but as a whole they present a very fair picture of society, and of the relations of the different classes to one another. The period comprised is in itself interesting, and brings us, through the decline of the feudal system, to the beginning of our modern history. The songs in old English are of considerable value to the philologist.

15. The "OPUS TERTIUM," "OPUS MINUS," &c., of ROGER BACON. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1859.

This is the celebrated treatise—never before printed—so frequently referred to by the great philosopher in his works. It contains the fullest details we possess of the life and labours of Roger Bacon: also a fragment by the same author, supposed to be unique, the "Compendium Studii Theologiae."

16. BARTHOLOMÆI DE COTTON, MONACHI NORWICENSIS, HISTORIA ANGLICANA; 449-1298: necnon ejusdem Liber de Archiepiscopis et Episcopis Angliæ. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1859.

The author, a monk of Norwich, has here given us a Chronicle of England from the arrival of the Saxons in 449 to the year 1298, in or about which year it appears that he died. The latter portion of this history (the whole of the reign of Edward I. more especially) is of great value, as the writer was contemporary with the events which he records. An Appendix contains several illustrative documents connected with the previous narrative.

17. BRUT Y TYWYSOGION; or, The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

This work, also known as "The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales," has been attributed to Caradoc of Llancarvan, who flourished about the middle of the twelfth century. It is written in the ancient Welsh language, begins with the abdication and death of Caedwala at Rome, in the year 681, and continues the history down to the subjugation of Wales by Edward I., about the year 1282.

18. A COLLECTION OF ROYAL AND HISTORICAL LETTERS DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY IV. 1399-1404. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1860.

This volume, like all the others in the series containing a miscellaneous selection of letters, is valuable on account of the light it throws upon biographical history, and the familiar view it presents of characters, manners, and events. The period requires much elucidation; to which it will materially contribute.

19. THE REPRESSOR OF OVER MUCH BLAMING OF THE CLERGY. By REGINALD PECOCK, sometime Bishop of Chichester. Vols. I. and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1860.

The "Repressor" may be considered the earliest piece of good theological disquisition of which our English prose literature can boast. The author was born about the end of the fourteenth century, consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph in the year 1444, and translated to the see of Chichester in 1450. While Bishop of St. Asaph, he zealously defended his brother prelates from the attacks of those who censured the bishops for their neglect of duty. He maintained that it was no part of a bishop's functions to appear in the pulpit, and that his time might be more profitably spent, and his dignity better maintained, in the performance of works of a higher character. Among those who thought differently were the Lollards, and against their general doctrines the "Repressor" is directed. Pecock took up a position midway between that of the Roman Church and that of the modern Anglican Church; but his work is interesting chiefly because it gives a full account of the views of the Lollards and of the arguments by which they were supported, and because it assists us to ascertain the state of feeling which ultimately led to the Reformation. Apart from religious matters, the light thrown upon contemporaneous history is very small, but the "Repressor" has great value for the philologist, as it tells us what were the characteristics of the language in use among the cultivated Englishmen of the fifteenth century. Pecock, though an opponent of the Lollards, showed a certain spirit of toleration, for which he received, towards the end of his life, the usual mediæval reward—persecution.

20. ANNALES CAMBRIÆ. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

These annals, which are in Latin, commence in the year 447, and come down to the year 1288. The earlier portion appears to be taken from an Irish Chronicle, which was also used by Tigernach, and by the compiler of the Annals of Ulster. During its first century it contains scarcely anything relating to Britain, the earliest direct concurrence with English history is relative to the mission of Augustine. Its notices throughout, though brief, are valuable. The annals were probably written at St. Davids, by Blegewryd, Archdeacon of Llandaff, the most learned man in his day in all Cymru.

21. THE WORKS OF GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vols. V., VI., and VII. Edited by the Rev. JAMES F. DIMOCK, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1861-1877.

These volumes contain the historical works of Gerald du Barry, who lived in the reigns of Henry II., Richard I., and John, and attempted to re-establish the independence of Wales by restoring the see of St. Davids to its ancient primacy. His works are of a very miscellaneous nature, both in prose and verse, and are remarkable chiefly for the racy and original anecdotes which they contain relating to contemporaries. He is the only Welsh writer of any importance who has contributed so much to the mediæval literature of this country, or assumed, in consequence of his nationality, so free and independent a tone. His frequent travels in Italy, in France, in Ireland, and in Wales, gave him opportunities for observation which did not generally fall to the lot of mediæval writers in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and of these observations Giraldus has made due use. Only extracts from these treatises have been printed before, and almost all of them are taken from unique manuscripts.

The Topographia Hibernica (in Vol. V.) is the result of Giraldus' two visits to Ireland. The first in the year 1183, the second in 1185-6, when he accompanied Prince John into that country. Curious as this treatise is, Mr. Dimock is of opinion that it ought not to be accepted as sober truthful history, for Giraldus himself states that truth was not his main object, and that he compiled the work for the purpose of sounding the praises of Henry the Second. Elsewhere, however, he declares that he had stated nothing in the Topographia of the truth of which he was not well assured, either by his own eyesight or by the testimony, with all diligence elicited, of the most trustworthy and authentic men in the country; that though he did not put just the same full faith in their reports as in what he had himself seen, yet, as they only related what they had themselves seen, he could not but believe such credible witnesses. A very interesting portion of this treatise is devoted to the animals of Ireland. It shows that he was a very accurate and acute observer, and his descriptions are given in a way that a scientific naturalist of the present day could hardly improve upon. The Expugnatio Hibernica was written about the year 1188 and may be regarded rather as a great epic than a sober relation of acts occurring in his own days. No one can peruse it without coming to the conclusion that it is rather a poetical fiction than a prosaic truthful history.

Vol. VI. contains the Itinerarium Kambriæ et Descriptio Kambriæ: and Vol. VII., the lives of S. Remigius and S. Hugh.

22. LETTERS AND PAPERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE WARS OF THE ENGLISH IN FRANCE DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY THE SIXTH, KING OF ENGLAND. Vol. I., and Vol. II. (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1861-1864.

The letters and papers contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from originals or contemporary copies extant in the Bibliothèque Impériale, and the Dépôt des Archives, in Paris. They illustrate the line of policy adopted by John Duke of Bedford and his successors during their government of Normandy, and such other provinces of France as had been acquired by Henry V. We may here trace, step by step, the gradual declension of the English power, until we are prepared to read of its final overthrow.

23. THE ANGLO-SAXON CHRONICLE, ACCORDING TO THE SEVERAL ORIGINAL AUTHORITIES. Vol. I., Original Texts. Vol. II., Translation. Edited and translated by BENJAMIN THORPE, Esq., Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Munich, and of the Society of Netherlandish Literature at Leyden. 1861.

This Chronicle, extending from the earliest history of Britain to the year 1154, is justly the boast of England; for no other nation can produce any history written in its own vernacular, at all approaching it, either in antiquity, truthfulness, or extent, the historical books of the Bible alone excepted. There are at present six independent manuscripts of the Saxon Chronicle, ending in different years, and written in different parts of the country. In this edition, the text of each manuscript is printed in columns on the same page, so that the student may see at a glance the various changes which occur in orthography, whether arising from locality or age.

24. LETTERS AND PAPERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE REIGNS OF RICHARD III. AND HENRY VII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq. 1861-1863.

The Papers are derived from MSS. in the Public Record Office, the British Museum, and other repositories. The period to which they refer is unusually destitute of chronicles and other sources of historical information, so that the light obtained from these documents is of special importance. The principal contents of the volumes are some diplomatic Papers of Richard III.; correspondence between Henry VII. and Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain; documents relating to Edmund de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk; and a portion of the correspondence of James IV. of Scotland.

25. LETTERS OF BISHOP GROSSETESTE, illustrative of the Social Condition of his Time. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1861.

The Letters of Robert Grosseteste (131 in number) are here collected from various sources, and a large portion of them is printed for the first time. They range in date from about 1210 to 1253, and relate to various matters connected not only with the political history of England during the reign of Henry III., but with its ecclesiastical condition. They refer especially to the diocese of Lincoln, of which Grosseteste was bishop.

26. DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF MANUSCRIPTS RELATING TO THE HISTORY OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND. Vol. I. (in Two Parts); Anterior to the Norman Invasion. Vol. II.; 1066-1200. Vol. III.; 1200-1327. By Sir THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1862-1871.

The object of this work is to publish notices of all known sources of British history, both printed and unprinted, in one continued sequence. The materials, when historical (as distinguished from biographical), are arranged under the year in which the latest event is recorded in the chronicle or history, and not under the period in which its author, real or supposed, flourished. Biographies are enumerated under the year in which the person commemorated died, and not under the year in which the life was written. This arrangement has two advantages; the materials for any given period may be seen at a glance; and if the reader knows the time when an author wrote, and the number of years that had elapsed between the date of the events and the time the writer flourished, he will generally be enabled to form a fair estimate of the comparative value of the narrative itself. A brief analysis of each work has been added when deserving it, in which the original portions are distinguished from those which are mere compilations. When possible, the sources are indicated from which such compilations have been derived. A biographical sketch of the author of each piece has been added, and a brief notice has also been given of such British authors as have written on historical subjects.

27. ROYAL AND OTHER HISTORICAL LETTERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE REIGN OF HENRY III. Vol. I., 1216-1235. Vol. II., 1236-1272. Selected and edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, D.D., Regius Professor in Ecclesiastical History, and Canon of Christ Church, Oxford. 1862-1866.

The letters contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from the ancient correspondence formerly in the Tower of London, and now in the Public Record Office. They illustrate the political history of England during the growth of its liberties, and throw considerable light upon the personal history of Simon de Montfort. The affairs of France form the subject of many of them, especially in regard to the province of Gascony. The entire collection consists of nearly 700 documents, the greater portion of which is printed for the first time.

28. CHRONICA MONASTERII S. ALBANI.—1. THOMÆ WALSINGHAM HISTORIA ANGLICANA; Vol. I., 1272-1381: Vol. II., 1381-1422. 2. WILLELMI RISHANGER CHRONICA ET ANNALES, 1259-1307. 3. JOHANNIS DE TROKELowe ET HENRICI DE BLANEFORDE CHRONICA ET ANNALES, 1259-1296; 1307-1324; 1392-1406. 4. GESTA ABBATUM MONASTERII S. ALBANI, A THOMA WALSINGHAM, REGNANTE RICARDO SECUNDO, EJUSDEM ECCLESIAE PRÆCENTORE, COMPILATA; Vol. I., 793-1290: Vol. II., 1290-1349: Vol. III., 1349-1411. 5. JOHANNIS AMUNDESHAM, MONACHI MONASTERII S. ALBANI, UT VIDETUR, ANNALES; Vols. I. and II. 6. REGISTRA QUORUNDAM ABBATUM MONASTERII S. ALBANI, QUI SÆCULO XV^{mo} FLORUERE; Vol. I., REGISTRUM ABBATIAE JOHANNIS WHETHAMSTEDE, ABBATIS MONASTERII SANCTI ALBANI, ITERUM SUSCEPTÆ; ROBERTO BLAKENEY, CAPELLANO, QUONDAM ADSRIPTUM: Vol. II., REGISTRA JOHANNIS WHETHAMSTEDE, WILLELMI ALBON, ET WILLELMI WALINGFORDE, ABBATUM MONASTERII SANCTI ALBANI, CUM APPENDICE, CONTINENTE QUASDAM EPISTOLAS, A JOHANNE WHETHAMSTEDE CONSCRIPTAS. 7. YPODIGMA NEUSTRIÆ, A THOMA WALSINGHAM, QUONDAM MONACHO MONASTERII S. ALBANI, CONSCRIPTUM. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A., Cambridge and Oxford; and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1863-1876.

In the first two volumes is a History of England, from the death of Henry III. to the death of Henry V., by Thomas Walsingham, Precentor of St. Albans, from MS. VII. in the Arundel Collection in the College of Arms, London, a manuscript of the fifteenth century, collated with MS. 13 E. IX. in the King's Library in the British Museum, and MS. VII. in the Parker Collection of Manuscripts at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

In the third volume is a Chronicle of English History, attributed to William Rishanger, who lived in the reign of Edward I., from the Cotton. MS. Faustina B. IX. in the British Museum, collated with MS. 14 C. VII. (fols. 219-231) in the King's Library, British Museum, and the Cotton MS. Claudius E. III., fols. 306-331: an account of transactions attending the award of the kingdom of Scotland to John Balliol, 1291-1292, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., also attributed to William Rishanger, but on no sufficient ground: a short Chronicle of English History, 1292 to 1300, by an unknown hand, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: a short Chronicle Willelmi Rishanger Gesta Edwardi Primi, Regis Angliæ, from MS. 14 C. I. in the Royal Library, and MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., with Annales Regum Angliæ, probably by the same hand: and fragments of three Chronicles of English History, 1285 to 1307.

In the fourth volume is a Chronicle of English History, 1259 to 1296, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: Annals of Edward II., 1307 to 1323, by John de Trokelowe, a monk of St. Albans, and a continuation of Trokelowe's Annals, 1323, 1324, by Henry de Blaneforde, both from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: a full Chronicle of English History, 1392 to 1406, from MS. VII. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; and an account of the Benefactors of St. Albans, written in the early part of the fifteenth century, from MS. VI. in the same Library.

The fifth, sixth, and seventh volumes contain a history of the Abbots of St. Albans, 793 to 1411, mainly compiled by Thomas Walsingham, from MS. Cotton. Claudius E. IV., in the British Museum: with a Continuation, from the closing pages of Parker MS. VII., in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

The eighth and ninth volumes, in continuation of the Annals, contain a Chronicle, probably by John Amundesham, a monk of St. Albans.

The tenth and eleventh volumes relate especially to the acts and proceedings of Abbots Whethamstede, Albon, and Wallingford, and may be considered as a memorial of the chief historical and domestic events during those periods.

The twelfth volume contains a compendious History of England to the reign of Henry V., and of Normandy in early times, also by Thomas Walsingham, and dedicated to Henry V. The compiler has often substituted other authorities in place of those consulted in the preparation of his larger work.

29. CHRONICON ABBATIAE EVESHAMENSIS, AUCTORIBUS DOMINICO PRIORE EVESHAMIAE ET THOMA DE MARLEBERGE ABBATE, A FUNDATIONE AD ANNUM 1213, UNA CUM CONTINUATIONE AD ANNUM 1418. Edited by the Rev. W. D. MACRAY, M.A., Bodleian Library, Oxford. 1863.

The Chronicle of Evesham illustrates the history of that important monastery from its foundation by Egwin, about 690, to the year 1418. Its chief feature is an autobiography, which makes us acquainted with the inner daily life of a great abbey, such as but rarely has been recorded. Interspersed are many notices of general, personal, and local history which will be read with much interest. This work exists in a single MS., and is for the first time printed.

30. RICARDI DE CIRENCESTRIA SPECULUM HISTORIALE DE GESTIS REGUM ANGLIÆ. Vol. I., 447-871. Vol. II., 872-1066. Edited by JOHN E. B. MAYOR, M.A., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1863-1869.

The compiler, Richard of Cirencester, was a monk of Westminster, 1355-1400. In 1391 he obtained a licence to make a pilgrimage to Rome. His history, in four books, extends from 447 to 1066. He announces his intention of continuing it, but there is no evidence that he completed any more. This chronicle gives many charters in favour of Westminster Abbey, and a very full account of the lives and miracles of the saints, especially of Edward the Confessor, whose reign occupies the fourth book. A treatise on the Coronation, by William of Sudbury, a monk of Westminster, fills book iii. c. 3. It was on this author that C. J. Bertram fathered his forgery, De Situ Britannia, in 1747.

31. YEAR BOOKS OF THE REIGN OF EDWARD THE FIRST. Years 20-21, 21-22, 30-31, 32-33, and 33-35. Edited and translated by ALFRED

JOHN HORWOOD, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at Law. YEAR BOOKS, 11—16 Edward III. Edited and translated by ALFRED JOHN HORWOOD, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law; continued by LUKE OWEN PIKE, Esq., M.A., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. 1863—1883.

The volumes known as the "Year Books" contain reports in Norman-French of cases argued and decided in the Courts of Common Law. They may be considered to a great extent as the "lex non scripta" of England, and have been held in the highest veneration by the ancient sages of the law, and were received by them as the repositories of the first recorded judgments and dicta of the great legal luminaries of past ages. They are also worthy of the attention of the general reader on account of the historical information and the notices of public and private persons which they contain, as well as the light which they throw on ancient manners and customs.

32. NARRATIVES OF THE EXPULSION OF THE ENGLISH FROM NORMANDY, 1449—1450.—Robertus Blondelli de Reductione Normanniæ; Le Recouvrement de Normendie, par Berry, Hérault du Roy: Conférences between the Ambassadors of France and England. Edited, from MSS. in the Imperial Library at Paris, by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham. 1863.

This volume contains the narrative of an eye-witness who details with considerable power and minuteness the circumstances which attended the final expulsion of the English from Normandy in the year 1450. The history commences with the infringement of the truce by the capture of Fougères, and ends with the battle of Formigny and the embarkation of the Duke of Somerset. The whole period embraced is less than two years.

33. HISTORIA ET CARTULARIUM MONASTERII S. PETRI GLOUCESTRIÆ. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. H. HART, Esq., F.S.A., Membre correspondant de la Société des Antiquaires de Normandie. 1863—1867.

This work consists of two parts, the History and the Cartulary of the Monastery of St. Peter, Gloucester. The history furnishes an account of the monastery from its foundation, in the year 681, to the early part of the reign of Richard II., together with a calendar of donations and benefactions. It treats principally of the affairs of the monastery, but occasionally matters of general history are introduced. Its authorship has generally been assigned to Walter Froucester, the twentieth abbot, but without any foundation.

34. ALEXANDRI NECKAM DE NATURIS RERUM LIBRI DUO; with NECKAM'S POEM, DE LAUDIBUS DIVINÆ SAPIENTIÆ. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1863.

Neckam was a man who devoted himself to science, such as it was in the twelfth century. In the "De Naturis Rerum" are to be found what may be called the rudiments of many sciences mixed up with much error and ignorance. Neckam was not thought infallible, even by his contemporaries, for Roger Bacon remarks of him, "this Alexander in many things wrote what was true and useful; but he neither can nor ought by just title to be reckoned among authorities." Neckam, however, had sufficient independence of thought to differ from some of the schoolmen who in his time considered themselves the only judges of literature. He had his own views in morals, and in giving us a glimpse of them, as well as of his other opinions, he throws much light upon the manners, customs and general tone of thought prevalent in the twelfth century. The poem entitled "De Laudibus Divinæ Sapientiæ" appears to be a metrical paraphrase or abridgment of the "De Naturis Rerum." It is written in the elegiac metre, and though there are many lines which violate classical rules, it is, as a whole, above the ordinary standard of mediæval Latin.

35. LEECHDOMS, WORTCUNNING, AND STARCRAFT OF EARLY ENGLAND; being a Collection of Documents illustrating the History of Science in this Country before the Norman Conquest. Vols. I., II., and III. Collected and edited by the Rev. T. OSWALD COCKAYNE, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1864—1866.

This work illustrates not only the history of science, but the history of superstition. In addition to the information bearing directly upon the medical skill and medical faith of the times, there are many passages which incidentally throw light upon the general mode of life and ordinary diet. The volumes are interesting not only in their scientific, but also in their social aspect. The manuscripts from which they have been printed are valuable to the Anglo-Saxon scholar for the illustrations they afford of Anglo-Saxon orthography.

36. ANNALES MONASTICI. Vol. I.:—Annales de Margan, 1066–1232; Annales de Theokesberia, 1066–1263; Annales de Burton, 1004–1263. Vol. II.:—Annales Monasterii de Wintonia, 519–1277; Annales Monasterii de Waverleia, 1–1291. Vol. III.:—Annales Prioratus de Dunstaplia, 1–1297. Annales Monasterii de Bermundeseia, 1042–1432. Vol. IV.:—Annales Monasterii de Oseneia, 1016–1347; Chronicon vulgo dictum Chronicon Thomæ Wykes, 1066–1289; Annales Prioratus de Wigornia, 1–1377. Vol. V.:—Index and Glossary. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, and Registry of the University, Cambridge. 1864–1869.

The present collection of Monastic Annals embraces all the more important chronicles compiled in religious houses in England during the thirteenth century. These distinct works are ten in number. The extreme period which they embrace ranges from the year 1 to 1432, although they refer more especially to the reigns of John, Henry III., and Edward I. Some of these narratives have already appeared in print, but others are printed for the first time.

37. MAGNA VITA S. HUGONIS EPISCOPI LINCOLNIENSIS. From Manuscripts in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, and the Imperial Library, Paris. Edited by the Rev. JAMES F. DIMOCK, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1864.

This work contains a number of very curious and interesting incidents, and being the work of a contemporary, is very valuable, not only as a truthful biography of a celebrated ecclesiastic, but as the work of a man, who, from personal knowledge, gives notices of passing events, as well as of individuals who were then taking active part in public affairs. The author, in all probability, was Adam Abbot of Evesham. He was domestic chaplain and private confessor of Bishop Hugh, and in these capacities was admitted to the closest intimacy. Bishop Hugh was Prior of Witham for 11 years before he became Bishop of Lincoln. His consecration took place on the 21st September 1186; he died on the 16th of November 1200; and was canonized in 1220.

38. CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF THE REIGN OF RICHARD THE FIRST. Vol. I.:—ITINERARIUM PEREGRINORUM ET GESTA REGIS RICARDI. Vol. II.:—EPISTOLÆ CANTUARIENSES; the Letters of the Prior and Convent of Christ Church, Canterbury; 1187 to 1199. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Vicar of Navestock, Essex, and Lambeth Librarian. 1864–1865.

The authorship of the Chronicle in Vol. I., hitherto ascribed to Geoffrey Vinesauf, is now more correctly ascribed to Richard, Canon of the Holy Trinity of London. The narrative extends from 1187 to 1199; but its chief interest consists in the minute and authentic narrative which it furnishes of the exploits of Richard I., from his departure from England in December 1189 to his death in 1199. The author states in his prologue that he was an eye-witness of much that he records; and various incidental circumstances which occur in the course of the narrative confirm this assertion.

The letters in Vol. II., written between 1187 and 1199, are of value as furnishing authentic materials for the history of the ecclesiastical condition of England during the reign of Richard I. They had their origin in a dispute which arose from the attempts of Baldwin and Hubert, archbishops of Canterbury, to found a college of secular canons, a project which gave great umbrage to the monks of Canterbury, who saw in it a design to supplant them in their function of metropolitan chapter. These letters are printed, for the first time, from a MS. belonging to the archiepiscopal library at Lambeth.

39. RECUEIL DES CRONIQVES ET ANCHIENNES ISTORIES DE LA GRANT BRETAGNE A PRESENT NOMME ENGLETERRE, par JEHAN DE WAURIN. Vol. I. Albina to 688. Vol. II., 1399–1422. Vol. III., 1422–1431. Edited by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A. 1864–1879.

40. A COLLECTION OF THE CHRONICLES AND ANCIENT HISTORIES OF GREAT BRITAIN, NOW CALLED ENGLAND, by JOHN DE WAVRIN. Albina to 688. (Translation of the preceding Vol. I.) Edited and translated by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A. 1864.

This curious chronicle extends from the fabulous period of history down to the return of Edward IV. to England in the year 1471 after the second deposition of Henry VI. The manuscript from which the text of the work is taken is preserved in the Imperial Library at Paris, and is believed to be the only complete and nearly contemporary copy in existence. The work, as originally bound, was comprised in six volumes, since rebound in morocco in 12 volumes, folio maximo, vellum, and is illustrated with exquisite miniatures, vignettes, and initial letters. It was written towards the end of the fifteenth century, having been expressly executed for Louis de Bruges, Seigneur de la Gruthuyse and Earl of Winchester, from whose cabinet it passed into the library of Louis XII. at Blois.

41. POLYCHRONICON RANULPHI HIGDEN, with Trevisa's Translation. Vols. I. and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Senior Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. Vols. III., IV., V., VI., VII., and VIII. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH RAWSON LUMBY, D.D., Norrisian Professor of Divinity, Vicar of St. Edward's, Fellow of St. Catharine's College, and late Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge. 1865-1883.

This is one of the many mediæval chronicles which assume the character of a history of the world. It begins with the creation, and is brought down to the author's own time, the reign of Edward III. Prefixed to the historical portion, is a chapter devoted to geography, in which is given a description of every known land. To say that the Polychronicon was written in the fourteenth century is to say that it is not free from inaccuracies. It has, however, a value apart from its intrinsic merits. It enables us to form a very fair estimate of the knowledge of history and geography which well-informed readers of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries possessed, for it was then the standard work on general history.

The two English translations, which are printed with the original Latin, afford interesting illustrations of the gradual change of our language, for one was made in the fourteenth century, the other in the fifteenth. The differences between Trevisa's version and that of the unknown writer are often considerable.

42. LE LIVRE DE REIS DE BRITTANIE E LE LIVRE DE REIS DE ENGLETERE. Edited by JOHN GLOVER, M.A., Vicar of Brading, Isle of Wight, formerly Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1865.

These two treatises, though they cannot rank as independent narratives, are nevertheless valuable as careful abstracts of previous historians, especially "Le Livre de Reis de Engleterre." Some various readings are given which are interesting to the philologist as instances of semi-Saxonized French.

It is supposed that Peter of Ickham must have been the author, but no certain conclusion on that point has been arrived at.

43. CHRONICA MONASTERII DE MELSA, AB ANNO 1150 USQUE AD ANNUM 1406. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by EDWARD AUGUSTUS BOND, Esq., Assistant Keeper of the Manuscripts, and Egerton Librarian, British Museum. 1866-1868.

The Abbey of Meaux was a Cistercian house, and the work of its abbot is both curious and valuable. It is a faithful and often minute record of the establishment of a religious community, of its progress in forming an ample revenue, of its struggles to maintain its acquisitions, and of its relations to the governing institutions of the country. In addition to the private affairs of the monastery, some light is thrown upon the public events of the time, which are however kept distinct, and appear at the end of the history of each abbot's administration. The text has been printed from what is said to be the autograph of the original compiler, Thomas de Burton, the nineteenth abbot.

44. MATTHÆI PARIENSIS HISTORIA ANGLORUM, SIVE, UT VULGO DICITUR, HISTORIA MINOR. Vols. I., II., and III. 1067-1253. Edited by Sir FREDERIC MADDEN, K.H., Keeper of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1866-1869.

The exact date at which this work was written is, according to the chronicler, 1250. The history is of considerable value as an illustration of the period during which the author lived, and contains a good summary of the events which followed the Conquest. This minor chronicle is, however, based on another work (also written by Matthew Paris) giving fuller details, which has been called the "Historia Major." The chronicle here published, nevertheless, gives some information not to be found in the greater history.

45. LIBER MONASTERII DE HYDA: A CHRONICLE AND CHARTULARY OF HYDE ABBEY, WINCHESTER, 455-1023. Edited, from a Manuscript in the Library of the Earl of Macclesfield, by EDWARD EDWARDS, Esq. 1866.

The "Book of Hyde" is a compilation from much earlier sources which are usually indicated with considerable care and precision. In many cases, however, the Hyde chronicler appears to correct, to qualify, or to amplify—either from tradition or from sources of information not now discoverable—the statements, which, in substance, he adopts. He also mentions, and frequently quotes from writers whose works are either entirely lost or at present known only by fragments.

There is to be found, in the "Book of Hyde," much information relating to the reign of King Alfred which is not known to exist elsewhere. The volume contains some curious specimens of Anglo-Saxon and Mediæval English.

46. CHRONICON SCOTORUM: A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, from the EARLIEST TIMES to 1135; with a SUPPLEMENT, containing the Events from 1141 to 1150. Edited, with a Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1866.

There is, in this volume, a legendary account of the peopling of Ireland and of the adventures which befell the various heroes who are said to have been connected with Irish history. The details are, however, very meagre both for this period and for the time when history becomes more authentic. The plan adopted in the chronicle gives the appearance of an accuracy to which the earlier portions of the work cannot have any claim. The succession of events is marked, year by year, from A.M. 1599 to A.D. 1150. The principal events narrated in the later portion of the work are, the invasions of foreigners, and the wars of the Irish among themselves. The text has been printed from a MS. preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, written partly in Latin, partly in Irish.

47. THE CHRONICLE OF PIERRE DE LANGTOFT, IN FRENCH VERSE, FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE DEATH OF EDWARD I. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1866-1868.

It is probable that Pierre de Langtoft was a canon of Bridlington, in Yorkshire, and that he lived in the reign of Edward I., and during a portion of the reign of Edward II. This chronicle is divided into three parts; in the first is an abridgment of Geoffrey of Monmouth's "Historia Britonum," in the second a history of the Anglo-Saxon and Norman kings, down to the death of Henry III., and in the third a history of the reign of Edward I. The principal object of the work was apparently to show the justice of Edward's Scottish wars. The language is singularly corrupt, and a curious specimen of the French of Yorkshire.

48. THE WAR OF THE GAEDHIL WITH THE GAILL, or, THE INVASIONS OF IRELAND BY THE DANES AND OTHER NORSEMEN. Edited, with a Translation, by JAMES HENTHORN TODD, D.D., Senior Fellow of Trinity College, and Regius Professor of Hebrew in the University, Dublin. 1867.

The work in its present form, in the editor's opinion, is a comparatively modern version of an undoubtedly ancient original. That it was compiled from contemporary materials has been proved by curious incidental evidence. It is stated in the account given of the battle of Clontarf that the full tide in Dublin Bay on the day of the battle (23 April 1014) coincided with sunrise; and that the returning tide in the evening aided considerably in the defeat of the Danes. The fact has been verified by astronomical calculations, and the inference is that the author of the chronicle, if not himself an eye-witness, must have derived his information from those who were eye-witnesses. The contents of the work are sufficiently described in its title. The story is told after the manner of the Scandinavian Sagas, with poems and fragments of poems introduced into the prose narrative.

49. GESTA REGIS HENRICI SECUNDI BENEDICTI ABBATIS. THE CHRONICLE OF THE REIGNS OF HENRY II. AND RICHARD I., 1169-1192, known under the name of BENEDICT OF PETERBOROUGH. Vols. I. and II.

Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, Oxford, and Lambeth Librarian. 1867.

This chronicle of the reigns of Henry II. and Richard I., known commonly under the name of Benedict of Peterborough, is one of the best existing specimens of a class of historical compositions of the first importance to the student.

50. MUNIMENTA ACADEMICA, OR, DOCUMENTS ILLUSTRATIVE OF ACADEMICAL LIFE AND STUDIES AT OXFORD (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. HENRY ANSTEY, M.A., Vicar of St. Wendron, Cornwall, and lately Vice-Principal of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. 1868.

This work will supply materials for a History of Academical Life and Studies in the University of Oxford during the 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries.

51. CHRONICA MAGISTRI ROGERI DE HOVEDENE. Vols. I., II., III., and IV, Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1868-1871.

This work has long been justly celebrated, but not thoroughly understood until Mr. Stubbs' edition. The earlier portion, extending from 732 to 1148, appears to be a copy of a compilation made in Northumbria about 1161, to which Hoveden added little. From 1148 to 1169—a very valuable portion of this work—the matter is derived from another source, to which Hoveden appears to have supplied little, and not always judiciously. From 1170 to 1192 is the portion which corresponds with the Chronicle known under the name of Benedict of Peterborough (see No. 49); but it is not a copy, being sometimes an abridgment, at others a paraphrase; occasionally the two works entirely agree; showing that both writers had access to the same materials, but dealt with them differently. From 1192 to 1201 may be said to be wholly Hoveden's work: it is extremely valuable, and an authority of the first importance.

52. WILLELMI MALMESBIRIENSIS MONACHI DE GESTIS PONTIFICUM ANGLORUM LIBRI QUINQUE. Edited, from William of Malmesbury's Autograph MS., by N. E. S. A. HAMILTON, Esq., of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1870.

William of Malmesbury's "Gesta Pontificum" is the principal foundation of English Ecclesiastical Biography, down to the year 1122. The manuscript which has been followed in this Edition is supposed by Mr. Hamilton to be the author's autograph, containing his latest additions and amendments.

53. HISTORIC AND MUNICIPAL DOCUMENTS OF IRELAND, FROM THE ARCHIVES OF THE CITY OF DUBLIN, &c. 1172-1320. Edited by JOHN T. GILBERT, Esq., F.S.A., Secretary of the Public Record Office of Ireland. 1870.

A collection of original documents, elucidating mainly the history and condition of the municipal, middle, and trading classes under or in relation with the rule of England in Ireland,—a subject hitherto in almost total obscurity. Extending over the first hundred and fifty years of the Anglo-Norman settlement, the series includes charters, municipal laws and regulations, rolls of names of citizens and members of merchant-guilds, lists of commodities with their rates, correspondence, illustrations of relations between ecclesiastics and laity; together with many documents exhibiting the state of Ireland during the presence there of the Scots under Robert and Edward Bruce.

54. THE ANNALS OF LOCH CÉ. A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, FROM 1014 to 1590. Vols. I. and II. Edited, with a Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1871.

The original of this chronicle has passed under various names. The title of "Annals of Loch Cé" was given to it by Professor O'Curry, on the ground that it was transcribed for Brian Mac Dermot, an Irish chieftain, who resided on the island in Loch Cé, in the county of Roscommon. It adds much to the materials for the civil and ecclesiastical history of Ireland; and contains many curious references to English and foreign affairs, not noticed in any other chronicle.

55. MONUMENTA JURIDICA. THE BLACK BOOK OF THE ADMIRALTY, WITH APPENDICES. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by SIR TRAVERS TWISS, Q.C., D.C.L. 1871-1876.

This book contains the ancient ordinances and laws relating to the navy, and was probably compiled for the use of the Lord High Admiral of England. Selden calls it the "jewel of the Admiralty Records." Prynne ascribes to the Black Book the same authority in the Admiralty as the Black and Red Books have in the Court of Exchequer, and most English writers on maritime law recognize its importance.

56. MEMORIALS OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VI.:—OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THOMAS BEKYNTON, SECRETARY TO HENRY VI., AND BISHOP OF BATH AND WELLS. Edited, from a MS. in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth, with an Appendix of Illustrative Documents, by the Rev. GEORGE WILLIAMS, B.D., Vicar of Ringwood, late Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. Vols. I. and II. 1872.

These curious volumes are of a miscellaneous character, and were probably compiled under the immediate direction of Bekynton before he had attained to the Episcopate. They contain many of the Bishop's own letters, and several written by him in the King's name; also letters to himself while Royal Secretary, and others addressed to the King. This work elucidates some points in the history of the nation during the first half of the fifteenth century.

57. MATHÆI PARIENSIS, MONACHI SANCTI ALBANI, CHRONICA MAJORA. Vol. I. The Creation to A.D. 1066. Vol. II. A.D. 1067 to A.D. 1216. Vol. III. A.D. 1216 to A.D. 1239. Vol. IV. A.D. 1240 to A.D. 1247. Vol. V. A.D. 1248 to A.D. 1259. Vol. VI. Additamenta. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, D.D., Fellow of Trinity College, Registrar of the University, and Vicar of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge. 1872–1882.

This work contains the "Chronica Majora" of Matthew Paris, one of the most valuable and frequently consulted of the ancient English Chronicles. It is published from its commencement, for the first time. The editions by Archbishop Parker, and William Wats, severally begin at the Norman Conquest.

58. MEMORIALE FRATRIS WALTERI DE COVENTRIA.—THE HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS OF WALTER OF COVENTRY. Vols. I. and II. Edited, from the MS. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1872–1873.

This work, now printed in full for the first time, has long been a desideratum by Historical Scholars. The first portion, however, is not of much importance, being only a compilation from earlier writers. The part relating to the first quarter of the thirteenth century is the most valuable and interesting.

59. THE ANGLO-LATIN SATIRICAL POETS AND EPIGRAMMATISTS OF THE TWELFTH CENTURY. Vols. I. and II. Collected and edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., Corresponding Member of the National Institute of France (Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres). 1872.

The Poems contained in these volumes have long been known and appreciated as the best satires of the age in which their authors flourished, and were deservedly popular during the 13th and 14th centuries.

60. MATERIALS FOR A HISTORY OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VII., FROM ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS PRESERVED IN THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, M.A., one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools. 1873–1877.

These volumes are valuable as illustrating the acts and proceedings of Henry VII. on ascending the throne, and shadow out the policy he afterwards adopted.

61. HISTORICAL PAPERS AND LETTERS FROM THE NORTHERN REGISTERS. Edited by JAMES RAINE, M.A., Canon of York, and Secretary of the Surtees Society. 1873.

The documents in this volume illustrate, for the most part, the general history of the north of England, particularly in its relation to Scotland.

62. REGISTRUM PALATINUM DUNELMENSE. THE REGISTER OF RICHARD DE KELLAWE, LORD PALATINE AND BISHOP OF DURHAM; 1311–1316. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by Sir THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1873–1878.

Bishop Kellawe's Register contains the proceedings of his prelacy, both lay and ecclesiastical, and is the earliest Register of the Palatinate of Durham.

63. MEMORIALS OF SAINT DUNSTAN ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY. Edited, from various MSS., by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1874.

This volume contains several lives of Archbishop Dunstan, one of the most celebrated Primates of Canterbury. They open various points of Historical and Literary interest, without which our knowledge of the period would be more incomplete than it is at present.

64. CHRONICON ANGLIÆ, AB ANNO DOMINI 1328 USQUE AD ANNUM 1388, AUCTORE MONACHO QUODAM SANCTI ALBANI. Edited by EDWARD MAUNDE THOMPSON, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, and Assistant-Keeper of the Manuscripts in the British Museum. 1874.

This chronicle gives a circumstantial history of the close of the reign of Edward III. which has hitherto been considered lost.

65. THÓMAS SAGA ERKIBYSKUPS. A LIFE OF ARCHBISHOP THOMAS BECKET, IN ICELANDIC. Vol. I. Edited, with English Translation, Notes, and Glossary, by M. EIRÍKR MAGNÚSSON, Sub-Librarian of the University Library, Cambridge. 1875.

This work is derived from the Life of Becket written by Benedict of Peterborough, and apparently supplies the missing portions in Benedict's biography.

66. RADULPHI DE COGGESHALL CHRONICON ANGLICANUM. Edited by the REV. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A. 1875.

This volume contains the "Chronicon Anglicanum," by Ralph of Coggeshall, the "Libellus de Expugnatione Terræ Sanctæ per Saladinum," usually ascribed to the same author, and other pieces of an interesting character.

67. MATERIALS FOR THE HISTORY OF THOMAS BECKET, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY. Vols. I., II., III., IV., V., and VI. Edited by the Rev. JAMES CRAIGIE ROBERTSON, M.A., Canon of Canterbury. 1875-1883.

This Publication will comprise all contemporary materials for the history of Archbishop Thomas Becket. The first volume contains the life of that celebrated man, and the miracles after his death, by William, a monk of Canterbury. The second, the life by Benedict of Peterborough; John of Salisbury; Alan of Tewkesbury; and Edward Grim. The third, the life by William Fitzstephen; and Herbert of Bosham. The fourth, Anonymous lives, Quadriologus, &c. The fifth and sixth volumes, the Epistles, and known letters.

68. RADULFI DE DICETO DECANI LUNDONIENSIS OPERA HISTORICA. THE HISTORICAL WORKS OF MASTER RALPH DE DICETO, DEAN OF LONDON. Vols. I. and II. Edited, from the Original Manuscripts, by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1876.

The Historical Works of Ralph de Diceto are some of the most valuable materials for British History. The Abbreviationes Chronicorum extend from the Creation to 1147, and the Ymagines Historiarum to 1201.

69. ROLL OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE KING'S COUNCIL IN IRELAND, FOR A PORTION OF THE 16TH YEAR OF THE REIGN OF RICHARD II. 1392-93. Edited by the Rev. JAMES GRAVES, A.B. 1877.

This Roll throws considerable light on the History of Ireland at a period little known. It seems the only document of the kind extant.

The Historical Works of Gervase of Canterbury are of great importance, as regards the questions of Church and State, during the period in which he wrote. This work was printed by Twysden, in the "Historiæ Anglicanæ Scriptores X.," more than two centuries ago. The present edition has received critical examination and illustration.
74. HENRICI ARCHIDIACONI HUNTENDUNENSIS HISTORIA ANGLORUM. THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH, BY HENRY, ARCHDEACON OF HUNTINGDON, from A.C. 55 to A.D. 1154, in Eight Books. Edited by THOMAS ARNOLD, M.A., of University College, Oxford. 1879.
Henry of Huntingdon's work was first printed by Sir Henry Savile, in 1596, in his "Scriptores post Bedam," and reprinted at Frankfort in 1601. Both editions are very rare and inaccurate. The first five books of the History were published in 1848 in the "Monumenta Historica Britannica," which is out of print. The present volume contains the whole of the manuscript of Huntingdon's History in eight books, collated with a manuscript lately discovered at Paris.

78. THE REGISTER OF S. OSMUND. Edited by the Rev. WILLIAM HENRY RICH-JONES, M.A., F.S.A., Canon of Salisbury, and Vicar of Bradford-on-Avon. Vol. I. 1883.
This Register, of which a complete copy is here printed for the first time, is among the most ancient, and certainly the most treasured, of the muniments of the Bishops of Salisbury. It derives its name from containing the statutes, rules, and orders made or compiled by S. Osmund, to be observed in the Cathedral and Diocese of Salisbury.

WORKS PUBLISHED IN PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY.

DOMESDAY BOOK, or the GREAT SURVEY OF ENGLAND OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, 1086 ; fac-simile of the Part relating to each county, separately (with a few exceptions of double counties). Photozincographed, by Her Majesty's Command, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, Colonel SIR HENRY JAMES, R.E., F.R.S., &c., Director. 35 Parts, imperial quarto and demy quarto (1861-1863) boards. Price 8s. to 1l. 3s. each Part, according to size ; or, bound in 2 Vols., 20l. (The edition in two volumes is out of print.)

This important and unique survey of the greater portion of England* is the oldest and most valuable record in the national archives. It was commenced about the year 1084 and finished in 1086. Its compilation was determined upon at Gloucester by William the Conqueror, in council, in order that he might know what was due to him, in the way of tax, from his subjects, and that each at the same time might know what he had to pay. It was compiled as much for their protection as for the benefit of the sovereign. The nobility and people had been grievously distressed at the time by the king bringing over large numbers of French and Bretons, and quartering them on his subjects, "each according to the measure of his land," for the purpose of resisting the invasion of Cnut, King of Denmark, which was apprehended. The commissioners appointed to make the survey were to inquire the name of each place ; who held it in the time of King Edward the Confessor ; the present possessor ; how many hides were in the manor ; how many ploughs were in demesne ; how many homagers ; how many villeins ; how many cottars ; how many serving men ; how many free tenants ; how many tenants in soccage ; how much wood, meadow, and pasture ; the number of mills and fish-ponds ; what had been added or taken away from the place ; what was the gross value in the time of Edward the Confessor ; the present value ; and how much each free-man or soc-man had, and whether any advance could be made in the value. Thus could be ascertained who held the estate in the time of King Edward ; who then held it ; its value in the time of the late king ; and its value as it stood at the formation of the survey. So minute was the survey, that the writer of the contemporary portion of the Saxon Chronicle records, with some asperity—"So very narrowly he caused it to be traced out, that there was not a single hide, nor one virgate of land, nor even, it is shame to tell, though it seemed to him no shame to do, an ox, nor a cow, nor a swine was left, that was not set down."

Domesday Survey is in two parts or volumes. The first, in folio, contains the counties of Bedford, Berks, Bucks, Cambridge, Chester and Lancaster, Cornwall, Derby, Devon, Dorset, Gloucester, Hants, Hereford, Herts, Huntingdon, Kent, Leicester and Rutland, Lincoln, Middlesex, Northampton, Nottingham, Oxford, Salop, Somerset, Stafford, Surrey, Sussex, Warwick, Wilts, Worcester, and York. The second volume, in quarto, contains the counties of Essex, Norfolk, and Suffolk.

Domesday Book was printed verbatim et literatim during the last century, in consequence of an address of the House of Lords to King George III. in 1767. It was not, however, commenced until 1773, and was completed early in 1783. In 1860, Her Majesty's Government, with the concurrence of the Master of the Rolls, determined to apply the art of photozincography to the production of a fac-simile of Domesday Book, under the superintendence of Colonel Sir Henry James, R.E., Director of the Ordnance Survey, Southampton. The fac-simile was completed in 1863.

FAC-SIMILES of NATIONAL MANUSCRIPTS, from WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR to QUEEN ANNE, selected under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, and Photozincographed, by Command of Her Majesty, by Colonel SIR HENRY JAMES, R.E., Director of the Ordnance Survey. Price, each Part, with translations and notes, double foolscap folio, 16s.

- Part I. (William the Conqueror to Henry VII.). 1865. (Out of print.)
 Part II. (Henry VIII. and Edward VI.). 1866.
 Part III. (Mary and Elizabeth). 1867.
 Part IV. (James I. to Anne). 1868.

The first Part extends from William the Conqueror to Henry VII., and contains autographs of the kings of England, as well as of many other illustrious personages famous in history, and some interesting charters, letters patent, and state papers. The second Part, for the reigns of Henry VIII. and Edward VI. consists principally of holograph letters and autographs of kings, princes, statesmen, and other persons of great historical interest, who lived during those reigns. The third Part contains similar documents for the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth, including a signed bill of Lady Jane Grey. The fourth Part concludes the series, and comprises a number of documents taken from the originals belonging to the Constable of the Tower of London; also several records illustrative of the Gunpowder Plot, and a woodcut containing portraits of Mary Queen of Scots and James VI., circulated by their adherents in England, 1580-3.

FAC-SIMILES OF ANGLO-SAXON MANUSCRIPTS. Photozincographed by the DIRECTOR-GENERAL of the ORDNANCE SURVEY, with translations by W. BASEVI SANDERS, Assistant Keeper of H.M. Records. Part I. Price 2l. 10s.

The Anglo-Saxon MSS. represented in this volume form the earlier portion of the collection of archives belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, and consist of a series of 25 charters, deeds, and wills, commencing with a record of proceedings at the first Synodal Council of Clovesto in 742, and terminating with the first part of a tripartite cheirograph, whereby Thurstan conveyed to the Church of Canterbury land at Wimbish, in Essex, in 1049, the sixth year of the reign of Edward the Confessor.

This work is intended to form a comprehensive Palæographic Series for Ireland. It will furnish characteristic specimens of the documents which have come down from each of the classes which, in past ages, formed principal elements in the population of Ireland, or exercised an influence in her affairs. With these reproductions will be combined fac-similes of writings connected with eminent personages or transactions of importance in the annals of the country to the end of the reign of Queen Anne.

The specimens are reproduced as nearly as possible in accordance with the originals, in dimensions, colouring, and general appearance. Characteristic examples of styles of writing and caligraphic ornamentation are, so far as practicable, associated with subjects of historic and linguistic interest. Descriptions of the various manuscripts are given by the Editor in the Introduction. The contents of the specimens are fully elucidated and printed in the original languages, opposite to the Fac-similes—line for line—without contractions—thus facilitating reference and aiding effectively those interested in palæographic studies.

In the work are also printed in full, for the first time, many original and important historical documents.

Part II.: From the Twelfth Century to A.D. 1299.

Part III. : From A.D. 1300 to end of reign of Henry VIII.

Part IV. 1. : From reign of Edward VI. to that of James I.

In Part IV. 2.—now in the Press—the Work will be carried down to the eighteenth century.
